Spring Approaches, or is it Already Here? By Katy Matchette

When is spring? It all depends on who you ask. According to some weather forecasters, “meteorological spring” arrived March 1. A few people reckon spring from immediately after Ground Hog’s Day. By this definition spring ends on the Friday before Memorial Day. There is some logic in that idea. We often feel that summer has started then.

Scientific types say that the seasons change with equinoxes and solstices. In plain English, that starts spring on what we consider its traditional date, sometime from March 19 to March 22. On one of those days each year, night and day both last about 12 hours. Afterward day/night proportions begin to change—and high school basketball tournaments erupt.

In case these arbitrary definitions miss the mark, you might consider “ecological spring.” This one starts whenever the first bulbs poke their fronds above the earth. The sun comes out; birds sing; and crocuses begin to bloom and it’s spring. By this definition in 2015 spring began for me during February. On the other hand, in Christmas Valley I’ve seen spring hide until mid or late April. This kind of spring is almost a state of mind. Christmas Valley has its own spring events. Beginning

Dental Van Returning to Christmas Valley Soon

The Dental Van and its personnel provide free dental care to low-income individuals with urgent needs. Qualifications for this program fall under the Federal Poverty Guidelines. Patients need to meet a certain financial criteria as well as have no dental insurance or access to dental care. Dental extractions, fillings and x-rays are procedures typically done with state-of-the-art equipment.

The Dental Van runs at a cost of $600.00 per day. Dr. Spencer Krueger DDS and his wife Mary LeFevre, PharmD, graciously volunteer their time, but donations are critical in order to keep this service returning. Thankfully, the bulk of financial assistance is from the Christmas Valley Community Church. Also, a thank you to clients of the Dental Van as they are so good about leaving a donation for the care they receive. Such donations can be made at the time of service, or mailed to:

North Lake Health District
P.O. Box 844
Christmas Valley, OR 97641

The Dental Van will again be in Christmas Valley soon. There are appointments still available for urgent care. Please call Shawn at 541-576-2110 to see if you qualify for an appointment.

Back in Thyme Herbals: Agrimony

By Linda McCoslin

This pretty perennial plant is native to Europe and Northern Asia, but is also cultivated in much of the United States and southern Canada.

Agrimony has spikes of tiny yellow flowers (church steeples) and fruit with hooked bristles at the top (cocklebur). Its scientific name—agrimonia eupatoria—comes from the ancient Greek king Mithridates VI Eupator. Although the plant has no narcotic properties, tradition holds that when placed under a persons head, Agrimony will induce a deep sleep that will last until it is removed. Agrimony has a long history of medicinal use. The English poet Michael Drayton once hailed it as an “all-heal” and through the ages it did seem to be a panacea.

The ancient Greeks used Agrimony for treating liver problems, poisoning, eye ailments, diarrhea, disorders of the gallbladder, and kidneys, it was also valued on medieval battlefields for stopping bleeding.

Anglo-Saxons made a solution from the leaves and seeds for healing wounds: which continued through, the Middle ages and afterwards, in a preparation called eau d'arquebusade or “Musket-shot water.” Later agrimony was prescribed for athletes foot.

In the United States and Canada late into the 19th century, the plant was prescribed for skin diseases, asthma, coughs, gynecological complaints, as a gargle for sore throats, and more.

Agrimony grows wild by roadsides, fields, and woods. The parts used are aerial parts. Constituents consist of: Tannins, Agrimonin, Flavonoids, Furanocoumarins, Polysaccharides, Bitters, Volatile oil, Silica, Vitamins B1, K, and C. Actions are: Antibiotic, Astringent, Analgesic, Anti-inflammatory, Antispasmodic, Antilithic, Antibacterial, Digestive tonic, Vulnerary, Cholagogue, Diuretic, Emmenagogue, Febrifuge, and Haemostatic. It is used for peptic ulcers, gastritis, colitis, and diarrhea by protecting the gut lining from irritation and inflammation and counteracts infection. Bitters stimulate the digestive juices and bile from the liver and gallbladder, enhancing digestion and absorption, improving bowel function. It is used for gallstones and cirrhosis of the liver. It also lowers blood sugar.

Agrimony helps the immune system combat bacterial and viral infections, as well as inhibits tumor growth.

Agrimony is used in Teas or Tinctures. The Tincture is stronger than an infusion, and an infusion should be taken three times a day at the rate of one cup of boiling water to two teaspoons of dried herb, steeped 10 to 15 minutes covered. Its low toxicity is particularly suitable for children's illnesses. It stops irritation of the urinary tract that causes the child to have the urge to urinate often at night thus helping stop bed wetting. Agrimony can prevent the development of type 1 Diabetes, and lowers blood sugars and counters excessive thirst in type 2.

