THREE SUBJECTS TODAY FISHING STOCK MARKET REAL ESTATE

We will take fishing first.

Fishing in Oregon is fun. I have visited the streams, lakes and oceans in many parts of the world but none of these spots have given the pleasure that the many places in Oregon have furnished to Roy Harrod and myself on our numerous fishing trips.

STOCK MARKET.

Don't own any stock.

Don't know anything about the market and I don't believe that my many friends, that have been moaning the last few weeks about their losses, know much more than I do.

REAL ESTATE.

On this subject I believe that my more than 40 years experience in helping to build the West qualifies me to write with some degree of authority.

The future of real estate is as bright as America's.

They grew up together . . . the nation and the profession . . . and today both stand on the threshold of new expansion that will dwarf their past growth.

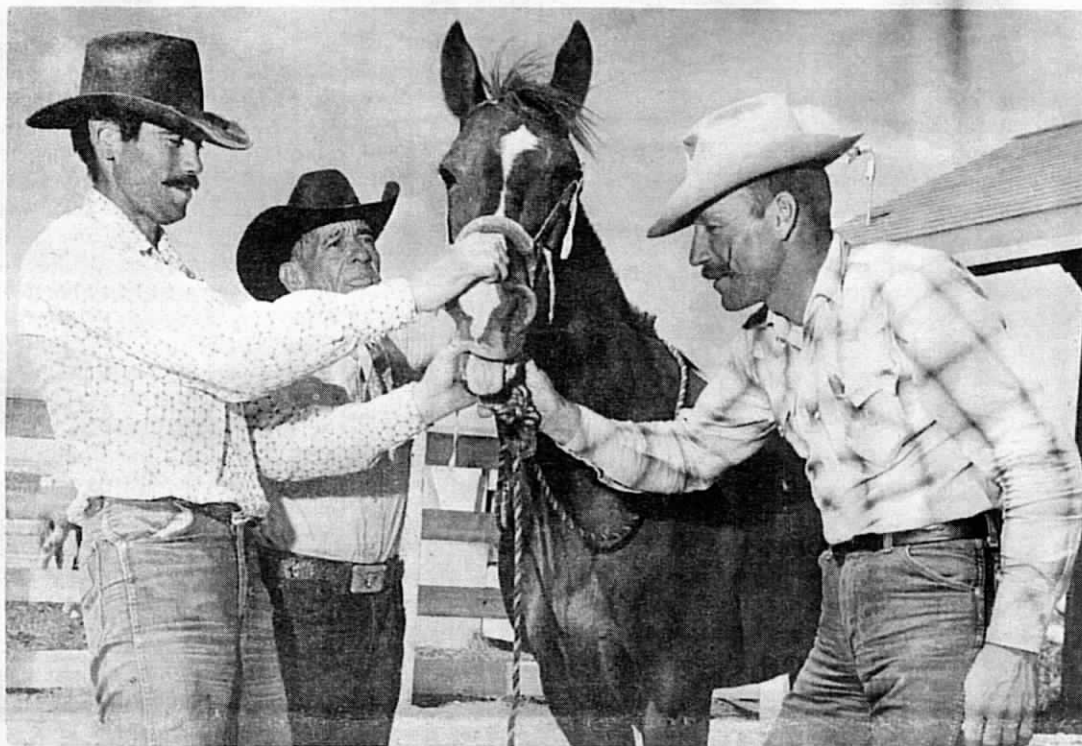

America's population is increasing by 50,000 persons a week. Seizing new opportunities, families are on the move; housing developments are springing up everywhere; industries are flourishing and moving, taking key employees with them.

To meet the demand for housing — better housing in step with our rising standards of living — trained men and women are needed in the real estate calling to help erase our growing pains. They are needed to help business and industry find new sites, new factories and offices. They are needed to provide the financing for these vast changes, to manage the commercial and apartment buildings, to appraise the value of all the real property involved.

Today, 6 out of 10 families own their own homes. And each year more and more families are able to achieve this long-cherished goal.

Becoming part of this vital profession means becoming part of the country's growth, part of a community's growth, and part of the growth of many families. It is a field with horizons as broad as itself, a business in which a

GIVING THE ONCE OVER—This is the type of activity that will prevail at the first annual Horse Swapping Days and Rodeo at Christmas Valley on July 21-22. The age-old Western custom of trading horses and mules will be revived for the entertainment of Property Owners and visitors. From left, Ken Morehouse, local Brand inspector San Nabirelli and Ed Bruno of the ZX Ranch give Laddie Joe an inspection in preparation for the event. Friends and neighbors are invited to see the two-day crammed action, which includes square dancing, barbecues and even Pony Express races.

Dancing, Exciting Riding, Barbecue Set for July 21-22

The biggest and greatest thing to happen in Christmas Valley since the M. Penn Phillips Co. started to develop this community, will occur with the gala presentation of the First Annual Horse Swapping Days and Rodeo Saturday and Sunday, July 21-22.

A large turnout of more than 3000 people is expected to attend the two-day jam packed event. Phillips Company officials invite all Property Owners and their friends to attend this extravaganza. There will be no charge for the event.

Visitors are reminded that rooms will be at a premium. Those wishing to stay at the comfortable Christmas Valley Lodge should make their reservations as soon as possible. Contact Mel Thayer, manager of the Lodge for reservations.

Phil Washington, General Project Manager of Christmas Valley, explained: "While we can't take

By CARLO P. GIUNTINI
President, M. Penn Phillips Co.

During the last few months we have received a great many letters from customers who have visited Christmas Valley and have inspected their property. We have reprinted some of these letters in this column when they raised questions or made comments of general interest.

The letter we have just received from Mr. Hugh Conley of Los Angeles is of more than general interest.

Mr. Conley is the head of Conley-Prior & Associates in Los Angeles, a leading firm of Consulting Structural Engineers. Accordingly, his first-hand report of his six-day inspection, which included an aerial tour of the entire valley, reflects expert opinion, particularly as he comments on the progress of our construction work.

Although we are quite understandably delighted when we receive letters as enthusiastic as Mr. Conley's, it is true that we sometimes also receive letters of complaint. Naturally, we are not quite as quick to print these letters of complaint.

However, in fairness to our own people who have, let's face it, been pretty rushed these last few months, I believe we have been quick to answer every letter and to correct the cause of complaint.

We have received a number of letters recently from people who were planning to stop at Christmas Valley en route to the Seattle Fair this summer, and the most common inquiry is about motel accommodations.

I would like to say that you can always count on a room being available, but this is not the case. If you are planning a trip this summer, be sure to write for reservations. In some cases when our own motel is full, the manager will try to arrange other accommodations in the true tradition of Oregon hospitality.

ON USE OF PROPERTY

RE: CHRISTMAS VALLEY

Gentlemen:

My wife and I have just recently returned from a six-day visit to Christmas Valley, and one of the purposes of this letter is to tell you that never before have we been made to feel as welcome as we were there.

The atmosphere of warm friendliness and hospitality was something that we will always remember. Our entire stay was a truly delightful experience, which was made even more so by the fact that the meals at the lodge were delicious and the accommodations in the motel excellent.

You are to be congratulated on having two such capable and friendly people as Mr. Mel Thayer and Mr. Atchison at the lodge. Neither of them could have done more to make us feel at home.

The reason for our visit was, of course, to see at first-hand what was happening in Christmas Valley, and we came away filled with enthusiasm. Which brings me to the second reason for this letter. As your records will show, we are buying two 40-acre parcels on contract, the SE ¼ and also the SW ¼ of the NE ¼ of Sec. 8, T 28 S, R 16 E. We would like to start developing these 80 acres so as to get them under cultivation in the near future, but we are wondering whether or not this is permissible since the property is not paid for in full and we do not have the deeds. Would you please let us know about this?

