2nd Annual Wild West Rodeo to Be Staged Here July 27-28

If you are all worn out fighting the traffic on the freeway . . . relax . . . come with me to Christmas Valley.

I will introduce you to a group of pioneers who are helping to build a new community where they can live in a more relaxed life . . . away from the hubbub and hustle of the big city.

We'll start with Al and Connie Baert . . . they own the general store where you can buy anything that you want. . . frozen foods . . . groceries . . . drygoods . . . hardware. Anything that you need that they don't have they will get it for you and give it to you tomorrow.

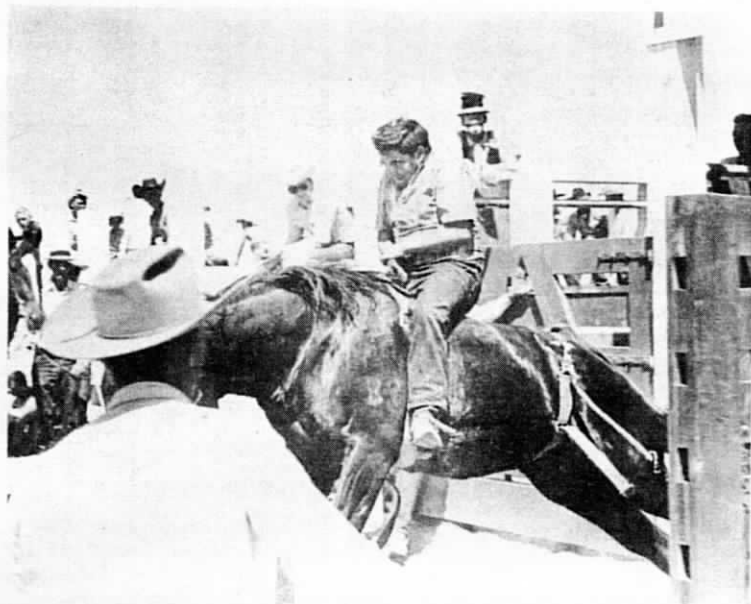

Connie does all the work in the store, in addition to running the post office. Al runs the big bulldozers that dug the lake; also the graders to make the roads. When he gets home in the evening though, don't get into a game of horseshoes with him because it will cost you a hat.

Over at the Lodge you will find Ed and Ann Cater. Ed, he's chief there. . . he stands around. . . he's supposed to be the manager. Once in a while, maybe, he does a little work . . . Ann is really the one. She's the kitchen queen and, oh boy, don't eat those apple pies she makes because you will then have to go on Metre-cal for three or four days.

Over at the Company Office you'll find Mel Brown. He's the tract manager . . . he's the one that will take you and show you your property. Also, while he is doing that he'll pull his coat back and you'll see a badge. He is the Deputy Sheriff. When he gets back to the office, after driving you around the tract, he will put on another hat . . . he's the President of the Christmas Valley Chamber of Commerce.

In the Engineering Office you will find Warren

RIDE 'EM AMATEUR COWBOY--Floyd (Duffy) Knorr, local concrete contractor, looks like he'd rather be somewhere else as he comes out of the chute on a wild bucking bronc. This is the type of action visitors will see during the two-day second annual Christmas Valley Rodeo on Saturday and Sunday, July 27-28. Duffy didn't suffer very long because it was only a short ride.

NEW CHURCH BUILDING TO OPEN AUGUST 15

Christmas Valley residents soon may worship in their own church.

Carlo P. Giuntini, president of M. Penn Phillips Co., has donated the land for the church site and furnished the materials and labor to construct the building.

Residents will donate their talents to complete the interior of the church.

"The frame and roof are up and the church building is ready for electrical wiring. The church should be completed about Aug. 15," said Giuntini.

"The church will be non-denominational," pointed out Giuntini, "and will be available for use by all religious groups. Here they can alternately hold their church services."

Accommodates 35-40 People

The church building, which is located on Pinon and Tree Lane, will be able to accommodate between 35 and 40 people. It will also be used by different religious groups as a meeting place and a setting for social functions.

Architecture of the church building is A-Frame styling, to complement the pattern of design construction used in the Christmas Valley Lodge and the Recreation Building in the Mobile Home Estates.

Community Project

The church project is definitely a community project, with many citizens contributing their time, talent and money.

Virgil Hall offered his services in clearing the site for the church; Duffy Knorr donated the cement and equipment for building the foundation; Fred Kennedy did the painting and donated paint.

Carpenters Owen Holmes and Coy Amaker will guide and assist the volunteers in completing the interior of the church.

New Bookkeeper

Mrs. Patty Knorr is the new bookkeeper at the Christmas Valley business office. She succeeds Mrs. Wayne Fullington.

Fabulous Beef Barbecue, Dancing Also Scheduled

One good show deserves another. With this philosophy in mind, President Carlo P. Giuntini announced that the second annual Christmas Valley Rodeo will be held Saturday and Sunday, July 27-28, at the Dude Ranch Arena.