Shed Hunt Responsibly and Legally

From ODFW

A few people have already been cited by Oregon State Police for trying to cut antlers off deer and elk skulls they found in the outdoors. Others have wrongly picked up bighorn sheep skulls with horns attached in the Owyhee Unit, where a disease outbreak has left dead scavenged sheep on the landscape.

ODFW and Oregon State Police are reminding shed hunters that they can only pick up naturally shed deer and elk antlers in the wild, not antlers with skulls attached. The skulls and horns of bighorn sheep should be left where they are found, as rules state horns can only be taken during authorized hunting seasons. "If possible, please get a GPS location and take a photo of the dead sheep, then contact your local ODFW office to help wildlife biologists track the disease," said Phil Milburn, ODFW district wildlife biologist in Ontario.

ODFW and OSP are also asking shed hunters to follow these other rules to protect big game at this time of year, when animals need to be conserving energy to get through the winter:

- Don't disturb big game animals. Don't approach animals or follow the same ones on a daily basis.
- Respect road and area closures. These are in place to protect winter range and wintering big game. Some ODFW wildlife areas are entirely closed to public access during late winter; other areas have road and travel restrictions. More information on specific closures below or see the 2016 Oregon Big Game Regulations.

- Don't take vehicles off-roading. The ground is water-logged at this time of year and off-roading in the wrong place can damage critical wildlife and fish habitat. Travel by foot or horseback instead.
- Try not to be in the same spot every day. Deer and elk might need to be in that spot for food or cover, and your presence will keep them from it.
- Keep dogs under your control. Don't let dogs approach or follow wildlife. State law prohibits dogs (and people) from harassing wildlife. (OAR 498.102 and 498.006)
- No trespassing on private property. You always need permission to be on private land. Antlers that are shed on private land below belong to the landowner under Oregon statutes.

"With shed season upon us, we are getting a lot of sheep skulls and horns picked up," notes Phil Milburn, district wildlife biologist in Ontario, where a disease outbreak has killed 70 percent of the Owyhee Unit's bighorn sheep. (No sheep tags will be available in the Owyhee Unit this year due to the outbreak and ODFW continues to monitor the extent of the disease.) "Remember it is only legal to pick up naturally shed antlers from deer and elk, not antlers or horns with skulls attached." (Unlike deer and elk antlers, bighorn sheep and Rocky Mtn goats do not shed their horns each year.)

People are also allowed to sell or exchange shed antlers, but certain rules apply. Only naturally shed antlers, antlers detached from the skull, or a skull split apart can be sold or exchanged. For antlers detached from the skull or skulls split apart, the seller must have legally taken the ani-

This view from high up on Table Rock clearly shows the difference adequate water can make. The circular, pivot-watered fields offer a dramatic contrast to the grey, sage-covered desert.

What a Difference Water Makes

M.E. "Jack" Swisher
Fort Rock Homestead Museum

Homesteaders worked hard to make a go of dry-land farming in the early 1900s. A few succeeded but many folks found good-paying jobs elsewhere as the USA economy heated up in the buildup to WWI. After fighting two world wars, electric lines finally arrived here from Columbia Basin dams (1954). Electric pumps, deep wells, paved highways and abundant sunshine allow modern alfalfa farming to flourish in the desert.

Folks who like views will enjoy walking the top of Table Rock.

Last year the Fort Rock Homestead Museum provided 2,500 visitors the opportunity to explore – for learning, inspiration and enjoyment. The public is encouraged to attend board meetings, as we prepare for the 2016 Season.

The Board of Directors meet the second Tuesday each month at 9:30 a.m., in the visitors center at the Fort Rock Homestead Museum.

Phone # Correction

In the March 1st Desert Whispers a submitted article included an incorrect phone number for Wellness Nursing's Way. The correct number is (541)576-2103.

People have been asking what Patricia Widenoja DNP, FNP will "do" at Wellness Nursing's Way. The short answer is "Nursing", which is what Patricia has always delivered to clients. Activities include listening, counseling, advocating, drawing on a diverse knowledge base to create a customized plan for each client. Patricia draws on her knowledge base as a Family Nurse Practitioner which allows diagnosis and treatment in the more familiar medical model, but it is done from a philosophy of Nursing. Wellness Nursing's Way will refer for services not offered. The practice is not set up for trauma like suturing, casting, etcetera.