If we are permitted to proceed with the development, would it be possible to have the boundaries of the property staked before long? We noticed while we were up there that the corners of Sec. 20 in the same Township had already been staked, so it should not be too much of a job for the surveyors to extend the survey north to Sec. 8.

We realize that the road to the property may be a different matter. We are fully aware of the fact that a development as large as Christmas Valley is not something that can be completed overnight. In fact, during an aerial inspection of the Valley with Bill Stanfield we were amazed to see how much had been done already.

We know we will have to be patient but, if we are allowed to start developing our property, we would appreciate it if the road to it could be constructed as soon as it can be conveniently scheduled.

We are awaiting your reply with a great deal of interest, and are looking forward to our next visit to Christmas Valley which, we hope, will be early in September.

Very truly yours,

(Signed) HUGH G. CONLEY,

Sherman Oaks, California

DON ADAMS

Phillips Appoints Don Adams Calif. Sales Manager

M. Penn Phillips has announced the appointment of Don Adams as California sales manager for Christmas Valley with offices at the Azusa, Calif., headquarters.

Don has been working with sales people for many years. And he is no stranger to Christmas Valley. He was formerly sales manager for Davenport Real Estate and Investment Co., which started selling Christmas Valley in September, 1961.

His real estate experience includes work in the Antelope Valley, Salton Sea and Hawaii.

World of Experience

"We are very fortunate to have a man of Don's calibre and experience to augment our sales organization," said Phillips. "We're sure you'll find him a big help to any question or problem you may have."

Adams was a sales manager for Electrolux Corp. at the age of 19, with a large crew of men. This is where he first learned how to sell and to help others sell.

After 15 years as sales manager and vice-president of sales for Muntz Car Co. and Muntz TV, where at one time he had personal charge of about 900 direct salesmen throughout the U. S., Adams entered the land business in California in 1957.

As he had in his other endeavors,

3000 to Attend Horse Swapping Days, Rodeo

care of all our visitors at the Lodge and the Christmas Valley Motel, we are coordinating efforts with leaders of nearby areas to insure adequate quarters for all our visiting friends. But they've got to know in enough time to handle the big crowd we're expecting for this outstanding Western production."

"We at the M. Penn Phillips Co. and all of the people who have been working hard to make this Horse Swapping Days Event such a success feel very honored that Mark Hatfield, the Governor of Oregon, has acknowledged our invitation to be present during the event," said Washington.

Governor Salutes Event

"The Governor has an extremely busy schedule but has reassured us that if at all possible he would be looking forward to joining the fun at the Horse Swapping Days. We sincerely hope his duties will permit him to attend our first big event," said Washington.

The curtain raiser to the two-day attraction will be the Horse-Swapping activity on Saturday from 9 to 11 a.m.

"This age-old Western custom is being revived by us because so many of the people in this part of Oregon have repeatedly told us they would enjoy a return of horse swapping," said Washington.

From 6 Years on Up

"We'll have entries from 6-year-old Sam Giles to some who were a little bashful in giving their ages," said Washington. "These are the ones you've got to watch," he warned, "because they probably have had a lot of experience in horse swapping with the Indians."

There will be another session of horse swapping on Sunday from 9 to 11 a.m.

The biggest thrills will come from the Jackpot Amateur Rodeo.

Adams rose quickly. His good work impressed Phillips, who promoted him to his present position.

deo, eight hours of rock 'em, sock 'em action in the two-day period. The rodeo is on from 1 to 5 p.m. both days.

There will be eight events on the action-loaded card, including bareback riding, saddle bronc riding, cow riding, calf roping, team roping, bulldogging, girl's barrel race and a reined cow horse contest.

Prize $300 Saddle

Betty Morehouse, rodeo secretary, said an entrance fee of $20 will be charged for each rodeo event and a $10 fee in the barrel race and cow horse contest. There will be two separate jackpots, one for Saturday and one for Sunday. Half the entry fee will go into each pot. The pot will be split four ways, 40-30-20-10.

An average will be figured in each event, and the winner of the two-day average in each event will receive a Trophy Buckle.

The All-Around championship will be figured on a point basis for the six riding and roping events, 40-30-20-10 points for each place won in the two jackpots. The same points will also go to the winners of the averages.

A $300 Hamley Roping Saddle will be awarded to the winner of the All-Around championship.

Enter Now

"All stock will be numbered, and we will draw for stock," said Ernie Messner, the arena director. There will be no charge for stock.

Entries close 8 p.m. Friday, July 20. If you can't come Friday, call Betty Morehouse at Silver Lake 576-2212 or Silver Lake 576-2270 or write to her at Box 41, Silver Lake, Oregon.

Christmas Valley Gets Recognition At Bend Pageant

Christmas Valley will receive national attention at the famous Bend (Oregon) Mirror Pond Water Pageant, thanks to the efforts of President Carlo Giuntini.

Giuntini donated a city lot in Christmas Valley to the Bend Chamber of Commerce to be used as one of the prizes in the famous 25-year-old Bend Water Pageant, which will be held July 27-29 on the Deschutes River.

The Pageant is a night parade of lighted floats which enter the viewing area through an arch, 80 ft. wide and 60 ft. high. The arch is lighted by five basic colors but constantly changing shades of color are available by manipulating switches.

The colorful event annually attracts thousands of spectators from all over the country. Newspapers, television stations and magazines carry extensive coverage of the Pageant.

Thanks Giuntini

Marion E. Cady, manager of the Bend Chamber of Commerce, thanked Giuntini for the gift of the Christmas Valley city lot.

"The Board of Directors accepted with gratitude the gift of a city lot in the Christmas Valley development," wrote Cady. "The lot will be used in the promotion of our famous Mirror Pond Water Pageant."

"Be assured that we do appreciate your generosity in making the lot available to us."

THE PRESIDENT ANSWERS

Dear Mr. Conley:

Thank you for your letter telling about your six-day visit to Christmas Valley and your meeting with Mr. Thayer and Mr. Atchison.

As I understand it, your question regarding the two 40-acre parcels you have purchased on contract, is—Can you start developing this property? In other words, put it under cultivation before you have fully paid for it?

The answer is emphatically YES. Even though you do not have the deeds to the property, you have full use of the property from the first day.

Your question, "Would it be possible to have the boundaries of the property staked before long?" We appreciate your own comment, "We are fully aware of the fact that a development as large as Christmas Valley is not something that can be developed overnight." However, a request from a customer automatically gets top priority, no matter how busy our construction and engineering crews are. And we can definitely assure you that your land will be staked out as you requested within five days.

Regarding your question about the new roads, our construction schedule calls for completion by September. However, at the rate things are going on other projects, it is likely that these roads will be completed before that time.

Because your letter states so clearly the questions that may be in the minds of other Christmas Valley land owners, we are taking the liberty of publishing it, with this answer, in the next issue of Christmas Valley Gazette.