Last year's inaugural Rodeo was a smashing success from every standpoint.

"More than 3000 watched the thrilling two-day Wild West extravaganza, while the most skilled of the 300 contestants from several states divided a whopping $4960 in prize money. We expect this year's show will even be better in all respects," said Giuntini.

Barbecue, Dance Planned

In addition to the exciting riding contests, other activities include a delicious beef barbecue at the Dude Ranch on Saturday and Sunday and a gala Rodeo Dance on Sunday.

Giuntini said all Property Owners and friends are invited at no charge to attend the action-packed Rodeo, which is fast becoming one of the big sporting events in Central Oregon.

Exciting Events

Events include bareback riding, saddle bronc riding, cow riding, calf roping, team

Water Lines Installed in Units 1 & 2

All Property Owners with homes in Units 1 and 2 of the Christmas Valley Townsite can now have hook-ups for fresh water delivery, it was announced by General Project Manager Phil Washington.

Washington said work on the Townsite Water Supply System is progressing on schedule and that all pipe installations have been completed in Units 1 and 2. Residents there can now drink their water right from the tap.

Moving Into Unit 3

"Although we're only hooked up in Units 1 and 2 in the Townsite, if any customer wants to build now in other

Another Big New Well for Abundant Water System

Another water well -- this one capable of gushing 2300 gallons of clear, pure water a minute -- has been added to the abundant Christmas Valley Water System.

Well No. 4 was drilled in mid-June and proved to be an instant gusher. The newest well is in the Christmas Valley Townsite in Unit 1, just south of the Air Park. More technically, it is located on the Northerly 100 feet of Lot 26, Block 3, Unit 1.

Project manager Warren Morton said the well was drilled to a depth of only 302 feet. The well was drilled by Gordon Goeres. continued on page 2

Lake Expected to be Filled in Mid-July

The big Christmas Valley Lake will be completely filled by the middle of July thanks to the drilling of the new gusher water well No. 4.

"With this new well capable of producing 2300 gallons of water a minute, we'll be able to divert this supply for increasing the flow of water into the Lake and speeding up the filling operation," said Penn Thayer, president of the Mutual Water Improvement District.

Lake Plenty Big

The Lake won't be a mill pond by any means. It will be more than two-thirds of a mile long (3500 feet) with a capacity of approximately 176 acre-feet and an area of 26 acres.

Christmas Valley Lake will be from 325 to 600 feet wide and will range in depth from 6 to 10 feet.

After the water level reaches its peak, the Lake will be stocked with plenty of fish.

"We're going to stock the Lake with plenty of bass, blue gill, crappie, catfish and maybe some types of trout," said Thayer.

"Besides fishing and swimming, there'll be boating and even water skiing in a portion especially set aside for this sport. There'll also be plenty of room along the lake for holding family style picnics," he added.

The area around the Lake recently was planted with 8700 pounds of rye and barley seed and fortified with 10,000 pounds of fertilizer.

LAST SLAB BEING POURED--Workmen are shown finishing up the last of the slabs for the $65,000 Christmas Valley Mobile Home Estates. Project is now 100% finished and several people already have moved their trailers into the ultra-modern spaces. Recreation Building is also completed, and several parties have taken place there.

NEW RIDING CLUB FORMED FOR FAMILY PARTICIPATION

Remember the Riders of the Purple Sage? Well, they're back, at least the Christmas Valley version of them.

Local equestrians held a meeting at the Christmas Valley Lodge June 11 and organized a riding club called Sage Brush Riders.

Kenyon Morehouse was elected the first president of the riding group. Other officers are Louis Chancy, vice-president, and Catherine Gillette, secretary-treasurer.

Fun for Family

The riding club will be a family affair, with future events planned for children, grownups and grandmas, too. They're off to a galloping start already with 20 families signed up and more expected daily.

Present plans are to hold weekend activities at the Christmas Valley Dude Ranch Arena. Barrel Racing, Calf Roping, Team Roping, Pole Bending and Keyhole Races are some of the events scheduled.

Property Owners are welcome to join the Sage Brush Riders. This may be a good time to get in a little secret practice before competing in the second Christmas Valley Rodeo.

STAG DINNER HELD BY SHRINERS

About 30 members of the Lake County Shrine Club enjoyed their annual "Mountain Oyster" Stag Dinner, which was held June 7 in the new Recreation Building.

The Shriners relented enough of their privacy to permit Connie Baert, Connie Corum and Freda Currier in the kitchen. The ladies were allowed to cook the mountain oysters.

BARBECUE SPECIALIST VERSATILE MAN -- Smiling Phil Pitman, a neighboring rancher, is a man of many talents besides running one of the top ranches in the area. Phil did a masterful job of preparing the giant outdoor beef barbecue, a task which required many hours of night work. However, between servings, Phil had time to compete in a horseshow pitching contest. Of course he won it.

