Record 3500 Watch Thrilling Two-Day Wild West Rodeo

Mr. Phillips has asked that I write the Penn Points for this month and I am greatly honored. I had the privilege of attending the second annual Christmas Valley Rodeo so this will be my topic.

In my estimation, it was a great achievement for the residents of Christmas Valley. In other parts of the paper you will see the results of the spectacular activities that have taken place in our little town.

The greatest achievement actually took place behind the scenes.

The Rodeo was staged entirely by the Christmas Valley residents with very little support from the M. Penn Phillips Company. The absentee land owners should be very proud to have such an excellent organization as the Sage Riders of Christmas Valley to spark the progress of the community.

Without naming any specific people, I would like to thank all the Christmas Valley residents for showing me one of the best times of my life.

For once I was able to participate with the actual function of the Rodeo and organization of the events for the big weekend. This is the time that I really learned that the residents have developed a genuine community spirit that can never be stopped.

The next time you're in the Valley, take some time to really become acquainted with the fine people here. Learn to enjoy life as they do.

Mr. Phillips will be back next month with more interesting ideas and thoughts.

Judge C. W. Ogle announced the appointment of N. R. Smith as Veterans' Service Officer for Lake County. Smith succeeds the late Harry Anthony.

BIG CROWD FOR RODEO--Aerial view shows vehicles and part of crowd which watched thrilling action in second annual Christmas Valley Wild West Rodeo at the Dude Ranch Arena. This photograph was taken on Saturday but the largest share of 3500 crowd came Sunday. Old fashioned outdoor beef barbecue, moonlight dance and horseshoe pitching contest were other attractions during jam-packed, two-day festivities. Last year 3000 watched the Rodeo.

FIRST PAVING BASE FOR ROAD--General project manager Phil Washington inspects work done on 2-mile stretch of test paving on Christmas Valley Road. Road will be major factor in creating growth of Christmas Valley development.

County Paving 18 Miles of Asphalt Road in CV Area

In an unusual example of community, developer and county cooperation, the M. Penn Phillips Co. has entered an agreement with Lake County to pave 18 miles of road in northern Lake County from State Highway 31 through Arrow Gap to the east end of the New Christmas Valley Townsite.

Event Becoming Top Attraction in Entire Area

A record whooping and thrilled crowd of 3500 enjoyed the two-day action-packed second annual Christmas Valley Wild West Rodeo on July 27-28.

From the reaction of the participants and observers, the gala attraction is fast becoming one of the top Western events in Central Oregon. Contestants and viewers came here from five states.

One cowboy, who came 800 miles, said, "You folks sure know how to put on a first class rodeo. You have the finest facilities I've seen. Your stock pens and calf chutes are set up just right for the action."

President Carlo Giuntini said the successful rodeo was a great tribute to the hard work and splendid coordination of Christmas Valley and local area residents.

Community Effort

"We of the M. Penn Phillips Co. as much as possible purposely avoided active participation in order to let local residents carry the ball. And they came through in grand style," said Giuntini.

"We honestly were flabbergasted last year when 3000 attended the first rodeo but we were even more pleased this time with even a better representation. We sincerely hope and expect the Rodeo to become a topnotch sports attraction in this area," he added.

$4840 Prize Money

The 181 contestants split up a big purse of $4,840 prize money.

There were 38 bareback riders, 13 saddle bronc riders, 34 cow riders, 60 teams of ropers, 25 calf ropers, 15

Seventy-five per cent of water line installation work has been completed in Unit 3 of the Christmas Valley Townsite, general project manager Phil Washington reported. Work in Units 1 and 2 were completed last month.

"We have installed 9400 feet of water line thus far and have finished installing eight fire hydrants in Unit 3," said Washington.

"This particular phase of our project in Unit 3 alone cost $20,000, which added up

SAMPLE ANALYZED FROM WELL NO. 4 CLASSIFIED AS SOFT WATER

"Reports on the water sample of the recently drilled Well No. 4 from a Portland, Ore., laboratory are very encouraging," disclosed Penn Thayer, president of the Christmas Valley Mutual Water Improvement District.