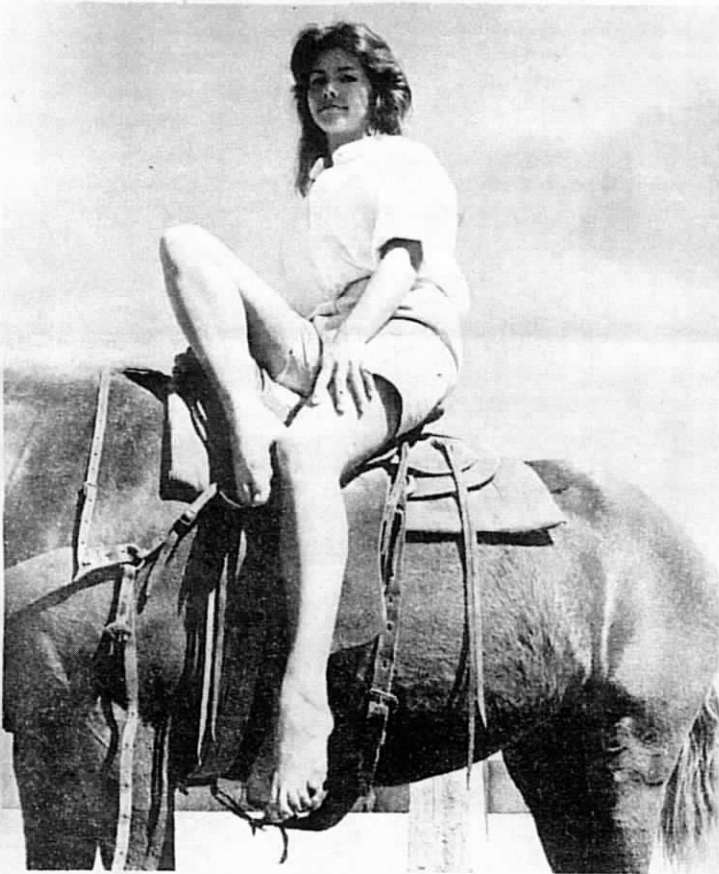

I am sure your first-hand report will prompt other land owners who have not yet had a chance to visit Christmas Valley to do so this summer.

Thanks again for your letter, and perhaps we will be meeting personally one of these days at Christmas Valley.

Sincerely,
(Signed) CARLO P. GIUNTINI
President,
M. Penn Phillips Co.

RODEO QUEEN — Blond Bonnie Nordman will rule over her domain — the Christmas Valley Rodeo Arena, Saturday and Sunday, July 21-22, during the Horse Swapping Days. Bonnie, who lives in Redmond, Oregon, is expected to gain other honors during the two-day program. Bonnie will be competing for prizes against the best riders in Oregon in some of the thrilling and dangerous Rodeo events. Property Owners who haven't visited Christmas Valley lately are asked to notice the attractive landscaping — if they can get their eyes off Bonnie for a minute — around the Lodge.

QUEEN OF HORSE SWAPPING—Red-haired Toni Savage, obviously one of Christmas Valley's fairest residents, will reign over the two-day event. Toni, who is an accomplished equestrienne, has all the necessary attributes to go along with her regal title.

No Arguments That Judges Picked Best Queen Candidates

There may be some questions and differences of opinion over judging some of the gymkhana events, but we're sure there won't be any arguments over the selection of our two lovely queens for the Rodeo and the Horse Swapping Days.

And the committee didn't have to go very far to select the beauties.

Queen of the Horse Swapping Days is red-haired Toni Savage, obviously one of Christmas Valley's fairest residents. Toni, who is an accomplished equestrienne, will reign over the horse swapping activity.

Traders will be hard pressed to keep their minds on the swapping what with such a pretty girl around the premises.

Blond Bonnie

From nearby Redmond, Oregon, the committee wisely selected blond Bonnie Nordham as Rodeo Queen. Bonnie's domain is the Christmas Valley Rodeo Arena.

Between looking pretty and beautifying the scenery, Bonnie will take time out to compete for prizes against the best riders in Oregon and other parts in some of the thrilling and dangerous Rodeo events.

Portland Chamber Visits Our Valley

The Portland Chamber of Commerce Agriculture Committee recently made an inspection tour of the Christmas Valley.

R. C. Long and Oris Rudd manned the microphones during the trip on the chartered bus. They told the Chamber representatives of the early history of the Valley and the part the M. Penn Phillips Company has played in the growth and development of Christmas Valley.

The Chamber group made its morning coffee break stop at the Christmas Valley Lodge. They also stopped at Squaw Butte Experimental Station.

Golf Course Building Far Ahead of Schedule

We know all our Property Owners and friends are anxious to try out the Christmas Valley golf course as soon as possible, but we can readily assure you there's no one quite as eager to start play as Carlo Giuntini, president of M. Penn Phillips Co.

Perhaps that eagerness and the desire by Giuntini to bring recreational facilities to Christmas Valley Property Owners as soon as possible best explain the tremendous progress made on the sporty 9-hole course.

"We have gone considerably ahead of schedule," modestly conceded Giuntini, who happens to be an avid golfer.

"In fact," continued Giuntini, "I hope to start planting grass by August."

Installing Sprinkler System

No one dreamed, except perhaps Giuntini, who also designed the 9-hole layout, that work would have progressed as rapidly as it has.

All the brush has been cleared and the rough grading finished.

Right now, extra-man crews are installing pipes for the sprinkler system. They're busy laying in about 3 miles of pipeline to insure the best watering system.

"It won't be long now before you start hearing the cry of 'Fore,'" said one observer.

Joe Ward, a veteran golf course man of Bend, Oregon, is in charge of the course construction. Joe, like Giuntini, promises quick action.

For Average Golfers

The scenic Christmas Valley 9-hole course will measure 3405 yards but can be extended to 3550 yards for tournament play.

"I was thinking of the average golfer when I designed the Christmas Valley golf course," said Giuntini. "For example, I've put in only five sand traps on the entire course."

"I feel that a sand trap only penalizes the golfer who already has trouble enough. Sand traps don't bother pros, anyhow, so why have too many of them. The average player is not out on the course to prove he can beat the pros; he's out there to have a good time and healthful recreation," said Giuntini.

Premium on Accuracy

"I could have made the course longer," continued Giuntini, "but I don't think added length adds anything to the enjoyment of the game. You'll find the trend now is for shorter courses, with a premium set on placing shots and accuracy of second and third shots to the greens."

Next spring 500 trees, mostly native to the area, will be planted to lend beauty and additional trouble for wayward golfers — to the course.

"We're setting up a nursery for native pines but the majority of the trees will be poplars, elms, and cottonwoods," said Giuntini.

Driving Range

The fairways will be sown with blue grass. In winter Italian Rye will be planted to reinforce the blue grass. The greens will be a strain of bent grass best suited for Christmas Valley.

Giuntini said a driving range and practice putting greens are also planned. He said that in addition to the big Christmas Valley Lake, which will be along the 9th fairway, another water hazard will be installed. This one will affect play on the 4th and 6th holes.

Giuntini has a par-3 hole for the opening assignment at Christmas Valley golf course, a novel idea since most courses have longer starting holes.

New Concept

"It's a different concept," admitted Giuntini, "but I think people would rather be near the club if they have to wait than somewhere on the first fairway."

The first hole is the shortest at 170 yards. The longest is 545 yards, a tough par 5 for anyone who wants to gamble on reaching it in two shots. These are two par 3s, two par-5s, and five par-4s, giving the Christmas Valley course a par 36 rating.

PLENTY OF FUN FOR KIDS AT BIG EVENT

The kids haven't been forgotten in the planning for the Horse Swapping Days at Christmas Valley. Actually, you don't have to plan anything for them; they make their own fun.

However, there will be two events for the kids in gymkhana events. Kids can participate in the pole bending race and the keyhole race. There is no entry fee for the kids.

Activity will be in two age divisions for the kids, 8 through 12, and 12 through 15.

Kids can also participate in the horse swapping event. All they need is the horse.

HORSE TRADER MEL THAYER—Manager of the Christmas Valley Lodge will be a tough man to out-bargain in the first annual Horse Swapping Days event July 21-22. Thayer is a fine judge of horse flesh, and visitors are warned that Mel gets the best of it.

NEW MARKET OPEN FOR BUSINESS

"We're open and ready for business," announced beaming Al and Connie Baert in reporting the official opening of their Christmas Valley Grocery Store. The Grocery Store is located on the corner of Christmas Valley Lane and Christmas Tree Road.

"We have a very good stock of groceries right now and will be adding to our inventory as we go along," said Baert. "Pretty soon we'll start adding our line of hard goods".

The store is located in a spacious 2000 sq. ft. building. It is designed as a complete general store and will carry general merchandise, groceries, meats, vegetables and hardware.