$65,000 Mobile Home Estates Trailer Park Open for Customers

The $65,000 Christmas Valley Mobile Home Estates is now a reality. The last cement was poured and the last nail driven home in early June to provide this progressive community with still another luxurious facility.

The water and power utility lines and sewage lines have all been installed and connected for immediate use.

One of the major features of the Mobile Home Estates project -- The Recreation Building -- has already been used for parties and meetings.

The Recreation Building, a replica of the Lodge in the way of architecture, is located on the shores of the Lake. The building contains laundry and kitchen facilities, game and meeting rooms and enough space for dancing.

Has All Conveniences

This luxurious trailer park facility has space for 32 trailers but can be expanded to accommodate 80 trailers.

Each trailer space has an individual 9x20 foot concrete patio, off-street parking room for the family car, a garbage disposal connection and is connected to provide electrical, water and telephone service.

Rent $30 A Month

Cost of the trailer space is $30 a month, not counting the cost of utilities.

The trailer park is ideally situated between the Commercial Center and the recreational facilities of the Lake. Occupants have access to boat launching ramps and the beach recreation area on the Lake as well as barbecue pits and outdoor game equipment.

Self-Contained Community

The Mobile Home Estates was designed and planned to serve as a self-contained community. One can shop at the nearby Christmas Valley Store, prepare the food in the Recreation Building's kitchen and all with a minimum of effort.

Several families already are using the trailer park. Many more trailerites fond of fishing and hunting will be coming here during the season. Many will stay on to become permanent residents after they become aware of the wonders of Christmas Valley, we predict.

Water Supply Outlook Better

The 1963 water supply outlook for Lake County is much better than the midwinter forecast, according to a report released June 13 by T. P. Helseth, State Conservationist of the Soil Conservation Service, cooperating with Oregon State University engineers.

Mountain snowcover melted rapidly when mid-May temperatures became excessively warm. Very little snow remains on the watershed and this can be found only at the highest and most protected locations.

Upper watershed soils, close to the point of saturation have assisted considerably in boosting the runoff from snowmelt and rainfall.

Helseth said water was still running over the spillways of Dews and Cottonwood reservoirs at the time of the report. Dews held 65,300 acre feet compared to 4300 last year.

Streamflow forecasts have again been raised in this area as a result of above normal rainfall. Above normal rainfall on already wet soils has been the major contributor to the good increases in streamflow since April 1.

Tourist Business Boosted Oregon Economy by $401,800,000 in 1962

The tourist business is big business in Oregon and Lake County, in which bustling Christmas Valley is located.

Last year Oregon income from tourist travel amounted to $217,000,000. In 1961 the total was $186,000,000 and as recently as 1954 it was only $125,000,000.

In addition to the $217,000,000 spent in Oregon by out-of-state visitors, residents of Oregon who vacationed within the state spent another $184,800,000 for a whopping total of $401,800,000 in tourist business in 1962.

These were some of the interesting statistics revealed by William Augustine of Lakeview in a talk at the Lake County Chamber of Commerce forum luncheon to commemorate "Welcome Oregon Week".

Augustine said a survey by the United States Chamber of Commerce showed that if a community can gain 24 tourists a day, this income would equal an industrial payroll of $100,000 a year.

He said the average tourist car contains 3.3 persons, who stay an average of 2.93 days in the state and spend an average of $20.45 a day per car.

Postmistress on Job

Christmas Valley's "speckled postmistress", Barbara Baert, is back on the job after recovering from a bout with measles.

Teenagers Hold 1st Party in Brand New Recreation Building

Christmas Valley teenagers gave a combination "Going Away" and Birthday Party June 10 for Sandy Dollarhide and Bobbie Lee Morehouse in the newly completed Recreation Building.

Gifts were presented to the guests of honor.

The gay party included dancing, snacks and a scavenger hunt. The winning team gained valuable points by procuring a hair from Kenyon Morehouse's mustache.

PASTORAL SCENE AT CHRISTMAS VALLEY--This cute picture looks like something right out of a greeting card. Jennie Lynn Murphy is shown feeding a little lamb while the other two wait their turn. Jennie's brother Chris, first baby born in Christmas Valley, also waits to feed the animals. The cow grazing contentedly in the background couldn't care less. The animals are part of the livestock being raised at the 40-acre Christmas Valley Model Farm.

Scientists Say Land Can Never Be Worn Out

You can lose soil. It can blow or wash away. You can also milk it practically dry of its minerals with "hard farming."

But you can't wear it out. Put back those minerals in the right proportions, and a run-down soil will produce more today than it did when it was virgin land.

This we know because wise scientists started experiments more than 75 years ago at the University of Missouri and the University of Illinois. At that time, farmers were arguing whether the deep, rich soils of the prairies would hold up.

To settle the matter, Illinois scientists set aside plots of virgin soil and began comparing various rotations and soil treatments. On one plot, they began growing corn without putting back a thing. Perhaps they figured that if any crop would "wear out" soil, corn was it.