Spring...

in late March or more likely sometime in April, pivots come on. Perhaps we need our own Christmas Valley spring festival dedicated to pivots. They certainly define the year. Some folks watch for birds in spring. In Christmas Valley, we watch for the first sage rats to cross the road. Then it's time to sharpen shooting skills. Those moving targets are tiny!

We human beings love to celebrate spring. It symbolizes fertility—for the fields, and for the farmers. New life sprouts everywhere after a winter of dry, dead sticks. Babies are born, hatched, or sprouted—and they are all beautiful. Even baby sagebrush enjoys its infant cuteness.

Ancient farmers celebrated their fertility gods each spring—often wildly. Somehow spring seems like the beginning. Even today the people of Iran, Kosovo, Turkey and other Middle Eastern nations reckon the new year from around March 20.

In Japan the traditional people honor their ancestors in spring. On the day of the equinox they make a literally clean start to their lives by cleaning out their homes as well as laying flowers on graves. A few generations back American women felt duty-bound to initiate spring by house cleaning and cleansing tonics to renew everyone's health. Spring promises us new beginnings.

How do we celebrate spring's arrival? Non-traditional celebrations include taking trips, picnicking, and cranking up the grill. More traditionally, we observe Easter in some way. We decorate and hunt Easter eggs, help the "Easter Bunny" fill children's Easter baskets, and buy new clothes. Some of us trek to Fort Rock for the annual sunrise service. How appropriate to celebrate Resurrection in the spring! New life abounds, reassuring us that there is hope for us humans.

Maybe you're tired of letting all those years go to waste. Well personally I miss it badly and I think we could have a great time at it! Isn't it time we have our own marching band for our Christmas Valley 4th of July parade and Mosquito festival parade?

4-H LEGO Club has BIG Plans for 20ft Tall Tower

Not long ago, at a meeting of the North Lake County 4-H Lego Club, volunteer leader Mark Joseph Russell was telling club members about the current World Record for the tallest Lego™ tower. "It was built last year in Italy," he said. "With over half a million bricks, it was over 114 feet tall!"

The club members in attendance were somewhat impressed. Hayden Joye commented, "I bet we could build one at least 20 feet tall!" And so, the wheels of imagination began to spin rapidly and plans began to form.

A standard Lego is 3/8 of an inch tall. Simply stacking 640 of these on top of each other will give a height of 20 feet. However, the key is to design the tower to stand on its own, even through a mild earthquake.

Russell starting designing a tower over the next few weeks, crunching numbers to see just how many Lego bricks it would take to make a free-standing tower 20 feet tall. His first design, by his own words was, "something less than elegant" and would require over 46,000 bricks. After going back to the drawing board three times, considering engineering as well as aesthetics, Russell arrived at a sleek, almost rocket-shaped design. This fourth rendition of the tower is structured to use less than 22,000 pieces.

"The club already has a couple thousand pieces for the project," says Russell, "and the kids are working on a label redemption fund raiser." The club has received several donations of Lego pieces, as well as a bit of cash which goes to help fund the project. Several different sources for funding are being explored.

Russell goes on to describe the project as, "awesome for the kids. This will let each one of them be part of something bigger than themselves. This will probably be the tallest Lego structure ever in Lake County."

After the tower is built and displayed at the Lake County Fair in September, it will be carefully disassembled and the pieces used again and again in future group projects. "That's what I love about Lego," comments Russell, "you can build something amazing, then take it apart and build something else amazing."

North Lake 4-H LEGO Club currently has 11 registered members. The club meets each Wednesday from 4:00pm to 6:00pm at the Park and Rec office next to the library. If you can't make it until 4:15 or 4:30, no problem. If you can't make it every week, no problem. If you can't make it until after such-and-such sport season is over, no problem. Meetings include time for LEGO education, free building, and special projects.

Join the fun!

Secular Non-Profit Roundtable Report

By Devon Noll

The Secular Non-Profit Roundtable was held on Saturday, March 5, 2016. Unfortunately, misinformation regarding the purpose of this discussion roundtable had circulated through the community, so attendance was low. This was NOT a fundraising event for the Friends of the Library, but rather an outreach to share a generous $1,000.00 donation for radio advertising for this year with a graduated commitment over the following two years with other non-profit organizations, and an attempt to create for-profit and non-profit partnerships to allow for future fundraising efforts on behalf of those non-profits while benefiting the local for-profit sponsor with more community exposure and support.

In attendance were Barb Johnson, Mark Johnson, and Devon Noll from the Friends of the Library; Amador Aguirre and Debby Moorehouse from the Chamber of Commerce; Barbara Ferrando from the Weekend Market; Earl DeMint from the Music Foundation; community leader Ron Johnson; Ginger Casto from SCOED; and county commissioner Ken Kestner. Amador Aguirre and Robert Thompson were representing the Christmas Valley Rural Fire Protection District.