Post Office Site

The store will also be the site of the Christmas Valley Post Office. And what could be more appropriate for you Property Owners than to send friends Holiday Greetings with commemorative stamps from Christmas Valley?

Baert said his daughter-in-law, Bonnie Baert, who formerly was in charge of the Ft. Rock Post Office, will conduct operations at the Christmas Valley Post Office.

Phillips Company officials said they are now conducting a special poll to determine the number of residents in the Christmas Valley area.

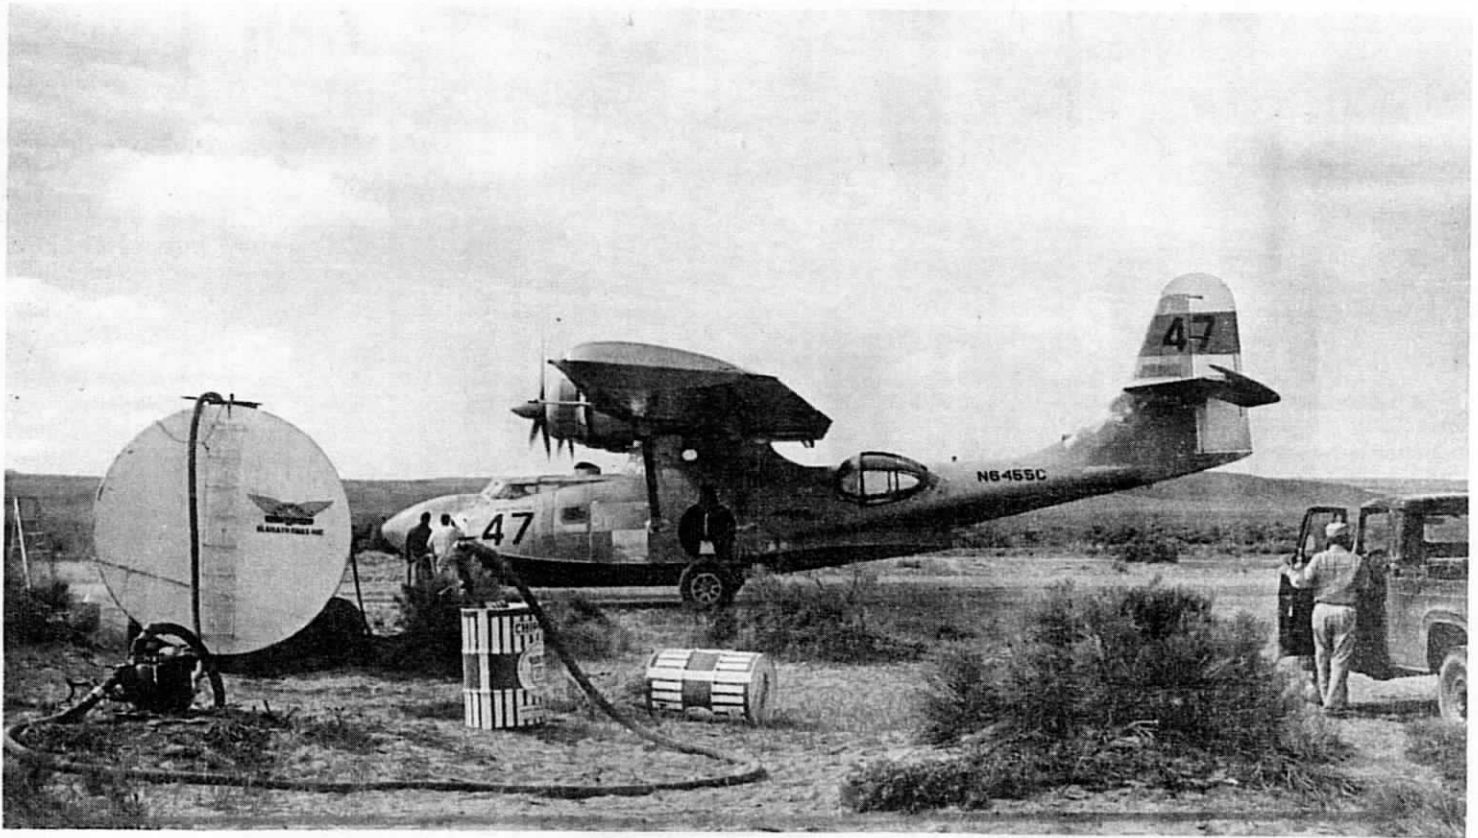

4 MORE UNITS ADDED TO MOTEL

Four more units have just been completed in the Christmas Valley Motel, according to Phil Washington.

"We set our target date to get the rooms finished to accommodate more visitors for the Horse Swapping Days and it worked out just right."

"This makes a total of 12 nice big, comfortable rooms available at the Motel," added Washington.

The Motel is located right on the shore of the Christmas Valley Lake and within walking distance of the Christmas Valley Golf Course.

Spraying Sage Brush From Air Proves To Be Successful Job

An outstanding development to Christmas Valley agricultural potential was recently demonstrated by the Bureau of Land Management.

The Bureau employed a PBV Flying Boat, equipped with 100 feet spray booms, to spray 5700 acres in five separate tracts, according to Bud Schrode, BLM Range Conservationist. The project was finished June 16.

Farmers Air Service of Klamath Falls, operating out of the big Christmas Valley Airport, contracted the job for $3.05 per acre, according to Earl Liston, who was in charge of the operation.

There's no question about the effectiveness of this spraying service.

Last June, the 3400-acre Viewpoint Ranch acreage was sprayed. The area was then seeded last Fall. Today, instead of former brushland, the 3400 acres are lush with Crested Wheatgrass.

In fact, this Crested Wheatgrass has caused region-wide attraction, including visits by Fish and Wildlife Service personnel and the Portland Chamber of Commerce Agriculture Committee.

Pilots John Retterath and Jay Long revealed an interesting facet of the spray operation. They can put water into the big birds without landing the PBVs. They have perfected a snorkel-like device that scoops water into the cargo hold while flying low over a body of water.

It is said that Canadian flying fire fighters use this same method of refueling their water supply.

OPERATION SAGE BRUSH SPRAYING — Crew is shown loading huge PBV Flying Boat with chemicals to kill brush. Rigged with 100-ft. spray booms, the crew recently sprayed 5700 acres in five separate tracts. This method of spraying proved successful for the Viewpoint Ranch. They sprayed 3400 acres last June and seeded area in the Fall. Today the Viewpoint Ranch's 3400 acre experiment is the talk of Oregon. Lush growth of Crested Wheatgrass is now flourishing where last year was brushland.

CHRISTMAS VALLEY DUDE RANCH 'ALL PRETTIED UP' FOR RODEO

The Christmas Valley Dude Ranch has been all prettied up for visitors during the First Annual Horse Swapping Days and Rodeo. The Dude Ranch was completed just in time to coincide with the special program.

"We've got a big league Rodeo Arena here. There's no question about it," said Phil Washington, General Project Manager. "We could hold a National championship here without any difficulty. We have the finest bucking chutes catch pens and calf chutes you'll see anywhere."

The Dude Ranch also contains a one-quarter mile racing strip for quarterhorse racing and other activities of that nature and 20 acres of pasture land in the immediate area.

ONE-THIRD OF LAKE BEING FILLED NOW

"One third of the huge Christmas Valley Lake is being filled at the rate of 1400 gallons a minute. At this rate the Lake will be filled to capacity in a very short time," proudly announced M. Penn Phillips.

A 40 horse power motor has been installed to facilitate the pumping of this water. Even at this terrific rate of filling, Phillips said it would take 30 days to fill the one-third portion of the Lake.

"We're using an impound to dam and hold back the water in the one-third portion of the lake, while we continue digging in the other part," explained Phillips. "This way we can expedite construction of the Lake so it will be available for all our Property Owners and friends."