Actually, one of the famous Morrow plots has been in continuous corn since 1876. No one knows what it yielded from 1876 through 1887--those records were lost in a fire. But in 1888, it made 54.3 bu.

To this day, a portion of that plot has never had an ounce of lime, manure or commercial fertilizer. In 1962, it grew 41.4-bu. corn.

Now, suppose you tested that soil, then put on the lime and plant foods it needs. What would happen?

Well, Illinois scientists A. L. Lang and Larry Miller did exactly that on a portion of the plot in 1954. The yield jumped an even 50 bushels.

But here's the snapper. Since then, they've continued to lime and fertilize this portion of the plot. In 1962, the 87th year in corn, it yielded 123.8 bu. This is the same soil that grew only 54.3 bu. in 1888 and peaked out at 62 bu. in 1896.

Christmas Valley Property Owners no doubt are wondering if soil manhandled as badly as in the experiment can still produce crops after all these years, what is the farming potential of virgin land around Christmas Valley.

The results will be forthcoming soon and they will be exceptionally favorable judging from initial tests at the Christmas Valley Model Farm.

Numerous experiments have been conducted here to determine what crops would grow best for commercial purposes.

The results of these tests and other important farming discoveries will be revealed to readers in subsequent issues of the GAZETTE.

VISITOR FROM FREE CHINA

The good word on Christmas Valley is not only spreading around the country, but is getting talked about overseas, too.

Your editors recently received the following letter from Taipei, Taiwan, China, which is called Free China, addressed to the Christmas Valley Lodge.

Dear Sirs:

Please reserve one single room with bath at the minimum rate for Mr. Sinval J. Oliveira Jr. from 6 to 8 September 1963.

Mr. Oliveira will leave Taipei on August 12, and arrive Christmas Valley from Klamath Falls by Grand Transportation on 6 September.

He will stay in Christmas Valley for two days and then return to Klamath Falls by Grand Transportation on 8 September.

Kindly confirm at your earliest convenience and also advise the hotel charges per day.

Thank you for your cooperation and look forward to your prompt reply.

Very truly yours,

AND AWAY THEY ZOOM--There was plenty of action as shown here during the first Christmas Valley Sports Car Race. Cars roared along the 3.6 mile route around the Lake and the Lodge. Sixty-seven drivers entered.

Woman Rides Horse Here From East

They come in all manner of transportation from everywhere just to see beautiful Christmas Valley.

An unusual guest was Thora Gauthor, who came to Christmas Valley by horseback from Pennsylvania.

Accompanied by two women friends, the three equestriennes rode from Erie, Pa., July 23, 1962, and arrived in Corvina, Calif., on Feb. 14, 1963.

Miss Gauthor continued her Western trip when her companions went back home. The intrepid rider said she will be trailering her 11-year old pinto gelding as far as Sioux City, South Dakota, and will ride the rest of the way home.

Miss Gauthor's only companion now is her cat, who travels in a saddle bag.

Historical Fort Rock Cave Made Nat'l Monument

About 20 residents of Christmas Valley were on hand for the impressive ceremonies dedicating Fort Rock Cave as a national monument on June 22. The historically important cave is a mile from Fort Rock and a short distance from Christmas Valley.

Dr. Luther Cressman, head of the Anthropology Department at the University of Oregon was the featured speaker. Dr. Cressman was in charge of the cave's excavation several years ago and knows intimately the treasures and artifacts found in the cave.

W. Ward Yeager, superintendent of Crater Lake National Park and representing the National Park Service, presented a certificate of registration and a bronze marker to Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Long, owners of the land on which the cave is located.

National Cultural Heritage

Acceptance of the certificate and marker by the Longs charges them with the responsibility of "preserving, so far as practical and to the best of their ability, the historical integrity of this important part of the national cultural heritage."

EARLY BIRDS GET BEST VIEWING SPOTS--Some of the early arrivals for the thrilling sports car race picked out the best vantage point for watching the action. It was a beautiful day, and many visitors held picnics. The famous Lodge is in the background.

DON CORUM WINS IN UPSET--Don has good reason to smile after his stunning triumph over experienced lead-foots. Corum, who lives in Silver Lake, was a last minute entry after he borrowed Al Baert's Thunderbird to compete in the race. He got the first prize in Sedans 3 Class.

CARS LINE UP FOR RACE--Here's a view of some of the many vehicles and drivers who competed in the first sports car race here. There were 67 entries from clubs in Oregon, California and Nevada. Best time for the twisting 3.6 mile course was turned in by Jim Martin of Susanville, Calif., who tooled around in 4:33.0.

GAL SOFTBALLERS TROUNCE LAPINE

The Christmas Valley Women's Softball team clobbered the Lapine team, 17 to 5, here on June 24. The losers were placated by being treated to lunch at the Lodge.

The local softball players apparently recovered from a pummeling they received from the Silver Lake squad. Our gals were massacred, 27 to 9.

This evened the series at one apiece. When the sprained ankles and bowed tendons heal, the gals will resume the series.

