CHRISTMAS VALLEY, OREGON

15 CENTS MAY, 1963

Opening of $65,000 Mobile Estates Scheduled For June 5

VACATION TIME

Looking for a place to get away from it all? See Oregon this Summer!

From Bookings on the southern coast to Astoria at the northwest tip of the state and from Lakeview in southeastern Oregon (from Lakeview be sure to visit Christmas Valley and, while there, you might try your luck for some lunker trout in Thompson River, less than an hour's drive from Christmas Valley) to the craggy Wallowa and Blue Mountain ranges in the northeastern corner of the state, the visitor will find a variety of vacation attractions to fit his taste.

Modern highways lead motorists along the coast and throughout the state, offering easy access to more than 200 state parks and forest service campgrounds.

Accommodations range from open camping areas in the mountain forests to deluxe resorts overlooking the coastline or nestled beside a mountain stream. Modern motels and trailer courts are found along all major highways.

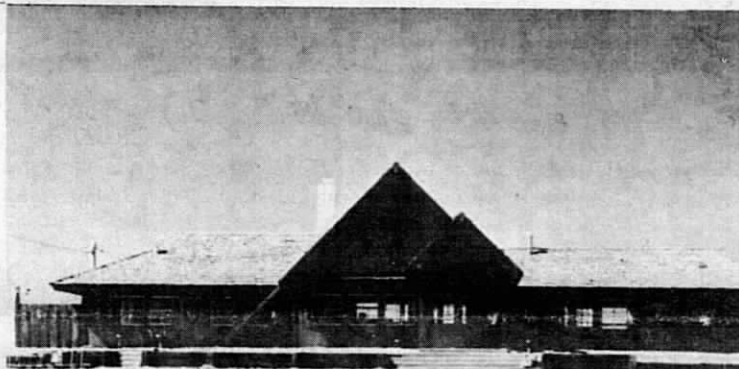

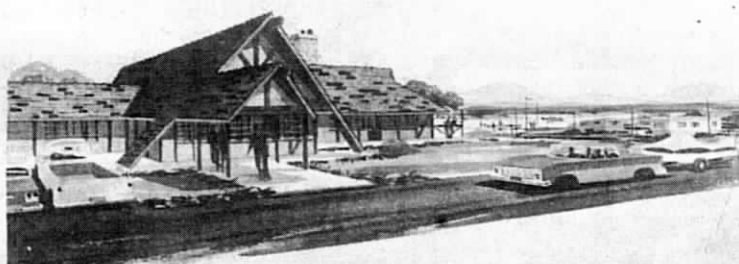

MODERN HIGHWAY

Highway 101 in southern Oregon, a former twisting inland stretch of road from Brookings to Pistol River, has been replaced with a smooth, modern highway that follows the shoreline, hugging mountainsides, leaping canyons and swooping low along the beaches.

For those who prefer the mountains, the colorful Cascade Range offers much varied summer activities as boating on Crater Lake, skiing high on the permanent snow field of Mt. Hood or traveling by pack train deep into the Mt. Jefferson or Three Sisters Wilderness Areas.

Central Oregon offers a variety of vacation pleasures of its own with some of the finest angling in the West in the famed Deschutes, Metolius and Crooked Rivers and in nearby lakes and reservoirs.

ARTIST'S RENDITION AND REAL THING--These two photographs illustrate the accuracy of the drawing for the Recreation Building, which is a major feature of the $65,000 Christmas Valley Mobile Home Estates project. Official opening of this trailer park facility is scheduled for June 5. Laundry, kitchen and game rooms are in the building.

Officials Pleased With Progress of Development

M. Penn Phillips, developer of Christmas Valley, completed an extensive inspection tour of the area as the development was readied for the summer season.

Accompanied by Ben Schwartz, prominent Southland attorney; Warren Wagner, hydrologist and engineer; Henry E. Suzuki, Wagner's partner; and Phil Washington, general manager of the project, Phillips expressed approval of all phases of the development.

Lauds Golf Course

It was the second trip for Schwartz. He had seen the area when the Company began work on the project in 1961 and was amazed at the growth of the development. A golfer, he was particularly interested in the golf course construction, planting, and irrigation procedures. "I'll be back with my clubs as soon as my business commitments allow me. It's one of the best layouts I've seen."

Wagner and Suzuki were impressed by the geological and agricultural aspects of the Valley, as well as the amount of construction that had been completed in the development. These men are experts in all phases of land development, specializing in water sources and supply.

Tremendous Water Potential

Both Wagner and Suzuki were able to pinpoint many of the reasons the Valley is endowed with such tremendous water potential, where the water probably originates, and where it enters the basin. "The fact that it is stored under pressure in the underground reservoir indicates a tremendous water potential at relatively shallow depths," Wagner stated.

Suzuki was particularly interested in the size and density of the natural vegetation which, as he pointed out, attests to good soil conditions and the presence of an abundance of water.

Phillips and Washington commended Warren Morton, resident project manager, and his entire staff on the work accomplished and ordered Morton to begin work on a church that is to be donated to the fast growing community.

Luxurious Trailer Park to Have Room for 80 Vehicles

The grand opening of the $65,000 Christmas Valley Mobile Home Estates--another in the many projects in this progressive development--has been scheduled for Wednesday, June 5, according to President Carlo P. Giuntini.

The luxurious trailer park facility currently has space for 32 trailers but provisions have been made for expansion to accommodate 80 trailers. A big Recreation Building is one of the top features of this project.

"We're very pleased with our latest addition to the progress of Christmas Valley," said Giuntini. "Not only is the Mobile Home Estates an integral part of our development, but it also will encourage more tourists to visit us."

Adds to Economy

"This, of course, will mean added tourist dollars spent here and a subsequent addition to Christmas Valley's economy. No expense has been spared in building this facility for the comfort and enjoyment of our Property Owners and visitors," added Giuntini.

The trailer park is ideally situated, right near the Christmas Valley Lake and behind the Commercial Center. This affords easy access for shopping and using the Lake's recreational facilities.

Bingham Owner-Manager

Giuntini said that Bing Bingham is the owner-manager of Christmas Valley Mobile Home Estates.

Bingham said five people have already signed for trailer spaces. Cost is $30 per month for the large space, not including the cost of utilities.

Self-Contained Facility

The trailer park was designed to create a self-contained community, with the central point to be the Recreation Building.

Each trailer space, which can accommodate even the Big Goings on Planned Here for June 15-16

Property Owners and visitors will find things jumping a bit more than usual at bustling Christmas Valley over the weekend of June 15-16.