The first part of the meeting was an open discussion with Ginger Casto and Ken Kestner about the ways that the county and state were available to help organizations and businesses within Christmas Valley and North Lake County to build strong downtown areas that could be used to develop more community participation so that the community of Christmas Valley and our neighboring communities could move forward through the proposed partnerships and how the influence of focusing on tourism could help us to do controlled economic growth. Ginger and Ken both provided us with contact information for people who had already created such types of organizational partnerships in other small Oregon towns and could help us with seeking out grants and low interest business development loans to further our efforts.

Barb Johnson, who is coordinating the advertising program, then explained that the people donating the money had offered a three year commitment for this funding, fully funding it this year and in decreasing amounts to go with matching funds raised here for the next two years. She described how this money would be used to promote various activities and events starting with the Fourth of July this year with the first ads tentatively scheduled for mid-April and then a blitz just before the Fourth. It was the hope of the Friends of the Library that by creating a joint advertising program using radio and print media here in Lake County as well as surrounding counties, we could attract more tourists and benefit all concerned.

Amador Aguirre at that point interjected with a list of things that the Chamber of Commerce is discussing for the Fourth as a way of getting input from those of us there, and many suggestions and concerns were voiced for him and Debby to take back to the Chamber as part of their planning. The Friends of the Library have asked for a final list of events that can be included in the advertising. Earl DeMint talked about the concert this year and what he would be doing to insure safety for both attendees and bands.

After a short lunch break, the attendees broke up into small discussion groups, taking the time to get to know each other better and discuss future projects that the community might want to explore. There was also a timeline for the next year on the wall and several people worked at putting up post-it notes of upcoming events, holidays, and potential ideas for new events, both for-profit and non-profit organizations, at some time in the future.

The Friends of the Library look forward to working with those in attendance on future events, and we encourage people who did not get a chance to attend to contact the Friends of the Library for more information on what can be done to expand and develop these efforts. Contact Barb Johnson at 541-306-9607, Devon Noll at 541-576-4265, Barbara Ferrando at 650-455-0052, or Julie at the library or 541-619-1880.

I'd like the sun to come out.

I'd like it to stop raining.

I'd go golfing if the snow would just melt.

I'd rather be in Florida.

I'd of cleared the walk but I'd already put my snow shovel in storage.

I'd go fly a kite but it's too windy.

Shed Hunting From page 8

mal (e.g. on a big game tag).

Past poaching problems led to the regulations. Skulls that are split have less value and are not eligible for record books. These regulations reduce the incentive for someone to kill animals on winter range or out of season, hide the skull, and go back months later and "find it." A Hide/Antler Dealer permit ($34) is needed to purchase antlers for use in the manufacture of handcrafted items.

Oregon's buck deer shed their antlers from late December through March and bull elk shed them from late February through early April. Antlers begin regrowing soon after they are shed, with most growth happening in spring and summer months. The antlers are covered by "velvet" throughout this growth period, before hardening to bone in late July-early August for elk and late August-early September for deer. This makes antlers ready in time for breeding season (in September for elk and November for deer), when male deer or elk will fight for dominance using their antlers.

Agrimony contains the chemical compound agrimophol, which expels parasites by causing them to lose their hold on the lining of the bladder and intestine so that they are evacuated with the urine or stool. This substance also kills the organism that causes River blindness, a tropical disease in which parasites infest the eye, and many common bacteria, including Escherichia coli (E. Coli) and Staphylococcus, as well as the bacteria that cause dysentery and typhoid fever.

CONSIDERATIONS FOR USE

While agrimony is effective for many forms of diarrhea, it can aggravate constipation. Blockage can result if you take agrimony at the same time as psyllium powders, such as Metamucil, or if you take it with prunes or prune juice. Agrimony stimulates the body to produce immune bodies known as B cells. These cells produce complex chemicals called antigens that attack invading microbes. Certain kinds of cancer including chronic leukemia, multiple myeloma, and ovarian cancer, deplete the bodies supply of B cells. For people with these types of cancer, Agrimony may offer a beneficial immunostimulant side effect. In addition it is helpful in some types of breast cancer. A number of other conditions, however result from attacks on healthy tissues by B cells with defects in their genetic programming. For that reason, people with rheumatoid arthritis, myasthenia gravis, gravis disease, hashimotos thyroiditis, lupus, Sjogrens syndrome, or any other autoimmune disease should avoid agrimony.