When completely filled the lake will hold 53,000,000 gallons of water.

"The construction people tell us this will happen in September," said Phillips. "Right after the lake is filled we'll immediately start stocking it with some of the finest trout, blue gill and bass. We'll have a wonderful spot to fish right here in our own back yard."

In addition to fishing, special areas of the Christmas Valley Lake will be set aside for boating and water skiing. There will also be areas for swimming, sunning and picnicking.

"I'm anxiously waiting to see the Lake stocked and filled," said Phillips. "I'd like to go fishing there with my friends and you Property Owners who enjoy landing a fighting trout or bass."

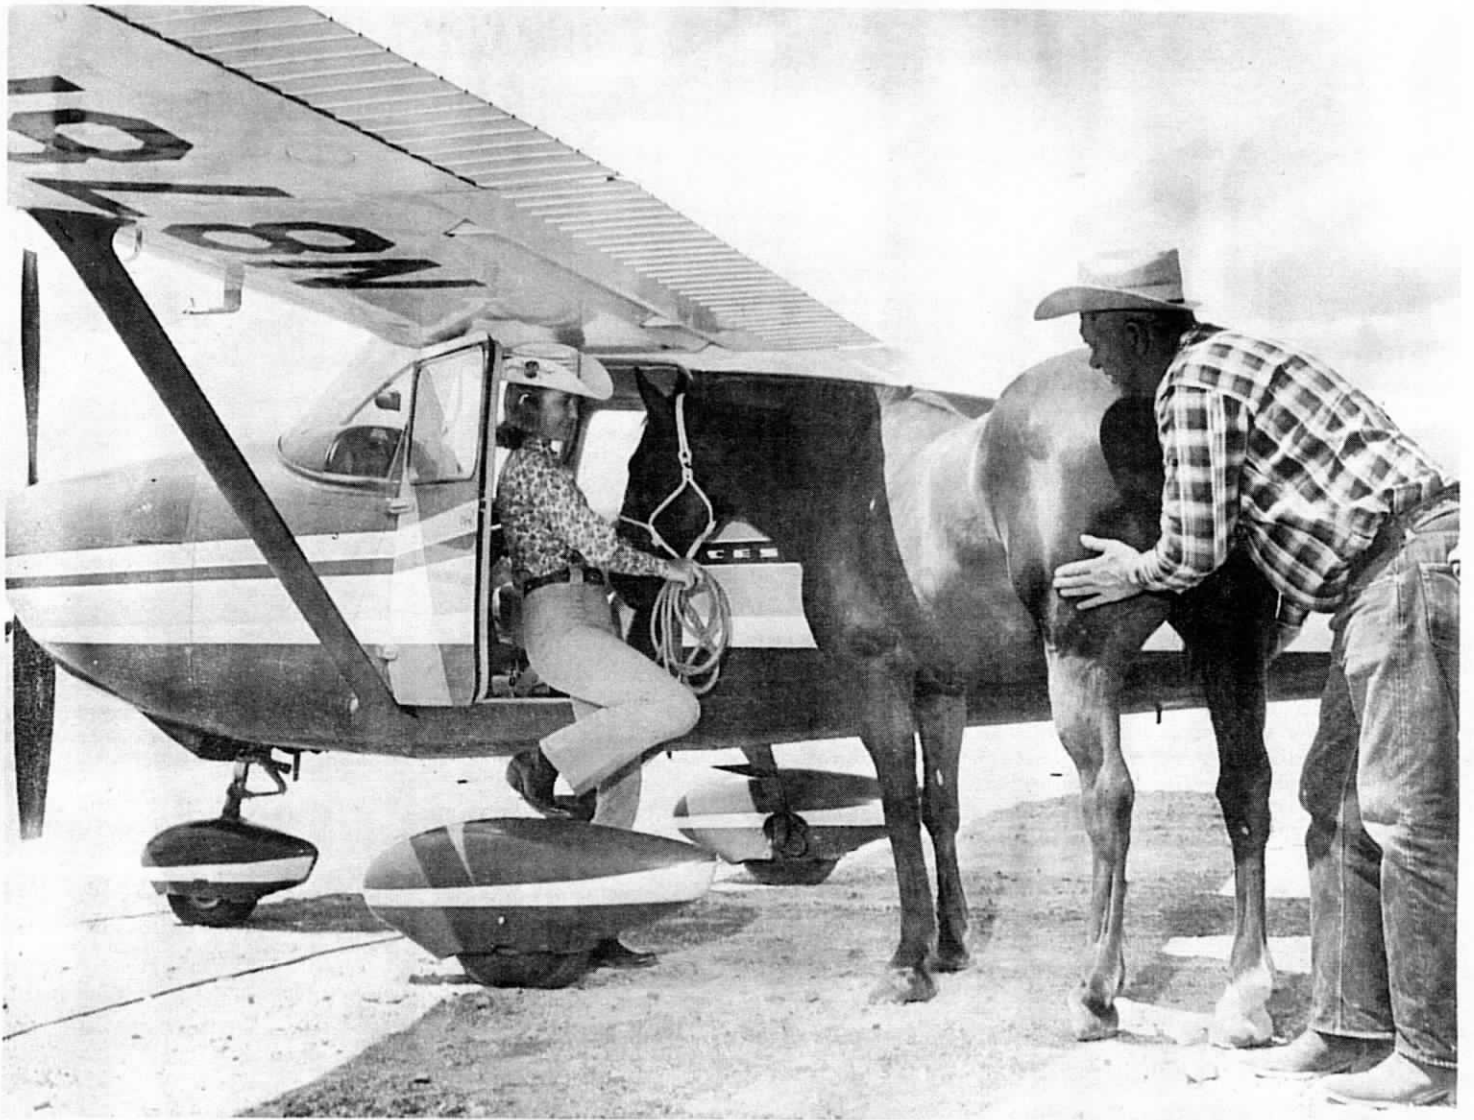

SERVICE STATION NEARLY FINISHED

Construction of the Shell service station at Christmas Valley is nearing completion, reports Warren Morton, project supervisor.

"We've got the roof finished and are taking care of the minor jobs," said Morton. The service station will be located off Christmas Valley Road near the tie-down area on the west end of the air strip.

The Shell service station will be operated by Bill Stanfill Sr.

"We'll have wholesale as well as retail selling, including aviation gasoline," said Stanfill. He said he wanted the station to open in conjunction with the Christmas Valley Air Park.

TRANSPORTATION PROBLEM — We'll bet Wyatt Earp never had the troubles confronting Queen Bonnie Nordham and Ralph Fullington. Pair was faced with getting one of Bonnie's uncooperative riding ponies to take its first airplane ride for the Horse Swapping Days and Rodeo at Christmas Valley July 21-22. Bonnie and Ralph used their best sweet talk but couldn't persuade the bashful pony.

Work Started on Unique Transit-Trailer Park

One of the most important developments in the 1960s — an own-your-own trailer park — is getting closer to reality at Christmas Valley.

"We've started construction of the Christmas Valley Home Estates and have started work on the concrete slabs," said Penn Thayer, vice-president of M. Penn Phillips Co.

"This luxurious transit-trailer facility will be one of the most modern in the country," he said.

Christmas Valley Mobil Home Estates will be located on the south side of the Christmas Valley Lake, just west of the Christmas Valley Lodge.

A person can own his own boat dock, launch pad and have all the modern utility hook-ups.

80 Trailers

In addition to this, Thayer said the company will build a recreation building, with meeting and game rooms; laundry and shower facilities and other necessary items.

Plans call for the construction of an 80-space trailer park.

"Initially, we're going ahead with the building of 32 of these trailer spaces," said Thayer. "After this we will continue with the rest of the project."

Thayer said keen interest has been shown in this type of own-your-own trailer court. "We've been getting many interesting letters from many people who want to know more about our unique project."