Included in the action crammed two-day sports and social agenda will be a thrilling sports car race, a wild west rodeo, a beef barbecue and a dance.

Festivities start at 4:30 Saturday afternoon with a delicious beef barbecue at the Christmas Valley Lodge grounds. Ed Cater, who will do the barbecuing, said the charge will be $2 per person.

Worth The Trip

The menu will consist of barbecued beef, baked beans, macaroni salad, rolls, coffee and ice cream. It's worth the trip just to take advantage of this bargain.

After dining, everyone is invited to attend a dance at nearby Silver Lake.

Early Sunday morning risers may watch the start of the first annual Christmas Valley Sports Car Race, which begins at 7 a.m. Those who like to sleep in late won't miss all of this exciting event because the race will continue all day.

For a change of pace during the sports car race, visitors can drive to Silver Lake for a wild west rodeo conducted by the Silver Lake Roping Club.

Letters to the Editor

Mr. Philip O. Washington
M. Penn Phillips Co.
Azusa, Calif.

Dear Mr. Washington:

Last week we made a trip to Christmas Valley to lay plans for a permanent move sometime later this year. This was our second trip, the first being in July of last year. We were very pleased with the amount of work and improvements that have been accomplished over last year. Roads are greatly improved and one can see building is progressing. It is hard to believe that this much has been accomplished since this parcel was acquired as raw range land less than 20 months ago.

We would also like to take this opportunity to tell you of the wonderful people living in Christmas Valley. Mr. Achitson, Mr. Morton, Mr. and Mrs. Byam, Mr. and Mrs. Holmes, Mr. and Mrs. Thompson, Mr. Goeres, Mr. Pettus, and every other person we met at the Valley did everything possible to make our stay an enjoyable one.

Even though everyone was very busy they still found time to answer all our questions and help us in every way possible. The people alone make you feel like moving to the Valley. The Lodge, Motel and Grocery Store are all well kept and managed in an efficient manner, an improvement over last year.

These people as well as the beautiful country surrounding Christmas Valley makes us want to establish a home there as soon as possible.

Sincerely,
(Signed) Mr. and Mrs. Ted Schott
Van Nuys, Calif.

An Open Letter To Christmas Valley Property Owners:

I wonder how many of you realize what a great opportunity you have. An opportunity to help plan and build a new community. The raw materials are waiting for you in Christmas Valley, Oregon. Collectively, you possess the knowledge and skills required to get the job done.

The M. Penn Phillips Company has prepared the way. Over 72,000 acres of grazing land has been transformed into a townsite surrounded by farms and ranches. Every parcel of land in town has been assigned a zoning classification. Commercial and industrial tracts are strategically placed so as not to interfere with the livability of the residential areas. Land has been allocated for churches and schools. Streets that border every parcel of land have been planned and most are completed.

What is missing from this picture? You are! No matter whether you are retired, semi-retired, or still working for a living, you are needed and wanted. It doesn't matter whether your interest lies in farming, ranching, construction, manufacturing, retail business or any one of hundreds of other endeavors. You are needed and wanted in Christmas Valley.

If you are retired or semi-retired, the valley offers you a healthy, inexpensive place to live and at the same time offers you a chance to use the experience you have accumulated over the years. Maybe not for profit in terms of dollars and cents, but in terms of personal satisfaction. The community could not begin to pay you for all the things you can do for it, but your advice could help avoid costly, time-wasting mistakes.

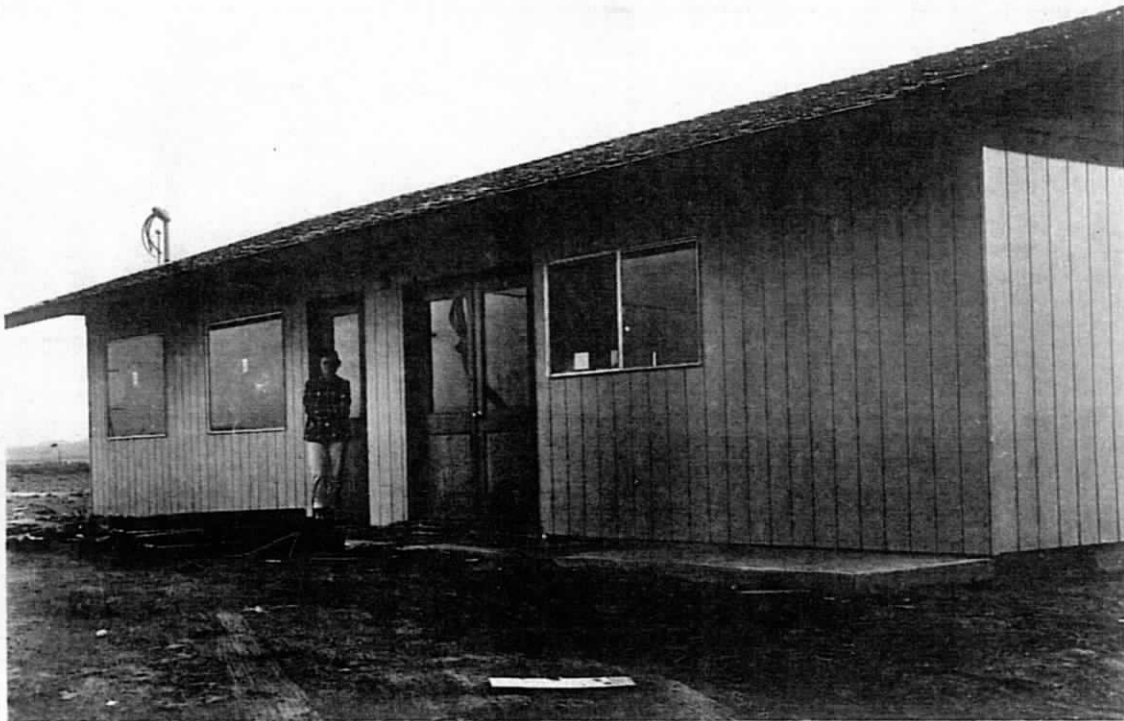

If you are in need of an income, large or small, in order to survive and enjoy the Valley's many resources, there is something you can do. Consider very carefully what you could do in Christmas Valley to earn that income. Remember that it will not cost as much to live in the Valley as it does in a crowded city.

Christmas Valley, Oregon, is only a year old. Great progress has been made in this time. Even greater progress is needed in the future. Industry is needed to provide employment. People are needed to work in industry. Merchants of all sorts are needed to supply the goods and services for the townspeople, farmers and ranchers.