Well Depths Up Over Last Year

Well depths in the Christmas Lake-Fort Rock Basin are up two to five tenths of a foot over the same 1962 period, it was reported by Bob DeBow, geologist from the office of the State Engineer.

With wells now pumping, it was expected that water levels would be down considerably. However, DeBow reported the decrease since the April reading was only two or three tenths of a foot.

An effort is made to measure wells at exactly the same time every year to determine any changes.

ter Improvement District.

"Chemical analysis of Well No. 4 water classified it as soft water," said Thayer. "There was 3 parts per million of fluoride in the sample, which is equal to what normally is added to drinking water. This means we have a natural here and won't have to add any fluoride."

Well No. 4 was a veritable gusher, capable of producing 2300 gallons of clean, pure water a minute. It was brought in only last month at the Townsite.

Thayer said the Well is being fitted with a 75 horsepower pump. Water will be pumped directly into the Christmas Valley Lake and the rest will be used to boost the Townsite water system.

About $11,000 will be expended to fit the new well and pump to augment the regular water system, Thayer said. Pressure tanks and regulators will be installed to complete this particular project.

CHRISTMAS VALLEY COMMUNITY CHURCH BUILDING--Church, which will be non-denominational, is expected to be completed Aug. 15. It is located on Pinon and Tree Lane Streets and will accommodate between 35 and 40 worshippers. M. Penn Phillips Co. donated the land and furnished the materials for building. Residents pooled their talents to complete interior of church. Recreation District Directors have written school district officials asking permission to use church building as school house. It would seat about 30 pupils.

Recreation District Directors Ask to Hold School Sessions in New Church Building

The Christmas Valley Recreation District Board of Directors voted to write a letter to the local school district asking permission to use the Christmas Valley church building for a school house, thus saving local kids a bus ride to the Fort Rock school.

Warren Morton, president of the Recreation District, said the church building would seat approximately 25 to 30 pupils.

The church building is now nearing completion, thanks to the cooperation of the M. Penn Phillips Co. and local residents.

Phillips donated the land for the church site and furnished the materials to construct the building.

Local residents are donating their talents to complete the interior of the church and expect to complete the work about Aug. 15.

The church, which is located on Pinon and Tree Lane, will be able to accommodate between 35 and 40 people.

The church will be non-denominational and will be available for use by all religious groups, who would alternate in holding their church services. It will also be used by different religious groups as a meeting place and a setting for social functions.

Building Material, Hardware Store to Open for Business

Christmas Valley welcomed another new business enterprise--the B & M Building Material Co.--and a couple of Angels.

Bruce and Mike Angell are starting the firm, which will offer a complete line of building materials and hardware. The office and lumber yard are located 1/2 mile south and 1/2 mile east of the Christmas Valley Lodge.

Mike Angell came from Chicago to join his father in starting the business. Angell said the business office is nearly completed and work has started on the lumber yard.

The address is Box 190, Christmas Valley Rural Station, Silver Lake, Oregon.

Oregon Employment Up

Employment in Oregon jumped 10,200 from April to a total of 688,300 at mid-May.

A year ago the employment figure stood at 668,200, which represents a gain of 20,100 in only 13 months.

ting $45,000 worth of materials needed for the project.

Several ranchers and residents have offered to donate materials, equipment and labor to assist the County in completing the project, exemplifying the ultimate in community relationship.

Al Baert, local merchant and contractor, is providing the grading; Virgil Hall, heavy equipment operator, is providing equipment and labor; Bob Morehouse, Jess Miles and Kob Buick, local ranchers, are providing water stations.

There also has been assistance given from other quarters in vocal and legal support to the road building project, which is one of the most important for Christmas Valley.