JUDGES LISTED FOR BIG RODEO

Phil Washington assures all Rodeo contestants they will get a fair shake in the judging. Washington has lined up an illustrious list of judges.

They include County Judge C. W. Ogle, County Commissioners James Snider and J. D. Cerum, District Attorney Chick Chaloupka and Kessler R. Cannon, Oregon State Representative.

NOBODY WILL GO HUNGRY ON SWAPPING DAYS

No one will go hungry during the two-day Horse Swapping Days and Rodeo at Christmas Valley. Neither will they go broke paying for their chow.

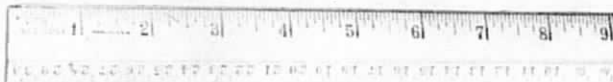

Visitors can partake in a Cowboy Breakfast and a delicious Barbecue at very modest prices.

The Pit Barbecue feast will be held at 5 p.m. Saturday at the Lodge grounds. Generous helpings of barbecued beef, beans, salad and the trimmings may be had for only $2.

The Cowboy Breakfast, from 7 to 9 a.m. Sunday, is even more of a bargain. For $1.50, one can have a whopping portion of ham, eggs, hotcakes and all the coffee one can drink.

JUST WHITTLIN' AN A WHITTLIN' — Ralph Fullington is shown taking his practice whacks on Whittlin' stick before fun-filled event at Christmas Valley Horse Swapping Days. Whittlin' sticks will be furnished to Property Owners and visitors to the program.

PERFECT ARROWHEAD TREASURE—This is typical of type of arrowhead found around Christmas Valley. Historian Betty Morehouse says this area is the best hunting ground for these Indian trophies. People from all over the country arrow hunt here.

CHRISTMAS VALLEY GREAT SPOT FOR HUNTING INDIAN ARROWHEADS

By Betty Morehouse

Christmas Lake Valley was the home of the Indian long before the white man came. A vast inland lake covered most of the valley, providing fish and wild fowl for the early Indian. Traces of these prehistoric land owners can be found throughout the valley in the form of arrowheads and stone implements.

In adjacent Fort Rock Valley, the well known Cow Cave, excavated by archaeologists from the University of Oregon, revealed evidence of habitation as far back as 9,000 years. A cave on nearby Cougar Mountain also contained the same type of artifacts.

Arrowheads dug from these caves were classified by their type of base and the strata in which they were found. Every type found in the caves can be picked up at numerous sites throughout Christmas Lake Valley. These are designated as "surface finds."

Most of the arrowheads found in Christmas Valley are made of a form of obsidian; black, red, or clear as glass. Some are found made of white agate or red jasper. They vary in size, from less than half an inch in length to six inches or more.

Hundreds of arrowhead hunters come to Christmas Lake Valley every year to indulge in this fascinating hobby, for this valley is possibly the richest arrowhead site in the United States.

Collections gathered from this area boast hundreds and even thousands of arrowheads.

Arrowhead hunters enjoy a special form of insanity as they tramp for hours and miles, feeling the day has been a wonderful success if they can hold in their hand one tiny, perfect arrowhead; marveling at the exquisite form and balance some prehistoric artist created with his primitive tools.

Must Change Gear Three Times

Pony Express Relay Race Said To Be Most Thrilling

One of the most thrilling events of the First Annual Horse Swapping Days and Rodeo — or any other big-time event for that matter — will be the Pony Express Relay Race.

This exciting event will take place at 12:30 p.m. Sunday at the quarterhorse race strip, according to General Project Manager Phil Washington.

As the Christmas Valley Gazette went to press, three ranches — Ben Whithers Ranch, View Point Ranch and ZX Ranch — have signed to compete for the $200 prize. There may be more entries.

"It's a mile race with a four-horse team," explained Washington. "Each team must stop three times for changing gear. That's where the fun comes in when they start saddling and unsaddling the horses."

"Sometimes when the men are hurrying, they might get careless changing gear. When a cinch strap slips on a horse, brother, that's when you see some bucking. This should really keep the people on the edge of their seats," said Washington.

Editor Tells of Big Battle With Kamloops Trout

By LEROY HARROD

Fishing and Hunting Editor

Well, I certainly hope all you visiting fisherman have taken advantage of the wonderful fishing at Ol' Diamond Lake. As I have said before this is one of the best trout fisheries in the world.

I've had some wonderful experiences tangling with some of those scrappy Kamloops. You can enjoy the same thrilling experience which I'm writing about in this issue of the Christmas Valley Gazette.

But before I get on with this fishing story, if you need any more information about fishing, the best advice I can give you beginners is to look up Joe D'Bernardi, the topnotch guide on the 3000 acre Ol' Diamond Lake.

Get him to take you and your family out and show you how to bag some big Kamloops.

You can find him at the tackle shop or over in the lodge, if he isn't fishing. Just wait for him. He'll show you more about fishing on one trip than you'll be able to learn by yourself in a week.

Joe has been telling me about some whopper that gave him a terrific fight and busted loose. I know how he feels.

Tackle Bustin' Kamloops

Only last year that very thing happened to me. I had made a long cast from our boat, and my long-time fishing companion, Frank Carroll, made a typical fisherman's remark, "that ought to be a good place for a big boy" and — he got no farther.

My fly rod tightened and before I could catch my breath a "tackle bustin'" Kamloops went high in the air. When he hit the water he just took off. I tried to stop him, but it just couldn't be done with the five-pound tippet I had used.

He took every inch of my 105 feet of double tapered fly casting line off the reel. Finally, Frank said, "Let's go in, it's getting cold and I need a hot toddy, and I think you need two of 'em."

I said to Frank, "Look, boy, (he is a little past the four score — 80 years — mark.) I'm sure out of line, leader and fly, and it's too late to 'rig up' before dark, but you get that fly of yours in the water quick. There may be another 'big boy' waiting for us."

Frank stripped some line from his reel and sent that Chappie 65 feet over the mouth of the creek. He let the fly rest and sink for about one minute, then started that slow jerky retrieve. Then it happened. A vicious strike, Frank raised his rod tip and set back.

Highest, Swiftest Leaps

That Kamloops was making some of the highest and swiftest leaps I had ever seen. Any one somersaulting lunge could have snapped Frank's three pound tippet leader, but he held his rod tip high, kept a tight line, and finally had that scrapper coming in over my net.

I weighed him at just 4½ pounds. I finally said, "Frank, I think both of us need two hot toddies."

Ol' Diamond had paid off again. With our Kamloops in our gunny sacks, we hit the trail to our camp. After taking care of those two toddies each, we cleaned the Kamloops, cut several fillets and it wasn't long before we sat down to golden brown Kamloops fillets, hashed brown potatoes, creamed hominy and hot biscuits with Wild Choke Cherry Jam. Then into our sleeping bags for a well-earned rest.

PONY FOR BLAS' BENEFIT—Shetland pony, shown with Ken Morehouse, was purchased by Christmas Valley employees to do their fellow man a good turn. Pony will be raffled off. Contestants are asked to make contributions to the Blas Hospital Fund to help pay bills for injured Blas Monterrey. Blas escaped from Castro's regime in Cuba. Happy Blas was severely injured in recent automobile accident.

SHETLAND PONY MAY HELP TO PAY BILLS FOR INJURED MAN

A tiny black and white Shetland Pony, named "Skooter," will help pay the hospital bill for Blas Monterrey, Cuban refugee who is a patient in Saint Charles Memorial Hospital at Bend, Oregon.

Blas Monterrey escaped from Cuba about eight months ago, when he and two companions commandeered a small boat and set out to sea. Near death, after drifting without food or water for eight days, they were picked up and brought to the United States.

Traveling across the United States, looking for employment, Blas found his way to Christmas Valley. He found a job at the Lodge where he worked hard, doing the work of three men; washing dishes and keeping the Lodge shiny clean. Every particle of dust was a personal enemy which he attacked with vengeance and a mop.