The big question is: Who will make the first move? Who will have the courage to bring industry and business to the Valley, thereby encouraging people to move in? Who will move to the Valley, thereby encouraging industry and business to move in?

Only you and I can answer these questions.

(Signed) William J. Tobin

largest trailer, has an individual 9 X 20 foot cement patio, off-street parking for the family car, a garbage disposal connection and is connected to provide electrical, water and telephone services.

Potluck Dinners

The Recreation or Club Building was designed to be an all-purpose edifice. It has kitchen facilities for potluck dinners, a section for laundry equipment game rooms, club meeting room and other features all grouped around a beautiful lounge.

Occupants of the trailer park will also have access to boat launching ramps and beach recreation area on the Lake, as well as barbeque pits and outdoor game equipment.

Because of its ideal location, on the Lakeshore, a trailerite can take advantage of fishing, Dude Ranch activity and golfing with a minimum of walking.

Huge Fireplace

The Recreation Building's architecture is of heavy post and beam construction with a heavy shake roof and looks similar to the Christmas Valley Lodge. A huge fireplace brightens the interior.

The Mobile Home Estates project is not to be confused with the Own-Your-Own Trailer Park development, which is located west of the Mobile Home Estates, points out General Project Manager Phil Washington.

Expect Many Newcomers

"People can actually purchase land for their own private trailer 45X85 foot lot, which is how the 'Own-Your-Own Trailer Park' name came about," said Washington. Payments are $17 per month.

"We expect to have quite a few Property Owners and friends using both the Mobile Home Estates and Own-Your-Own Trailer Park," said Washington. "There'll be quite a few hunters and fishermen coming here for the season, as well as year-around residents seeking a little elbow room away from the crowded, choking cities."

NEW LAUNDROMAT BUILDING--Mrs. Evelyn Pettus stands in front of the recently completed structure which will have six washing machines and three dryers. Mrs. Pettus and her husband are offering a month's free washing to the Gazette reader who picks the best name for the laundromat. Clip coupon to enter contest.

NAME LAUNDROMAT AND WIN ONE MONTH'S FREE WASHING

Want to win a prize of free clothes washing for one month?

All you have to do is pick a name for a laundromat which John and Evelyn Pettus will open in Christmas Valley in early June.

Seems that Evelyn and John have been quibbling over a suitable name for their establishment. They haven't been able to reconcile their differences so they have appealed to Christmas Valley Gazette readers to help solve their problem.

They ask that you fill out the FREE contest entry blank below together with the name you have chosen for the laundromat and send it to New Laundromat Name Contest, Christmas Valley Rural Station, Silver Lake, Oregon.

Impartial judges will select three of the best names submitted based on phonetic quality, brevity and aptness.

These three suggestions will be given to John and Evelyn who will make the final decision as to the winner of one month's free washing at their laundromat.

35 OREGON FLYING FARMERS TOUCH DOWN AT AIR PARK

Thirty-five members of the Oregon Flying Farmers touched down at the Christmas Valley Air Park on Sunday, May 19, for a Fly-In Luncheon at the Christmas Valley Lodge and a tour of the development.

The group arrived in 9 airplanes.

Lyle Gable of Maupin, president of the group, and Mrs.

Richard Johnson of Condon, secretary-treasurer, headed the visit.

60 Members

Gable pointed out that 60 individuals, involving between 30 and 40 families, are members of Oregon Flying Farmers. Gable also said this is an international organization stressing family participation.

The Flying Farmers lauded the delicious luncheon served by host Ed Cater at the Christmas Valley Lodge. They also praised the more than ample Air Park facilities which handled the 9 planes with ease.

SCHOOL GRADUATION

Graduation exercises for eighth grade students of Fort Rock, Ana River and Silver Lake schools will be held May 28 at Silver Lake. Last day of school for the youngsters is May 31.

News of Valley to Get Bigger Spread

Betty Morehouse, Christmas Valley historian and frequent contributor to the Christmas Valley Gazette, will help spread further the good news about Christmas Valley.

Earlier this month, Mrs. Morehouse began a weekly column of news and happenings about Christmas Valley for the newspaper, Lake County Examiner, which was established in 1880.

85 Leadfoots Enter First Annual Sports Car Race Here on June 16

The first annual Christmas Valley Sports Car Race is speeding merrily along on its way to becoming a success.

As of May 17, 85 leadfoots have entered their cars to compete in the thrilling event at Christmas Valley on Sunday, June 16.

Ron Frederickson, president of the Klamath Falls Sports Car Association, said a few clubs have not yet announced entries. The field may number 100 cars, according to Frederickson.

Ed Cater, who is working with project manager Warren Morton and Frederickson on the event, said $144 worth of trophies have been purchased for the winners. The handsome silverware will be awarded to the winner, runner-up and third place finisher.

Race Course 4.9 Miles
The race course will cover 4.9 miles, and every bit of the action will be visible from the Christmas Valley Lodge. Timing for the spectacular race will be furnished by the Klamath Sports Car Association.

Entry fee is $3. Each driver will be given a complimentary ticket to the Beef Barbecue to be held Saturday on the Lodge grounds.

All Property Owners and their friends are invited to take in this exciting sports feature at Christmas Valley.

ARROWHEAD HUNTER MAKES BIG HAUL

Paul (Head Hunter) Shepp of Pasadena, Calif., spent the past week prowling around Christmas Valley for additions to his arrowhead collection.