M. Penn Phillips Awards five 4-H Scholarships

Five local youngsters had the opportunity to attend the 4-H Summer School at Oregon State University, thanks to the generosity of M. Penn Phillips, founder and head of the M. Penn Phillips Co.

The M. Penn Phillips Summer School Scholarships were awarded to Elaine Morris of Paisley, Michael Bonskowski, Lakeview; Linda Clair, Lakeview; Lynn Abramson, Lakeview, and Kathy Laux, Lakeview.

The youngsters were in School June 10 through 15 at the Corvallis campus.

In order to be eligible for the scholarships, the boys and girls had to turn in completed year books for 1962 and this year, covering their projects and including their Club stories. The winners were selected by a committee consisting of Mrs. Mildred Scoville, Mrs. Mildred Bonskowski and Mrs. Shirley Start.

Many Courses

Boys were offered classes in tree farming, photography, gymnastics, entomology, horse care and showmanship and livestock and the girls in demonstrating, cone corsages, fashioning animals out of native materials and using electricity safely.

Besides Oregon youngsters there were three International Farm Exchange (IFYS) Students from New Zealand, Finland and the Philippines, who told about their respective countries.

Attorney Praises Gift

Lakeview attorney Theodore R. Conn, who is active in this movement, recently wrote Phillips:

"I am sure that each one of these five youngsters who received the M. Penn Phillips Scholarships got something of value out of Summer School and feel very fortunate indeed that they received your scholarships, as there are many boys and girls who could not attend if they had to pay their own way."

1ST SPORTS CAR RACE CALLED BIG SUCCESS

The first Christmas Valley Sports Car Race on Sunday, June 16, was such an outstanding success that sponsors and the hundreds of racing enthusiasts who watched the thrilling event are already discussing plans for next year's event.

It was a fun-filled weekend because in addition to the race, a giant outdoor beef barbecue on Saturday and outdoor dancing Saturday night at the Christmas Valley Dude Ranch were also featured.

Perfect weather prevailed, making everything that much more enjoyable.

Praise Sponsors

Racing enthusiasts were high in their praise for Ron Frederickson, president of the Klamath Falls Sports Car Association, project manager Warren Morton and Ed Cater, who conducted the event.

Local spectators had a lot to cheer about when Don Corum of Silver Lake, a last minute entry, pulled a stunning upset by winning the Sedans 3 Class.

Borrows Car

Corum, who had never raced before, borrowed Al Baert's Thunderbird and entered the race to give Christmas Valley its lone representative from among 67 entries from Oregon, California and Nevada.

Don then proceeded to roar around the twisting 3.6 mile graveled course in 4:33.0, 8 seconds faster than his nearest competitor.

Best time for the race, however, was a 4:05.5 turned in by Jim Martin of the Lassen Sports and Touring Society, Susanville, Calif. Martin drove a Jaguar in the Modified Class. He was presented with a handsome trophy, one of 18 awarded to class winners.

List of Winners

Winners of trophies were:

PART OF CROWD AT BEEF BARBECUE--This is portion of the more than 400 delighted diners who consumed great quantities of food prepared by Phil Pitman. That invigorating Christmas Valley air whetted the appetite of eaters who came back many times for second helpings.

400 DELIGHTED DINERS GO FOR OUTDOOR BEEF BARBECUE

More than 400 delighted diners will readily attest that the outdoor beef barbecue held in conjunction with the Christmas Valley Sports Car Race was a savory success.

The hungry visitors, their appetites whetted by the invigorating and clear spring air, helped themselves to heaping servings and then went back for more.

Diners feasted on delicious barbecued beef, baked beans, macaroni salad, rolls, coffee and ice cream.

Much of the credit for the successful barbecue must go to Phil Pitman, who presided over the culinary ceremonies. Phil spent the night in his sleeping bag right near the barbecue pit so he could prepare the pounds and pounds of beef properly in the glowing charcoals.

Special Marinade

Or maybe Phil didn't want anyone to see him prepare his special marinade, which he says is the secret to his cooking.

Before the day was over Pitman was receiving congratulations for two accomplishments--his superb barbecuing and his prowess in winning the horseshoe pitching contest.

In between servings, Phil took a break and outpitched the horseshoe throwing experts.

Driving Range Now Open for Sluggers

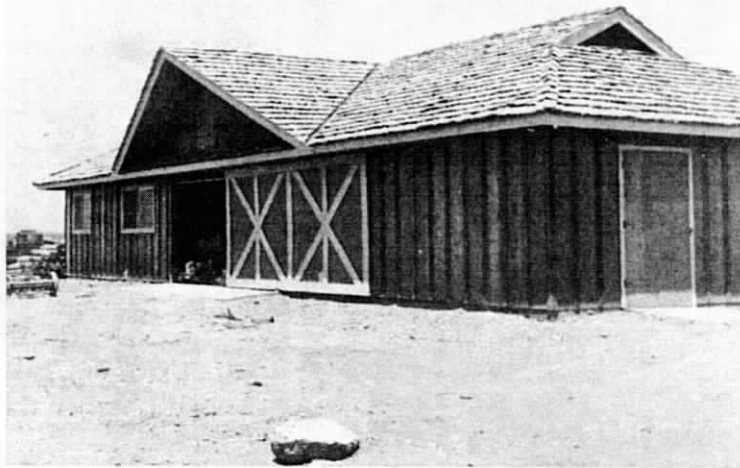

Attention all you long hitters. The Christmas Valley Golf Driving Range is ready for slugging.