Judge C. W. Ogle, Commissioners Jewel Corum and Jim Snyder, Cliff Partin, County Road foreman; Ernest McKinney, County Road Dept. coordinator; Ranchers Rube Long and Bud Parks, and Henry Cook, Silver Lake restaurant owner, all played prominent roles in making this endeavor possible.

Important Project

The importance of the project to Christmas Valley was indicated by the large turnouts at meetings prior to the road agreement. At the initial meeting in the County Courthouse, 50 residents attended. At the meeting in the Christmas Valley Lodge, 78 attended.

General project manager Phil Washington said the Lake County Road Department, under the supervision of foreman Cliff Partin, is preparing a base of asphalt mixed with existing road material. This base is to be compacted and sealed with an asphalt armor-coat.

Access to Recreation Areas

"The 18 miles of road will provide excellent access to all of the recreational facilities offered by our new Christmas Valley development. As a consequence, visitor traffic should increase greatly," said Washington. "We believe this road improvement will be one of the major factors in encouraging the growth of Christmas Valley."

our current expenditures on this particular project to $66,000. A total of $300,000 is earmarked for the entire water program," he said.

Washington added an interesting note to the water line work.

"I said in last month's GAZETTE that if any customer wanted to build now in other Townsite units and requested immediate water service, we'd be happy to install special connections to take care of his needs.

"Well, it happened. We got a call from a customer who built a home in Unit 4, asking for this service. We moved over our crew to his house. The man now has a hook-up for fresh water delivery," Washington said, grinning.

Recreation District Budget Gets OK From Lake County Assessor

The Christmas Valley Recreation District budget has been approved and accepted by Lake County Assessor Harry Langslet, president Warren Morton reported.

The Recreation District is the official operating body within this area. The Board of Directors eventually will consider the operation of the Christmas Valley Lodge, Air Park, Golf Course and Lake.

In other business, the Directors established a bank account of $500, the deposit of which will be made by the M. Penn Phillips Co.

It was decided to take out a minimum insurance policy with Gordon Randall Agency to cover all the Recreation District with the exception of the Lodge, which will be covered by M. Penn Phillips Co. The company has also insured the Dude Ranch.

The Directors also are investigating the possibility of establishing trap shooting as a sport. Fred Kennedy was asked to review brochures received on trap shooting and make a report at the next meeting. Remington Arms could be handled through Al and Connie Baert's Mercantile Store, Morton said.

SAN GABRIEL, POMONA BOOSTERS MEET IN COMPANY OFFICES

Property Owners living in the San Gabriel and Pomona Valley areas, gathered in the swell of enthusiasm for Christmas Valley Booster Clubs, have been holding meetings at the M. Penn Phillips Co. offices at 742 No. Loren Avenue, Azusa.

The spontaneous success of these gatherings has caused the company to designate representatives to act as hosts for the informal affairs.

Coffee and donuts are served to club members, following a presentation of up-to-date information and a showing of recently taken color slides of Christmas Valley.

If you would like to attend these meetings, please write Penn Thayer at the company offices.

Plan to attend the next meetings and meet your future Christmas Valley neighbors.

The meetings are held every week, starting at 1:30 p.m. Saturdays and 2 p.m. Sundays.

Members who attended the first two meetings included F. C. Carter and family of Pomona, Oderick and Rose Ann Brinker and children, Fontana; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Snort and son, West Covina; Mr. and Mr. Fred Gates and his father, West Covina; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Becker, Pomona; Mr. and Mrs. Larry Smiley, Chino, Dave Holmes and his father, Montclair; Charles and Pat Hansis, Ontario.

MARINE OFFICER TO START CLUB

Dear Sir:

Last September I attempted to form an Absentee Property Owners Association in the San Diego area. I had written a letter to Mr. Giuntini stating my aim. He was kind enough to publish the letter in the GAZETTE to aid me in my project.

Unfortunately, in October, before I could really get started and some three months prior to the time of my letter in the GAZETTE, I was transferred to the Third Marine Division on Okinawa. This made my active participation in the organization impossible.