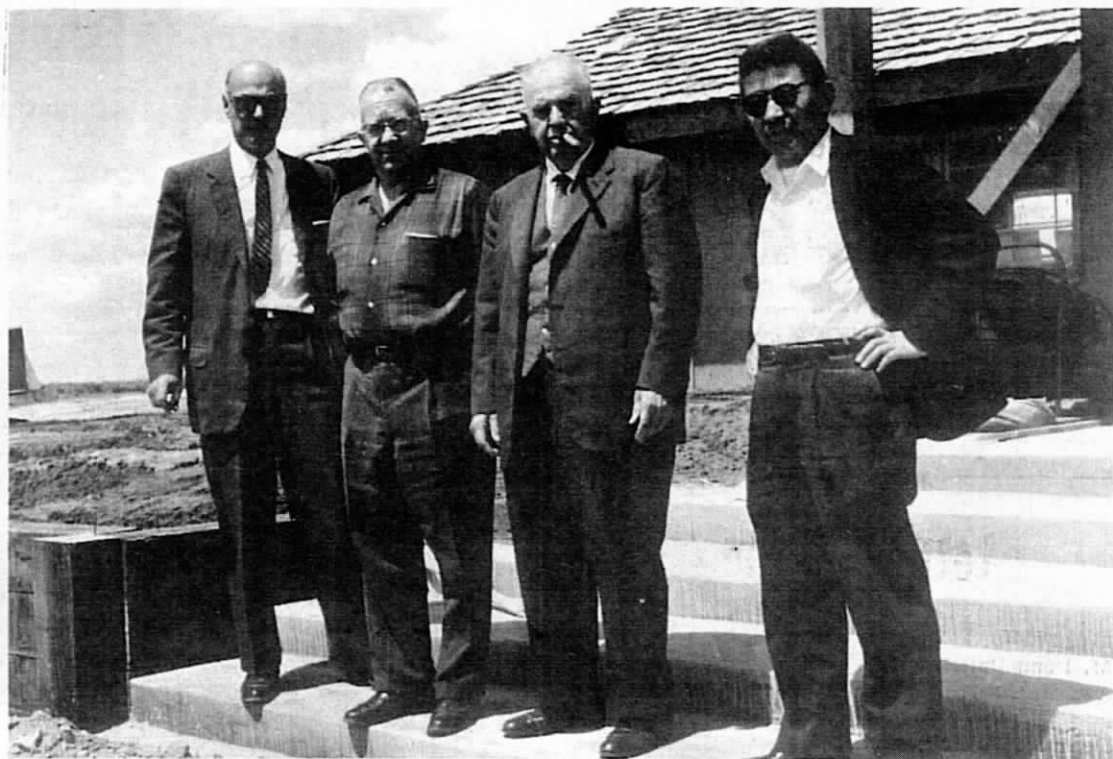

Betty Morehouse, an outstanding collector herself, lamented that "some of our more beautiful arrowheads will be going back to California."

PLANS MADE TO OBSERVE CAVE AS NAT'L MONUMENT

Plans for a special ceremony to establish the famed Fort Rock Cave as a National Monument have been tentatively scheduled for mid-June.

Ward Yeager, superintendent of Crater Lake National Park, will present both a bronze marker and a certificate of registration to Mr. and Mrs. R. A. (Rube) Long, on whose property the cave is located.

A Fort Rock Grange committee, headed by Mrs. Maurice Ward will assist the Longs in the planning for the COMPANY OFFICIALS PLEASED--M. Penn Phillips, company founder, (second from right) and other dignitaries were well satisfied with progress being made on all fronts of the Christmas Valley Development after recent inspection trip. 10 Jeep Caravan Pays Visit Here

A caravan of 10 jeeps, carrying members of 16 families from the Bend area, paid a visit to the Christmas Valley on Sunday, April 28, after a trip through the Lost Forest and Fossil Lake regions.

The group enjoyed a potluck dinner at the popular Lodge and conducted a short business meeting after dining.

All members of the party hunted for arrowheads and had good hunting. Several excellent points were found.

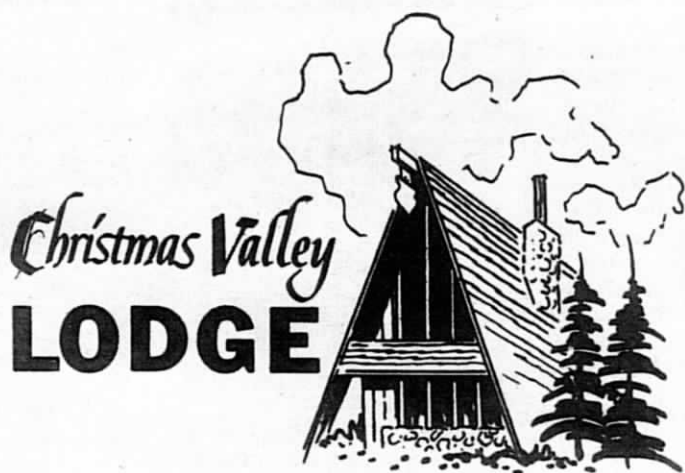

occasion. Long pointed out that the Fort Rock Cave has been classified as having exceptional value of the national cultural heritage. Sandals found in the cave have been estimated to be 9000 years old.

The cave is located about a mile and a half from Fort Rock and a short distance from Christmas Valley.

The Fort Rock Cave is expected to become an important tourist attraction in the future, according to local officials.

ATTORNEY TRIES PUTTING TOUCH--Ben Schwartz, an avid golfer, just couldn't resist trying his skill on the lush putting green during an inspection trip of Christmas Valley. Residents have already conducted a putting tourney.

AL BAERT FAMILY PLAYED MAJOR ROLE IN DEVELOPMENT OF CHRISTMAS VALLEY

Members of the energetic Baert family of Christmas Valley are engaged in many diversified activities.

Black haired, brown eyed Connie Baert operates the Christmas Valley Store where customers from miles around enjoy the combination of congeniality, reasonable prices and excellent merchandise.

Al Baert supervised the completion and graveling of 39 miles of townsite roads and has helped his wife Connie in the store since its inception one year ago.

Operates Post Office

Their son, Bud, operated the heavy equipment during most of the excavation of the Christmas Valley Lake, working some 3,000 hours and moving 350,000 yards of dirt in the past year.

Bud's red haired wife, Barbara, is the Postmistress for the Christmas Valley Post Office. She also rides herd on their three children; Rhonda, 10, Cindy, 9, and Gregg, 8.

Al and Connie were married 36 years ago and lived in Colorado where Al was in the produce business. They moved their family of two girls and one boy to Silver Lake, Oregon, in 1946. Al went into the lumber business, engaging in every phase from logging to operating a sawmill.

Former Rancher

One daughter, Mrs. Don Corum, lives in nearby Silver Lake and has four active boys. Daughter Mrs. Dale Sugden lives in Klamath Falls.