There will be plenty of room on the practice area even for Pros George Bayer or Jack Nicklaus, considered golf's longest drivers.

The range is 300 yards long (room for three football fields) and 100 yards wide.

Cost of a large bucket of practice balls is 75 cents. Balls may be purchased from Ed Cater, manager of the Lodge.

The practice putting green, which is also adjacent to the Lodge, is also open for use. There is no charge for using the practice green.

GOLF COURSE MAINTENANCE BUILDING--Here's the recently completed building which will house the $10,000 worth of course equipment needed to keep the Christmas Valley course as one of the finest conditioned layouts.

WORK ON GOLF COURSE GOING ON SCHEDULE

"D Day" for driving off the first tee of the Christmas Valley Golf Course is rapidly approaching reality.

Though course superintendent Joe Ward would not make a definite date for opening of the 9-hole course, he said it should be sometime in late summer.

"You don't want to rush the opening of a golf course," cautioned Ward. "It's much better in the long run to have a good solid base for the fairways and greens before permitting play. Otherwise, the grass gets trampled and obliterated."

Ward said both the fairways and greens on holes 1, 2, 3, 8 and 9 have already been mowed twice. He said the other four holes are ready for mowing.

Rains Help

"We've got a big assist from Mother Nature," said Ward, "by getting those recent nice rains. The rains and the warm weather have helped to really bring up the grass. It's looking better every day."

To keep the course looking well, a million gallons of water a day is dispersed over the course through the automatic sprinkler system. About 3 miles of pipeline have been installed for top maintenance of the course.

The Christmas Valley golf course will be one of the sportiest and best conditioned layouts in Central Oregon. It will also be a splendid test of golf.

800 Pounds of Seed

President Carlo Quintini designed the course to present a challenge to the golfer in drive placement and accuracy in shooting to the greens.

The scenic course will measure 3405 yards but can be stretched to 3550 yards for tournament play. It will play to a difficult par 36.

Ward said about 8000 pounds of grass seed was planted along the fairways. This was augmented by 35 tons of fertilizer.

Atch Serves Up Culinary Treat

General Project Manager Phil Washington, Mr. and Mrs. Mel Brown and Mrs. Floyd Olander were dinner guests at the home of Clarence (Atch) Atchison and were treated to a surprise culinary treat.

Atch served his delighted guests the Japanese dish, Sukiyaki.

He's an expert because Atch was born in Japan and learned Japanese cooking while living there for many years with his parents, who were missionaries.

The guests came away from the table singing the praises of Atch's cooking talents.

HAWAIIAN BUILDS LOG HOUSE HERE

Things are just like in the old pioneering days for two Christmas Valley residents.

Art Pacheco and Gene Ochness, both of Long Beach, took axe and tools in hand and built two log houses on their Christmas Valley properties.

They returned to Long Beach for their families and moved here June 13.

Pacheco was born and raised in Hawaii.

Morton, project manager. You'll find him planning... he is responsible for building the lake, the clubhouse, the roads and supervising the engineering. In fact, he's the general factotum of the entire project. In addition he is President of the Recreation District and a general supervisor to whom you can take all of your troubles.

While you are there be sure and see Betty Morehouse. Betty is an authoress... the local correspondent of the Christmas Valley Gazette. She owns her own ranch... she has many horses and pets... followed the rodeo route for several years... found it too strenuous and retired to Christmas Valley. She knows where all of the arrowheads are... she knows the history of the Valley and you will find a few minutes with her very entertaining.

Be sure to go over to the golf course and get acquainted with Joe Ward, the golf course architect and construction manager. He is very proud of the course and says that he will have it ready to play in the late summer. He further claims that it is a sporty course with plenty of sand traps and hazards.

Plans Building

Reuben Draper of Santa Clara, Calif., said he was interested in constructing a business building in Christmas Valley.

Last week Draper moved his belongings, bag and baggage to Christmas Valley.

Over at the Motel you'll find Mrs. Hazel Thompson who says she never wants to go back to Santa Monica.

Don't neglect talking to Helen Byam. Helen is Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce and she surely is a booster for the Valley. She'll want to take you up on the hill and show you where she is building her new home and tell you the other attractions of the area.

These people and others are the ones who have built their own ball diamond. They've talked us into helping them build a church. We are to build the exterior and they will finish it. This is to be a non-denominational church where everyone can worship and a community gathering place.