His quick, happy smile and sense of humor flashed often as he struggled to communicate in a language foreign to him.

Won Respect

Blas quickly won the respect of the other employees, from kitchen help, to office personnel, to construction workers. Blas had found a home and friends.

And then tragedy struck. Blas purchased a car. On his way home to Christmas Valley, a faulty mechanism caused the car to go out of control. It rolled end over end down the highway near Silver Lake.

The crew of the Silver Lake Disaster Car picked Blas from the torn, twisted car and took him to Saint Charles Memorial Hospital at Bend. Examination showed he had suffered a badly shattered leg, a fractured pelvic bone and multiple injuries to his back.

Hospitalized

Blas would be in the hospital for a long time.

Employees at Christmas Valley didn't smile or laugh much for a few days. Each one was thinking about friendly little Blas, and how dull it was without his quick smile and eager "Hal-lo" to brighten the day.

Then discussion started about doctor bills and hospital bills. Blas had no insurance. Something would have to be done. A jar was set up at the Christmas Valley Lodge with a little sign which read "For Blas."

Money to Blas

It was decided that as soon as enough money had been collected the employees would purchase a pony. Somehow the pony could be used to raise money for Blas.

The jar filled, and the pony was purchased.

During the First Annual Horse Swapping Days at Christmas Valley, everyone who attends the Rodeo will receive a free chance on "Skooter." In return, the employees will ask for a voluntary contribution to the Hospital Fund for Blas, in any amount the contributor feels he can afford.

In the meantime, one cute little pony named "Skooter" is enjoying his stay at Christmas Valley where he is the pampered hope of some 40 employees. Whoever holds the lucky ticket will receive one mighty "spoiled" little pony.

Dancers to Do

The Cowboy Twist

For those who don't do too well in the horse swapping days or the gymkhana events, there's still a chance to win a prize at the Horse Swapping Days at Christmas Valley.

Several prizes and trophies will be given for the best dancers. The dance will be held starting at 9 p.m. Saturday in the Christmas Valley Lodge.

There will be awards for the best square dancers, waltzers and, of course, twisters. Except that here in Christmas Valley, in keeping with our Western theme, the prize will be for the best Cowboy Twisters.

Officials aren't quite sure what this Cowboy Twisting is, but they promise a lot of fun and laughs.

Christmas Valley Lodge Center of Social Life

By W. W. MORTON
Christmas Valley Project Manager

One of the most important functions of the Christmas Valley staff is to escort visitors on guided tours of our mushrooming community and to explain the various important facts of our development.

The staff also points out the areas of progress and assists property owners in locating property they have purchased.

As M. Penn Phillips, founder of our company, so strongly insists, there is no feeling like standing right on the property you yourself own.

The number of visitors has taken a sharp upturn since the middle of June. We don't have space for all of them but we thought our readers might like to read some of the typical comments expressed by visitors to Christmas Valley.

Needless to say we are pleased with the reception our development has received and we'll be looking forward to seeing all of you very soon.

If you're going to the World's Fair at Seattle, take a couple of days off and see the progress at Christmas Valley. We're proud of it. We're sure you will be, too.

JEROME BONAS, South San Gabriel—"The progress of the Valley is very encouraging for us to see and we know our future here will not be disappointing."

MERTON A. WALTERS, Vista, California—"Very nice prospective community for the future. Will be interested to watch this development."

JERRY SMITH, Orcutt, California—"I think Christmas Valley is a remarkable development and is growing at an amazing speed. I have lots of hope for it."

JAMES V. PECK, Visalia, California—"Very interested in project, heading for Seattle, will stop here on way south."

R. W. WAGNER, Portland, Oregon—"Dusty today, but this looks to me like it has possibilities if the project is followed thru."

W. E. MESBITT, Los Vegas, Nevada—"We toured the model farm, Lodge, etc., and it looks very promising. We were also pleased with the guided tour."

THOMAS J. MINTO and EDWIN J. McCLURE, Wilmington, California—"The property was as good as we hoped for, has good potential and looks like it will be easy to clear. Good homesite, good transportation and very good guide."

JERRY EMERY and MARGARET EMERY, Artesia, Calif.—"We stayed two days in Christmas Valley. Everyone was very kind, courteous and helpful. The food and service in the Lodge were very excellent. Was very impressed with the view and the surrounding country."

WALLACE and CHARLOTTE WOOD, Saratoga, California—"An excellent development in a wonderful state. We are happy to be a part of it."

BLANCHE DUKE — "Development looks like a great thing. Liked the Lodge and Lake property. Looked very good to me. A beautiful view from most any place."

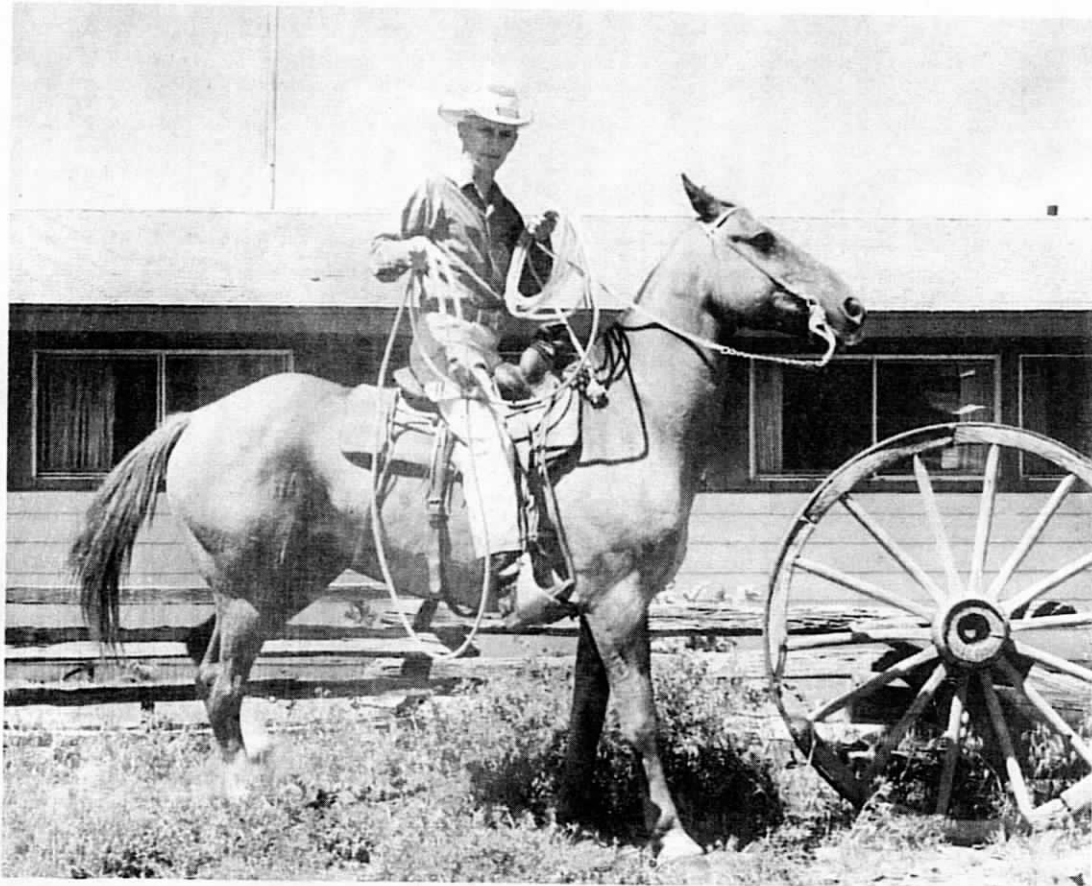

MR. AND MRS. JAMES W. STEELE, Long Beach, California—"We are pleased with our property. The guide was very courteous in every way."