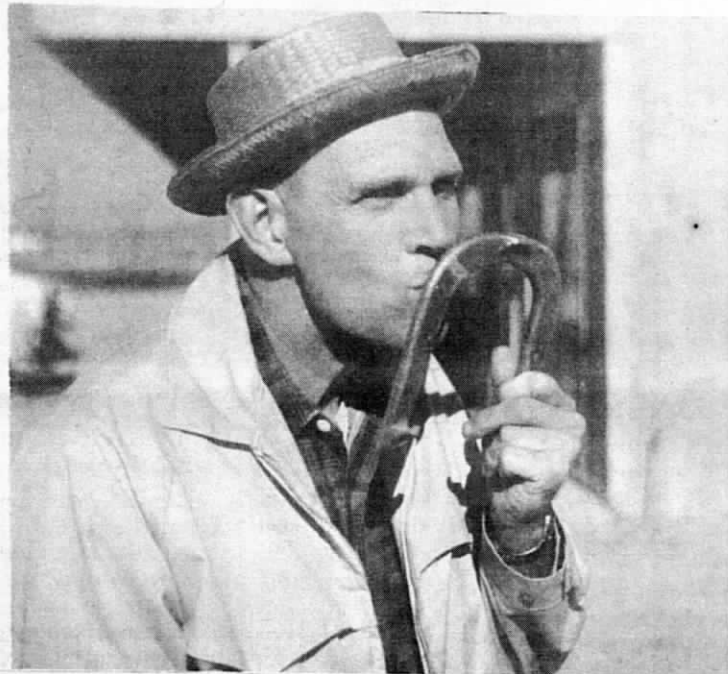

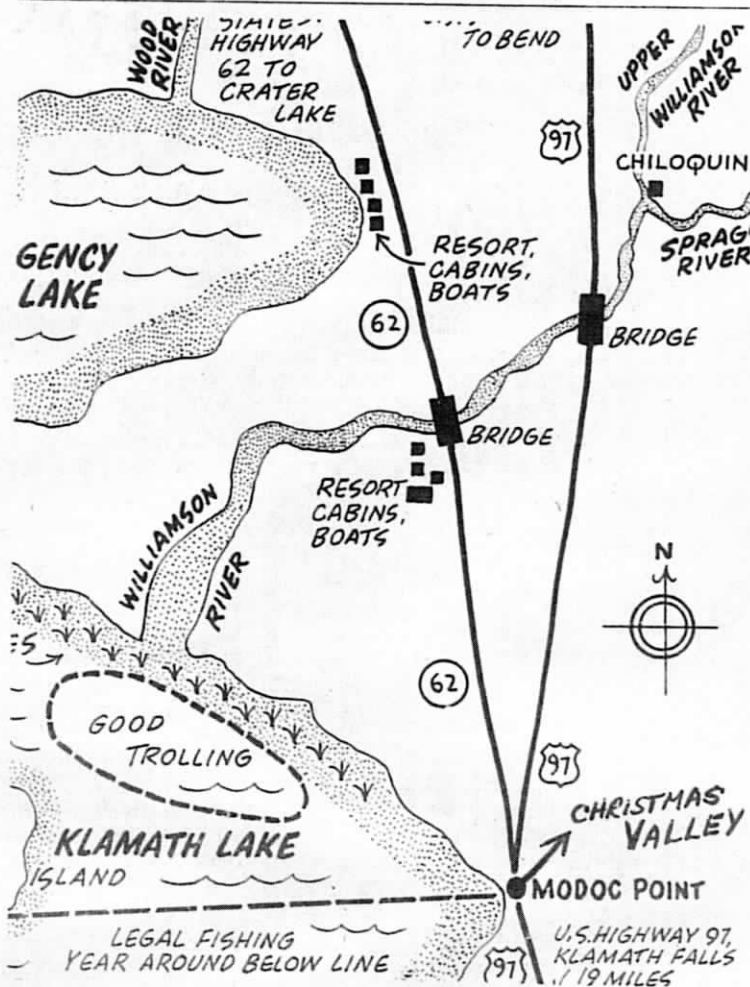

Bud and Barbara owned a ranch near Fort Rock for several years and managed the store and post office at Fort Rock before moving to Christmas Valley. Bud, Barbara and the three kids enjoy horse back riding, and each one owns a horse.

Al Baert is the undisputed horse shoe pitching champion of Christmas Valley.

Fort Rock PTA Holds Rummage Sale at Lodge

The Fort Rock Parents Teachers Association sponsored a rummage sale May 9 at the Christmas Valley Lodge.

Proceeds will go toward construction of a cement slab at the Fort Rock school.

LOCAL HORSE SHOE CHAMP--Al Baert kisses lucky horse shoe, presumably the one which enabled him to claim the championship of Christmas Valley and surrounding area. This is one of the most popular sports in the community.

HORSE SHOE PITCHING CONTEST ATTRACTS OUT OF TOWN STARS

With the lengthening of pre-summer days and the advent of daylight saving time, residents of Christmas Valley find time to gather after the day's work and participate in various games and sports.

The ball diamond draws 15 to 20 players; the putting green, about 10; the roping arena 4 or 5. But the hottest action and the loudest play takes place at the Christmas Valley Store where pegs have been put up for horse shoe pitching.

Undisputed But Contested

The undisputed but not uncontested champion is Al Baert.

Players Verle Emery and Phil Menges fly in from Silver Lake in Phil's plane. One Silver Lake player, Earl Corum, actually claims the horse shoe pitching championship.

It seems he caught Al on an off day and beat him. Now Earl claims he has to defend his championship only once a year and doesn't intend to strain himself before this time is up.

Takes on All Comers

Christmas Valley residents Chuck Poppish, Fred Kennedy, Kenyon Morehouse, Joe Murphy, Duffy Knorr, Bob Morehouse, Chuck Selby, Virgil Hall, Wayne Fullington and salesman "Atch" have all tried to dethrone Baert.

Occasionally Baert loses a game but makes a rapid comeback and still remains king of the Christmas Valley horse shoe pitchers.

MAY WET MONTH

May is expected to be a wet month for this area.

As of May 15, there has been 1.98 inches of precipitation, according to a report from the Follett Motel weather station in Lakeview.

Scrappy Rainbow Trout Grow Real Big in Williamson, Wood Rivers

By LeROY HARROD, Fishing and Hunting Editor

The June 1962 issue of the "Gazette" carried an article entitled "Fishin' Holes Near Christmas Valley." In it I described 15 rivers, streams and creeks, 19 lakes, and four reservoirs, all within a short distance of Christmas Valley.

These fishin' holes provide a variety of fish, rainbow, cut-throat, Eastern brook, German Brown, and Kamloops trout; large and small mouth bass, whitefish, channel catfish, and the Atlantic salmon which has been successfully stocked in one of the lakes.

I've caught fish from every river, stream, lake and reservoir named in the article. Once in a while I'd come away without even a bite, but that's part of fishin'. On the other hand I've been forced to fold up my tackle and go home long before the day was over after taking my legal limit.

Where to Fish

From the Lodge in Christmas Valley, I would feel almost certain of bringing back a lot of fish, by heading straight to the beautiful WILLIAMSON and WOOD Rivers and AGENCY Lake which are on Oregon State Highway 97, just 19 miles north of Klamath Falls, Oregon. Near this point is the junction of Highway 62 which takes you to the Wood River and Agency Lake. This is only a few miles from the center of activity on the Williamson River.