Practically every weekend the cowboys come in from the surrounding country for riding and roping contests; also races on the quarter horse track.

Warren Morton reports that they have completed well No. 4 to a depth of 320 feet to water standing within 17 feet of the surface. The tests show that it will produce 2300 gallons a minute with only a 57 foot pull down.

Kenyon Morehouse is President of the Sage Riders. He tells me that they are planning a rodeo the latter part of July... he says it will be a real show. Be sure and see it. This same group recently put on a sports car race over a four and a half mile course with 67 entries. It seemed to be very entertaining and everybody had a good time.

CHRISTMAS VALLEY NOW IN HISTORICAL SOCIETY FILES

The progressive Christmas Valley development will become part of Oregon history after a visit by a member of the state's historical society.

Robert C. Scott, Chief of Field Services, Oregon Historical Society in Lakeview, decided to pay a visit to Christmas Valley.

Scott toured our development and was impressed with the progress. He prepared to make Christmas Valley a part of Oregon history by requesting a complete file of current, past and future issues of the Christmas Valley Gazette for the historical society's library.

Fishing Editor Previews Angling Season With Successful Catches

By LEROY HARROD, Fishing and Hunting Editor

For many years I have seen hundreds of big, strong healthy men suddenly become afflicted with a well known disease commonly known as "FISHIN' FEVER." The attacks usually occur during the late part of April or during the month of May. I have never heard of an attack being fatal, but many men who are afflicted often become temporarily mentally unbalanced and seem unable to efficiently perform their usual daily functions.

The symptoms are quite pronounced and are easily diagnosed. The victim shows a definite loss of memory and seldom responds when spoken to. His appetite is usually far from normal. Physically he slows down in all of his usual activities.

He finds fault with the food which his good wife spends much time and effort in preparing for him. Generally, he is grouchy and ill-tempered when spoken to.

Finally, in desperation, he goes to see his family doctor.

The prescription is short and to the point. It reads like this: "There is nothing wrong with you that a good fishin' trip won't cure. For an office call that will be $5.00 please. Have a good time and come back to see me next year along about this time."

I can look back over many years and I've never missed having an ATTACK along about the time the Fishin' Season is scheduled to open. This year was no exception, so I walked over to see my good neighbor, Paul Whitaker, who is the proud owner of a well equipped Camper.

It was promptly agreed that we pack the Camper with a good supply of "grub", load some surplus equipment into my Station Wagon, and take off for Northern California and Oregon the following morning.

Actually, the trip was being made with a three-fold purpose in mind: 1. To provide a CURE for two severe cases of FISHIN' FEVER. 2. To be in Oregon for the opening of the Fishin' Season for the purpose of giving the GAZETTE Readers a first hand report on the result of the OPENING. 3. To get in some early season fishin' as a remedy for the FEVER.

After spending the first night in camp in the spectacular Alabama Hills, a short distance out of Lone Pine, California, toward the base of Mt. Whitney, our temperatures were normal when we awakened from a sound, peaceful night's rest and sleep.

Rainbows for Breakfast

The second night out we were in a new U. S. Forestry Camp among the pines on the water front of EAGLE LAKE, about 14 miles out of Susanville, California. Shortly after daybreak, Paul called to me that he was hungry for some nice EAGLE LAKE RAINBOW TROUT fillets for breakfast.

I agreed with him, and we were soon on CIRCUS Beach, a short distance from our camp, casting in to the blue clear waters of Eagle Lake for those special breed of Rainbows.

By 7 o'clock we had two beauties which dressed out at a little over 4 pounds -- enough for a hearty breakfast for our party of four which included Paul, his agreeable wife, Mary, my expert camper wife, Gari, and the writer. We discussed many interesting events of the trip while finishing off the delicious breakfast which Paul had prepared.

We broke camp about 9 o'clock and by lunch time we were in Alturas, California. Here we hit the "Jack-Pot". In the afternoon we fished BIG SAGE RESERVOIR, about 10 miles out of Alturas. The Big Mouth Bass were on a strike due to the muddy water caused by the storm of the night before.

Dine on Bass Fillets

We shifted our efforts to DORRIS RESERVOIR, a beautiful impoundment of water only two miles out of Alturas. After a dinner of Fresh Water Bass Fillets, we turned in early for a good rest as we planned to leave Alturas early and journey some 50 miles north on Highway 395 into OREGON where the OPENING OF THE FISHIN' SEASON was scheduled.

We arrived in Oregon on schedule, but found the streams in the CHRISTMAS VALLEY area muddy and running bank full so we headed west into the lake area of the Cascades. This is big country with many streams, lakes and reservoirs. (See SPECIAL FISHING SECTION of JUNE, 1962 GAZETTE with map and names of the principal FISHIN' HOLES in this area.)

Tried 9 Fishing Holes

On Opening Day we visited and fished three streams and lakes. In the three days following Opening Day we visited and fished six additional streams and lakes. That makes a total of nine "FISHIN' HOLES" we visited in four days.