JOSEPH WRIGHT — "It's big; I like it. Lots are properly situated, and recreation is splendid."

MR. AND MRS. H. R. KILIAN, Hawthorne, California—"Land seems to be very good. Development of area is coming along fine."

MR. AND MRS. JIM MARONEY, Van Nuys, California—"Town progressing nicely. Had most courteous escort of area's interesting features. Will be back next year with golf clubs. Expect to see quite a town, young though it may be. Be sure to get that lake finished. We get dry."

HARRY AND HELEN SHADINGER, El Cajon, California—"We looked over our land and are well pleased with it."

WILL THE DISTRICT ATTORNEY GET HIS MAN? — Chick Chaloupka, roping and riding District Attorney of Lake County, Oregon, strikes an imposing picture as he prepares for special Wild Cow Milking contest with M. Penn Phillips executive Phil Washington. "I've been railroaded," pleaded Washington. Contest is the result of a long-standing feud which reached its fiery peak when Washington challenged Chaloupka to prove his asserted superiority with a rope. We're betting on Chick.

Fred Thompsons Buy Christmas Valley Motel

Fred and Hazel Thompson of Venice, Calif., have purchased the Christmas Valley Motel, president Carlo Giuntini announced this week.

"This is just another example of private enterprise realizing the great business and growth potential of Central Oregon and particularly Christmas Valley," pointed out Giuntini.

"The M. Penn Phillips Co. will cooperate in every way possible with the Thompsons in helping their business increase," he added.

The Thompsons, who own considerable land in the Christmas Valley area, will personally manage and operate the Christmas Valley Motel.

Only recently four more rooms were added to the Motel, making a total of 12 sleeping accommodations. The Thompsons said they plan to expand the Motel, in keeping with the growth trend of Christmas Valley.

Thompson said he and his wife have also purchased the LaPine Center in LaPine, just north of Christmas Valley. It is a combination restaurant and motel and was formerly called Mom's Cafe. The Thompsons will run the LaPine Center in conjunction with their Christmas Valley Motel operation.

"The Thompsons are great boosters of Christmas Valley," revealed Giuntini. "They're always telling people who drop in about the wonders of this area. They're very believable because they sincerely believe it themselves," he said.

SOIL STEWARDSHIP SERVICES HELD

Soil Stewardship Sunday services at Ft. Rock and Silver Lake were well attended. Rev. Tom Sheiton led the services at Ft. Rock and Elder C. Weis the Silver Lake services.

Nick Klerk, speaking for the Board of Supervisors, defined Stewardship and pointed out that "the seed must be planted in faith that it will reproduce after its kind."

WASHINGTON FACES 'SHOWDOWN' WITH LOCAL DISTRICT ATTORNEY

Will the District Attorney get his man? The betting is that like Perry Mason, District Attorney Chick Chaloupka will corral his adversary.

The man in question is Phillips Company executive Phil Washington.

It all came about when Washington modestly acknowledged that once upon a time he was a pretty fair country rider and roper.

When doubts arose as to his ability, Washington reluctantly accepted the challenge of Chaloupka to face him in a showdown. A showdown in a wild cow milking contest, that is.

The gist of the contest is that a rider must rope a wild cow as it dashes right out of the chute. After roping the cow, a mugger holds its head, while the contestant then tries to get some milk into a coke bottle. Then the contestant races over to the finish line.

When Washington discovered what his rugged task would be against the district attorney, he cried, "I've been railroaded."

"Why I haven't done anything like this in years," he pleaded. "I may not even show up now."

But the stern district attorney and other members of the jury made Washington stick to the letter of the law and made him promise to perform.

"Oh well," said Washington in resignation, "every important event needs some comic relief to ease the tension. I guess I'm it for the Christmas Valley Horse Swapping Days and Rodeo."

WHAT WAS YOUR HOME STATE?

With many of you Christmas Valley property owners, we're sure your future home state will be right here in Oregon. But because we have so many property purchasers from all over the country, we thought it might be entirely possible for old neighbors to become reunited again at beautiful Christmas Valley.

Your Christmas Valley Gazette editors will be happy to arrange possible meetings between old friends. All you have to do is to fill in the form below and mail it to the Christmas Valley Gazette,

Big Game Hunting Rules Adopted for This Fall

Christmas Valley Property Owners and their friends can start planning their big game hunting trips this fall now that the Oregon Game Commission recently adopted regulations for the year.

Few changes were made in final regulations from those proposed in tentative rules.

The general big game seasons remained the same with the antelope hunt August 25-29, general deer season for buck deer September 29-October 21, a coastal elk season in specific units October 27-November 9 and an elk season in the rest of the state October 27-November 25.

The management unit deer hunt is scheduled October 6-21 as proposed, with extended hunts scheduled in several units.

Last Year's Rule

The Commission threw out the proposal where hunters would be required to bring out the entire head of any big game animal taken and went back to last year's regulations.

These require in elk hunting that the antlers, with scalp and eyes attached, be retained in possession by the hunter while in the field or in transit.

The Commission adopted the regulation which requires a hunter to write in, on the back of his hunting license at the time of kill, the date, the species of animal taken and the county in which the kill was made.

This will be in addition to the regular validation of his big game tag at time of kill.

Eliminate Party Drawings

Also approved was the ruling which eliminates party drawings for antelope tags. The Commission advised elk hunters that next year's regulations would permit no more than two individuals to file on a party elk application. Party applications up to four in number would be allowed this year.

The antelope season sets up 75 tags for area one (Ochoco, Maury and Silvies units), 75 tags for area two (Paulina, Wagonfire, Fort Rock and Silver Lake units), 100 tags for area three (Warner unit), 175 tags for area four (Juniper, Hart Mountain and Steens units), 100 tags for area five (Beulah, Malheur River and Owyhee units), 75 tags for area six (Whitehorse unit).

Silver Lake Check

Open buck deer season allows one buck deer having visible antlers in all counties east of the summit of the Cascade mountains. All hunters are required to check in and out of the Silver Lake unit.

Management unit deer seasons include 1,000 doe permits for the Deschutes unit, 4,000 for Fort Rock, 1,000 for Grizzly, 1,000 for Klamath (a reduction of 500 from tentative proposals), 500 for Maury, 1,400 for Metolius, 1,000 for Ochoco, 1,800 for Paulina, 400 for Sherman and 500 for Wasco.

There are also several controlled deer seasons. Persons receiving a controlled season deer tag will be issued a permit which, when affixed to their unused general deer tag, allows them to take a second deer of the kind and in the manner specified for that particular controlled season.

$5 for Tag

A price of $5 per tag is charged. Controlled deer hunts of special interest to Central Oregon hunters are as follows:

The Klamath hunt, September 8 through 23 and October 6 through 21, 800 tags for one deer, open area on or within 400 yards of agricultural lands in the Klamath unit, exclusive of Sprague River watershed, and on or within 400 yards of agricultural lands in the Green Springs unit south of the Klamath River;

The Sisters hunt, open season September 8-23, 300 tags for one deer, area near Sisters in Des-

Archery Season

Open archery season in Eastern Oregon management units is September 1-23 for one deer and one elk in Wasco, Deschutes, Baker, Keating and Starkey units.

Special season regulations for closing and drawing dates are antelope tags, 5 p.m. July 10 closing date, 10 a.m. July 25 drawing; deer tags, 5 p.m. August 1 closing date, 10 a.m. August 8 drawing date; deer permits, 5 p.m. August 8 closing date, 10 a.m. August 15 drawing date; elk permits, 5 p.m. August 29 closing date, 10 a.m. September 7 drawing date.

All resident licensed hunters are eligible to apply for one controlled season deer tag. In the event controlled season deer tags are still available 10 days before the opening date of a controlled season, the holder of a controlled season deer tag may apply for up to two additional controlled season deer tags.

No person may secure more than three controlled season deer tags in aggregate.