If you are a fly fisherman, start casting in any of the places which might look good to you, preferably at the foot of a long riffle just where it drops into a deep, blue pool.

Best Fishing Times

Late evening and early morning seem to be the best for this type of water. The fish are mostly rainbows, and they are scrappers. The average size will be about 9 to 12 inches. Now and then an old moss back weighing 4 to 7 pounds will grab your fly. Should this happen, you'll have the fight of your life.

If you are not a fly fisherman, then rig up your spinning or casting outfit and use small spinners or baits. Either method will put a good "mess of fish" in your creel before you've covered perhaps a mile of the Williamson.

LEROY HARROD

Hunting, Fishing Editor

The Williamson is a broad, slow moving body of water, about 150 feet in width. Most of its banks are either steep or brush grown which makes casting from the shore almost impossible, except along the gravel bars and open places along the swift running riffles.

Trolling Gets "Big Uns"

The real thrill of fishing the WILLIAMSON is from a boat where you can fish in water which cannot be reached from shore. This is the method used for catching the "big ones" -- from 6 to 7 pound rainbows.

The successful fisherman is the one who studies the water and knows the hiding places. When I first fished the Williamson I employed a guide to show me the best places to fish.

I have found that the best stretch of water for trolling on the Williamson is from the Highway 97 bridge, downstream to where the river flows into Klamath Lake. Here three and four pounders are considered average. Six and

First Aid Course Offered to Residents

All Christmas Valley residents are invited to sign up for a first aid course offered by the Oregon Industrial Accident Commission. The valuable course is sponsored by the Christmas Valley Recreation District.

Two hour classes will be held once a week for four weeks. Dates and location for the meetings will be announced at a later date.

Sign at Store

Anyone over 14 years of age can sign for the lessons at the Christmas Valley Store. A nominal charge will be made for bandages and a Red Cross book.

Instructor for the first aid course will be E. C. Leum, safety representative for the Oregon Industrial Accident Commission.

seven pounders are not unusual.

Goliath Trout

Jerry Cecchi, a regular in those waters, caught a rainbow that tipped the scales at 11-3/4 pounds. That one was topped when he returned to our cabin late that evening. This Goliath of a trout weighed 17 pounds 14 ounces, and while only 33 inches long, he was very broad and thick.

The angler, Ted Roberts, had hooked the fish while casting from shore with a light spinning outfit and a small trout spinner for a lure. This was an unusual incident, not happening very often. Dr. Phil Schneider, Director of the Oregon State Game Commission, states that he has caught Rainbows of 12 pounds and over, his largest weighing 18 pounds.

I have never caught an 18 pounder from the Williamson, but have taken several true rainbows weighing a little over 10 pounds, one of which was caught on a Red Dragon Steelhead Fly. I will never forget the battle I had with that fish!

Caught 27 Fish

While you are on the Williamson, don't pass up Wood River and Agency Lake, which is only about four miles away on Highway 62.

Agency Lake is small but productive. It is connected with Klamath Lake by a narrow passage, and is fed by the slow moving Woods River. Here you will find big rainbow and brown trout.

At the new resort only three miles up Highway 62 from the Williamson River crossing, the boys in camp told me of 9 and 12 pounders caught several days before, and that seven trolling boats had hooked 27 big fish in one afternoon. They said the record for Agency and the Woods River was 26 pounds. I like to believe every "fish story" I hear.

I think it is now time to offer that little ditty known as:

THE ANGLER'S PRAYER

Lord give me grace
To catch a fish--
So big that even I
When talking of it
Afterwards--
May never need to lie.

DYNAMIC GROWTH FOR OREGON'S ECONOMY

Experts Predict Great Period Of Population, Industrial Development

Oregon is entering its most dynamic period of growth in population and industrial development, sparked by dramatic gains in the 1960-1970 decade.

This is the conclusion of Hubert J. Soher of San Francisco, a nationally-recognized economic and industrial consultant, who recently completed a year's study of Oregon's economy and has written a report entitled "Oregon Today and Tomorrow, An Economic Study of the Quality State."

The documented study is being published currently in 60-page-book form by Pacific Power & Light Company, which plans to distribute it nationally among investors, editors, economists, and financial and industrial leaders.

"As the work of an independent consultant of national stature, the survey report will prove a valued tool in attracting new investments needed to foster the continued progress of Oregon," states Paul B. McKee, Chairman of PP&L's Board of Directors, in reporting PP&L's sponsorship of the published report.

Based on Extensive Research

"We believe the report also will help Oregonians to take advantage of the opportunities for future growth indicated by the constructive forces that are at work in the economy of the state," he added.

The 25,000-word report and its conclusions are based on several hundred interviews with leading industrialists, financiers, educators, federal and state agency and local officials, editors, chambers of commerce and labor leaders and agriculturists of Oregon. The consultant also had available extensive research and statistical reports from national organizations.

Cites Economic Factors

Soher cites the following major economic factors favorable to Oregon:

Its unmatched water and timber resources, its abundant hydroelectric power, its emphasis upon quality in the production of processed foods, sports apparel, electronic and scientific instruments and widely varied manufacturing, and its scenic grandeur, research centers, great educational institutions, mild climate, highly literate population and highly skilled labor force have become recognized nationally and internationally.

Taken together, they have established Oregon's reputation for products which command premium prices, for livability, favorable business climate, unparalleled recreation facilities, and for business opportunities in many fields, the report states.

2,300,000 Population by 1970

From this sound base Soher predicts that:

Oregon, with plenty of growing room, will have a population of 2,300,000 by 1970 and 3,100,000 by 1980.

Research, in both educational institutions and industrial plants, will become a major industry.

7,000,000 Tourists

The tourist business, which in 1962 brought more than 7,000,000 visitors and $217,000,000 into the state, will pass the $300,000,000-a-year rate in the 1970's, rivaling today's half-billion dollar agricultural income, which is second only to the state's billion-dollar timber income.

The burgeoning electronics and scientific instruments business will show additional sensational gains.

Fisheries will expand to meet the nation's increasing demand for seafoods.

Vast Water Resources

Students in higher education facilities will reach the 50,000 mark by 1965-66 and exceed 80,000 by 1970.

The region's large and adequate power supply, now at the 15,000,000 kilowatt capacity level, will reach 50,000,000 kilowatts by 1990 and 80,000,000 kilowatts by 2010. During that time the region will pass from hydroelectric to conventional steam-electric and finally to thermo-nuclear for the basic source of power supply.