We took trout from six of the places visited. The remaining three places "skunked" us although I had always taken good fish from those waters on former visits.

One reason for this trip was to REPORT to you readers the overall results of OPENING DAY fishing in the areas on the east slope of the Cascades and within easy driving distance from CHRISTMAS VALLEY.

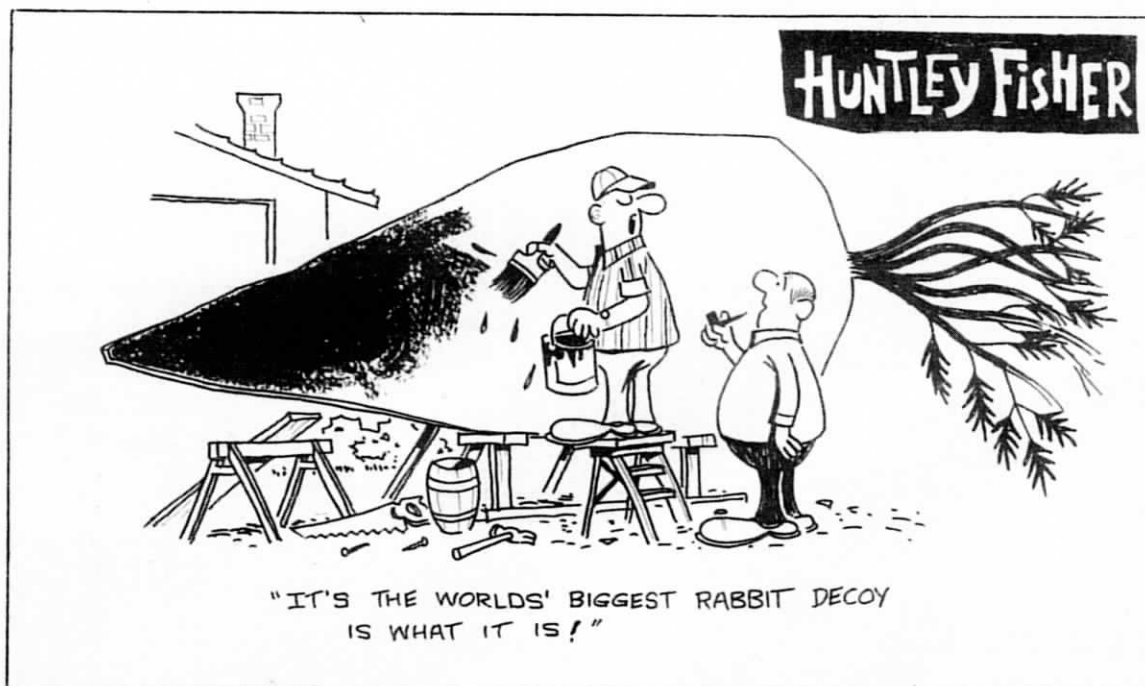

Diamond Lake Excellent

DIAMOND LAKE fishing was excellent opening weekend with 5.5 fish per angler reported. This is the lake famous for its KAMLOOPS RAINBOW TROUT. Most fish were over 12 inches, the average just under 13 inches with fair numbers going to 15 and 16 inches. (The big 4, 5, 6 and 7 pound Lunkers are still in hibernation or sleeping and do not usually show up until early in September. Then they are HOT.)

The DESCHUTES RIVER above Bend was good on troll and bait.

The WILLIAMSON RIVER was high but fair on lures.

The LOWER DESCHUTES RIVER provided good angling success on Opening Week-End and prospects are improving. There are some LUNKER size BROWN TROUT in these waters, but it takes a smart fisherman to catch them. Some Salmon flies are still hatching, but the peak of the hatch is over.

Good Trolling for Rainbows

PELTON RESERVOIR was producing some large DOLLY VARDEN and GERMAN BROWN Trout by still fishing with bait at the upper end of the Reservoir.

KLAMATH and AGENCY Lakes (where the Williamson and Woods Rivers meet the KLAMATH LAKE waters) were GOOD trolling for RAINBOWS and BROWN TROUT. Fish up to 15 pounds were being taken.

Paul, my fishing partner, had one on for twenty minutes, but finally lost him around a snag. Paul shed a few tears after guessing the fish at 18 pounds.

I asked him HOW he could guess the fish at 18 pounds. He gave a good answer. Said he could tell by looking at the scales on the back of the fish when it jumped clear of the water.

OCHOCO RESERVOIR produced excellent catches of trout for trollers using flatfish. Bank anglers were doing best from casting lures from the dam.

WOOD RIVER was good using lure or bait, but the water was colored from snow run-off from the Crater Lake Area.

BIG LAVA LAKE (one of my very favorite FISHIN' HOLES) was producing good catches of my favorite "eat-in" trout, the Eastern Brook. It was too early for fly fishing but the trollers with a spinner and worm were doing fine.

We have covered but a small number of the FISHIN' HOLES which are easily reached from CHRISTMAS VALLEY.