However, since February, when my letter was printed in the GAZETTE, I have received a number of letters from Property Owners in the San Diego Area showing interest in my plan.

"I'm enclosing one of these letters from a 16-year-old boy, Tom Boyd. I was really pleased with his enthusiasm and his faith in the future of Christmas Valley. I hope you may publish it in the GAZETTE as an example of youthful interest.

I am returning to the United States in November. At that time I will resume my work on the plan to form a Christmas Valley Absentee Property Owners Association. I will be happy to have the help of such enthusiasts as Tom.

Sincerely yours,

(Signed) Ted Lopuszynski, 1st. Lt., U.S. Marine Corps.

YOUTHFUL FAITH IN VALLEY

Dear Sir:

I read your letter in the February issue of the Christmas Valley Gazette with real interest.

Please "count me in" on any meetings held in the San Diego area for us property owners in Christmas Valley.

I bought my 20 acres as an investment toward my college financing when I was fifteen. I have never once lost my enthusiasm for Christmas Valley. And I've mowed an awful lot of lawns, and pulled an awful lot of weeds, and fanraked an awful lot of leaves, and boysit an awful lot of boys to make that monthly payment. But I still believe in the land that is Christmas Valley.

Yours truly,

(Signed) Thomas Boyd

BIBLE SCHOOL CLASS AND TEACHERS--Twenty-eight Christmas Valley children attended the two-week vacation Bible school held in the new Recreation Building. Class was sponsored by the Student Missionary Council, with Misses Peggy Loesch, Bonnie Carter and Judy Lawson serving as teachers. Students presented program for parents.

Paving Operations Due for Trailer Site, Lake Area

Along with the paving operations on Christmas Valley Road from Highway 31 through Arrow Gap to the east boundary of the Christmas Valley Townsite, the M. Penn Phillips Co. simultaneously will begin paved road surfacing in the Own-Your-Own Trailer Park.

The approach to the Lodge, the area around the Christmas Valley Service Station, the Lake front area and Spruce Road between the Lodge and Alder Street will also get the black topped treatment.

General project manager Phil Washington said 1400 gallons of asphalt would be used for the hard crust. In addition, another 1400 gallons of seal coat would be laid on top of the hard crust.

Christmas Valley residents eagerly are awaiting the completion of the two separate paving projects. There's even talk about a "paved-street dance."

San Jose Booster Club Now Forming

With Christmas Valley Booster Clubs forming all over Southern California, it's inevitable that others will be formed in northern California and in other states too.

Louis C. De Sena, of the M. Penn Phillips Co. northern California sales division, has volunteered to start a booster club for Property Owners in the San Jose area.

Prospective members are asked to write De Sena at 2784 South Bascom Ave., San Jose, Calif., or telephone him at 377-7100.

AL BAERT NAMED TO DISTRICT BOARD

Al Baert was chosen to the Christmas Valley Recreation District Board of Directors at the July 15 meeting. Baert will fill the unexpired term of Chuck Selby, who resigned because of business reasons.

28 CHILDREN COMPLETE TWO WEEK VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL

Twenty-eight children presented a closing program on July 19 for parents and friends, climaxing a two-week Vacation Bible School held in the new Christmas Valley Recreation Building.

The school was sponsored by the Student Missionary Council, with Misses Peggy Loesch, Phoenix, Ariz.; Bonnie Carter, Klamath Falls, and Judy Lawson, Bemidj, Minn., serving as teachers.

Pupils enrolled in the school were Kyna Hall, Larry Porter, Sharon Porter, Dennis Porter, Linda Goeres, Mark Goeres, David Goeres, Ann Goeres, Mary Goeres, Debbie Stewart, Randy Stewart, Duane Stewart, Suzanne Gillette, Brenda Farrer, Rhonda Farrer, Rhonda Baert, Cindy Baert, Greg Baert, Cora Lee Hamilton, John McClister, Laurie Brown, Jane Brown, Theresa Chancy, Connie Chancy, Chuckie Knorr, Dickie Knorr and Tammy Knorr.