The state's vast water resources will mean development of double to triple today's irrigated acreage and also will attract new industries.

Natural Market to Increase

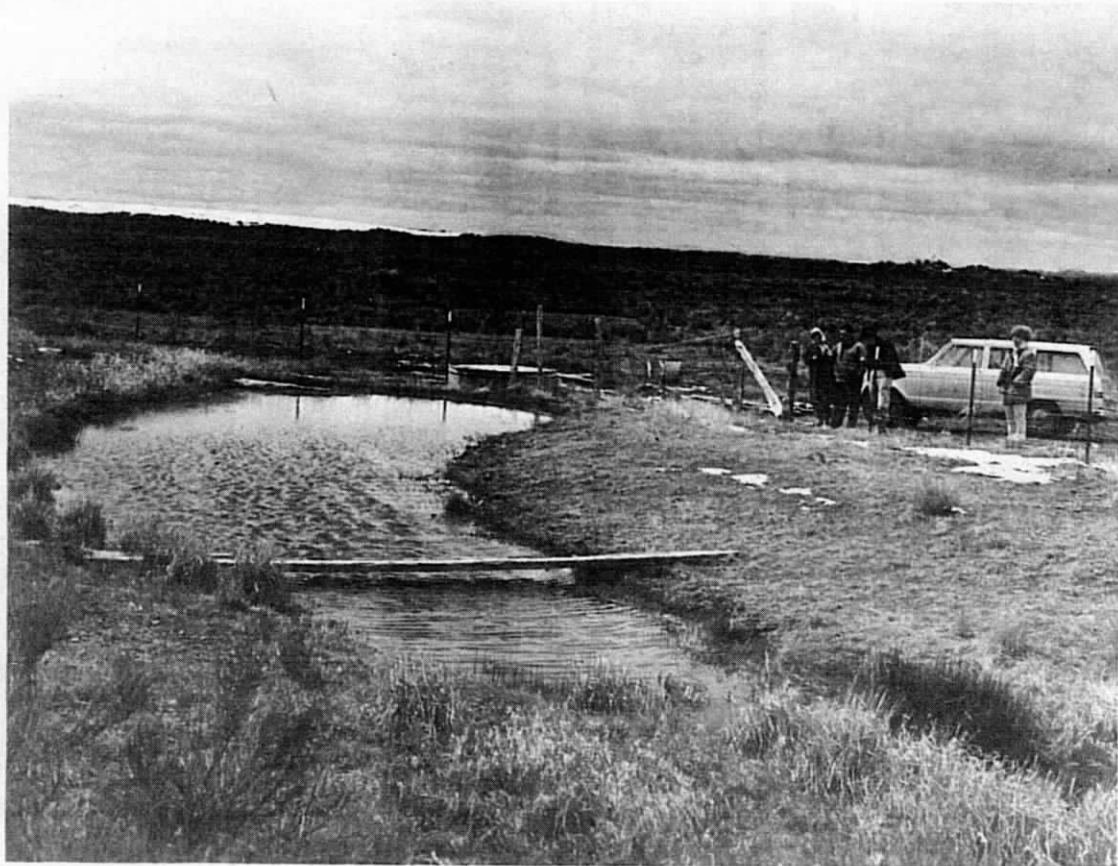

The forest industry, now in transition, will continue to upgrade its products and will thrive in better-financed, better-managed and integrated operations. The pulp and paper industry will grow amazingly.

Heavy, light and exotic metal working will continue to increase.

Oregon's natural market of 6,000,000 consumers in the Pacific Northwest and Alaska will expand greatly into California, the West generally and also nationally and internationally.

Baerts Have Visitors

Al and Connie Baert played hosts over the May 11-12 weekend to their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Sugden of Klamath Falls, and daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Don Corum of Silver Lake and their four boys.

NATURAL, FREE FLOWING SPRING--This water hole is called Sand Springs and is located between Lost Forest and Shifting Sand Dunes. Proposed national park would include this area. Tour members (from left) Helen Park, Fort Rock; Ed Cater, Christmas Valley; Vic Ecklund, Portland, and Betty Morehouse, Christmas Valley, made an inspection stop at this inviting spring.

Local Ball Players Beat Silver Lake

Long-range challenges, insinuations and veiled threats about respective softball playing ability finally climaxed into a showdown between Silver Lake and Christmas Valley teams on Sunday, May 6.

When the contest was over, Silver Lake players returned home licking their wounds from a 22 to 14 beating administered by local heroes.

The visitors were also licking their lips after dining on a steak dinner at the Christmas Valley Lodge. The feast would have been more palatable for the visitors except they had to play for it, including the tab for local players. Even umpires Al Baert and Virgil Hall were permitted to partake.

The winning members of the Christmas Valley team included Mel Brown Jr., Louis

Chancy, Ed Cater, Wayne DuBois, Bud Gates, Joe Murphy, Chuck Calcote, Ray Pensinger, Jack Gillette and Wayne Fullington.

Losers were Don Corum, Don Lesley, Verle Emery, Phil Menges, Bobby Barricks, Doyle Hayes, Jack and Jim Lansdown and Dave Jones.

Christmas Valley team manager John Pettus said a return game will be played at Silver Lake.

Some Mysteries of the Lost Forest Explained

Region Called 'True Oddity of Mother Nature'

By BETTY MOREHOUSE

Questions concerning the 9,100 acre stand of Ponderosa Pine in Lost Forest, have long titillated the curiosity of both Geologists and foresters, as well as tourists who have visited the area.

Considered a "true oddity of nature", the uniqueness of the Lost Forest lies in its location.

The Lost Forest, which borders Christmas Valley land, is some forty miles from main stands of Lake County's Ponderosa Pine trees, and continues to exist in an area considered dry for its survival.

Underground Water Supply

The vast underground water supply of the area may be a contributing factor to this survival.

According to Dick Wallace Berry, professor of forestry at the University of Arizona, who conducted an extensive investigation of Lost Forest in 1959 and 1960, the Lost Forest is a survivor of a larger forest which once covered an extensive area.

Nature Protects Forest

He found that seeds of the Lost Forest germinate faster, although the seedlings show no greater survival ability than other Ponderosa seedlings.

He discovered that native rabbit brush gives the seedlings protection from the weather, bugs and animals; that the fine sand which covers the area provides a soil cover which helps to preserve the moisture from evaporation, and the sands also help to hold other vegetation at a minimum--vegetation which would otherwise compete with the trees for moisture.

Berry found Ponderosa pollen in the pumice dust from Mount Mazama (Crater Lake) explosion, showing that the forest existed 6,400 years ago. Age of the trees in the Lost Forest today is estimated at 300 to 500 years.

MYSTERIOUS LOST FOREST--Considered a "true oddity of nature", this imposing stand of Ponderosa Pine trees has long mystified forestry experts and geologists. Located near Christmas Valley, the Lost Forest is some 40 miles from the main stands of pinos. This is the surviving section of a larger forest which once covered an extensive area. Scientists say the vast underground water supply of this region is a contributing factor to forest's survival.

Tip to Campers on Starting Fire

Christmas Valley Property Owners who plan to camp and fish in this bountiful area may be confronted by a balky fire or a stubborn outboard motor.

Here's a tip to handle each situation.

Make your own campfire starter by soaking a few charcoal briquets in turpentine and wrap in aluminum foil for safe storage. They light easy, burn hot and last a long time.

If your outboard motor is cranky in cold weather, remove the spark plugs and put a few drops of lighter fluid on each spark point. Replace the plugs and crank up the motor.

100 FOR POTLUCK DINNER AT LODGE

One of the largest crowds ever assembled in the Christmas Valley Lodge gathered for a potluck dinner on Saturday, April 20.

Ed Cater, manager of the Lodge, said more than 100 people attended. Charades and games were played after dinner.

PURINA CALF PEN PLANS

WATER OR NURSING CHOW

CALF STARTENA

FEED AND WATER RACK FOR FRONT OF EACH INDIVIDUAL CALF PEN.

THIS SUGGESTED PHYSICAL SET UP WILL SAVE LABOR AND PERMIT TOP MANAGEMENT CONTROL

1. Put calves in individual pen for first 30 days or until they have at least learned to eat -- usually 10 - 15 days.
 2. Starting pens not less than 4' x 4'.
 3. In group pens not less than 25 sq.ft. per calf.
 4. Hay racks off floor.
 5. Plenty of ventilation without draft.
 6. Water supply stationary and secured so it won't be spilled.
- The above layout and calf raising principles need not be expensive. The layout can be set up in present building or as a newly constructed calf unit.

CORNY AS KANSAS IN AUGUST--This corn may be as high as an elephant's eye but it was grown in the Christmas Valley area, not in Kansas. Ellis Painter and his daughter, Cheer, check corn on Painter Ranch near here. Painter grows most of his own vegetables at the ranch.

GOVERNMENT BOOKLET ON PELLET RATION FEEDING FOR CATTLE NOW AVAILABLE

A recent publication prepared by the Agricultural Research Service, United States Department of Agriculture, about feeding pelleted rations to beef cattle, is available to Christmas Valley Property Owners.

The booklet presents an introduction, in summary form, of the advantages concerning the feeding of pelleted rations to beef cattle. The conclusions are from experiments conducted in many parts of the country.

Another area covered in the booklet is the development of portable field pelleting equipment. It has been predicted that successful and economical "wafer" producing machinery will be available to the farmer in the near future.

The Gazette has obtained a few copies of this booklet by writing to Superintendent of Documents, U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington 25, D.C. Ask for, Production Research Report No. 69 and send 15 cents with your request.

Readers May Obtain Plans for Hog Farrowing House

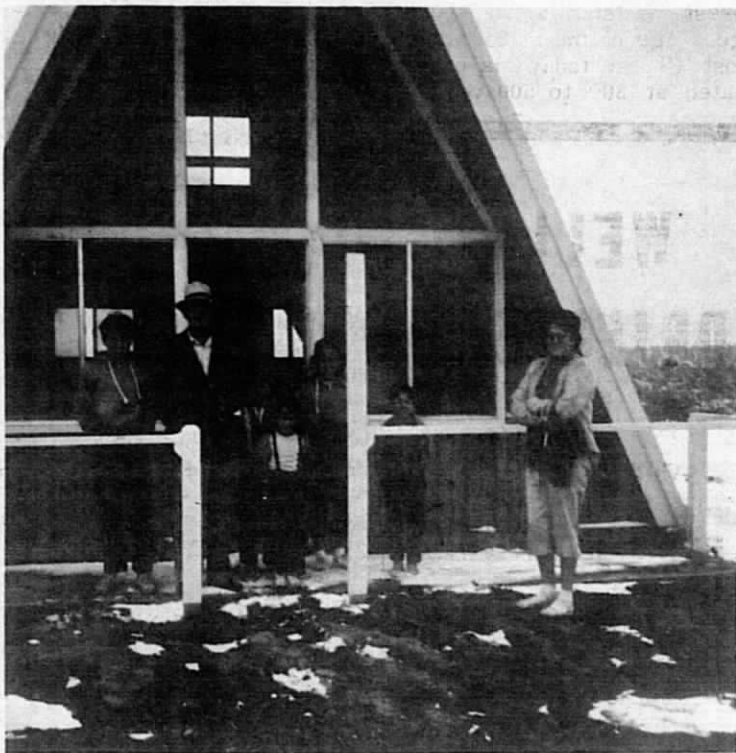

An article in the March issue of the Gazette about pork raising in Christmas Valley, has created much interest from Property Owners.

We have recently acquired sets of plans for inexpensive hog farrowing houses through the courtesy of Ralston Purina Company.

The plans give general specifications for an expandable 12 sow unit to a 24 sow size. Provisions are made for supplemental heat inside the building and for heated floor areas for young pigs.

Even suggestions for construction are outlined.

Also available are sets of plans of a "Pig Parlor" with simplified instructions. Both are available by writing to the Ralston Purina Company, St. Louis 2, Missouri.

PLENTY OF ROOM IN A-FRAME HOUSE--That's what the Harry W. Claxton family of seven seem to be saying as they proudly stand in front of their newly purchased home in Christmas Valley. Claxtons are from Hayward, Calif. A-Frame houses are proving very popular here. Kids can have a ball helping Mom and Dad finish interior of home.

Plenty of Calf Roping Action at Rodeo Arena

There was plenty of action Sunday at the Christmas Valley Dude Ranch where several local stars participated in a little calf roping at the Rodeo Arena.

Project manager Warren

Morton, Sandy Dollarhide and Kenyon and Betty Morehouse roped the 15 head of calves recently brought to the Rodeo Arena.

Junior calf riders swarmed from the brush to help the roping, and Joe Murphy Jr., Mike and Ralph Cater and Mike McClister all showed championship form.

Plans are being formulated to have arena action every weekend.