Soil Moisture Device Tells Time for Sprinkler Usage

A newly developed soil moisture measuring system whereby a rancher can determine the exact number of hours the sprinkler sets need to be turned on has Christmas Valley area ranchers excited.

John Kiesow, County Extension Agent, said the new program involves putting electrical resistance gypsum blocks in the soil, which can be read by an electrical meter throughout the summer to determine when the soil needs to be irrigated.

Kiesow said a rancher using sprinkler irrigation can determine the exact number of hours the sprinkler sets need to be on to bring the soil back to its full moisture holding capacity.

Not Costly

The system is not a costly one either, according to Kiesow.

Cost of the gypsum blocks is one dollar each and cost of the meter from $60 to $90. The meter will last many years, and several ranchers could use the same meter.

A special training meeting was conducted at the Summer Lake Lodge by Marvin Shearer, Oregon State University irrigation specialist, to assist interested ranchers in establishing their program.

Participating Ranchers

Kiesow said interest in this soil moisture measuring program was generated as a result of the soils and irrigation workshops held in Lake County last winter.

Ranchers Howard Gilson, Paisley; George Carlon, Avlin Rickert and Ernest Shuffield, Summer Lake, and Dick Morehouse and Mrs. Veneta Branch, Fort Rock, are participating in the program.

Bulletin Available

In some areas, districts have been set up where a farm wife or a high school student takes the soil moisture reading and plots a chart.

Interested Christmas Valley ranchers may obtain a new bulletin, "Electrical Resistance Gypsum Blocks for Scheduling Irrigations," Extension Bulletin 810, by writing to the Lake County Extension Office, Lakeview, Oregon.

County Hires Surveyor

The Lake County Court has agreed to hire William Wales Jr. of Klamath Falls as Lake County Surveyor on an "on-call" basis. Wales has a surveying practice at Klamath Falls which he will continue and will take assignments in Lake County when called by the Court.

Lake County has been without surveyor since Glenn Tyler resigned in 1962 to take the position as watermaster for the district.

Local News

The monthly meeting of the Saugus Christmas Valley Club was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lansdowne. A delicious Pot Luck dinner was enjoyed by all. Apologies to Mr. Ed Cater, of the Christmas Valley Lodge, where we got the idea. He was certainly a wonderful host.

Most of the folks who attended are looking forward to their vacations in Christmas Valley and I know they will all enjoy the congenial hospitality that we did on our visit last April.

Those who attended were Mr. and Mrs. Russ Cherry and their two sons, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Tillotson, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Kain and Mr. and Mrs. George Schuetz.

"The one thing I think stands out the most, in our club, is the togetherness and friendship we enjoy, because we are banded together in one common purpose in life and that is CHRISTMAS VALLEY, OREGON," said host Russ Lansdowne.

Miss Mildred Steinhoff of Canby, Oregon, paid a visit to Christmas Valley on June 2. She was very surprised at all the development and progress here.

Miss Steinhoff was one of the first residents here. She lived in Christmas Valley more than 50 years ago with her parents, who homesteaded here.

Mel (Butch) Brown Jr. became Christmas Valley's first high school graduate when he received his diploma June 7 from Bend High School.

Golf course superintendent Joe Ward announced he has started a tree nursery near the golf equipment maintenance building. The trees, when they mature, will be transplanted along the fairways of the course.

BAERT WINS HORSESHOE PITCHING TITLE AS LOCAL STARS SHINE

Christmas Valley horse-shoe pitching stars proved too much for outside competitors and ran off with all the prizes in the contest held during the second annual Rodeo.

Al Baert lived up to his advanced billing as the favorite and walked off with the championship and a Western belt buckle, the top prize.

Baert beat Kenyon Morehouse in a play-off for the title. Earlier Baert won the A Class division, Morehouse the Class B and Jack Gillette the Class C.

As figured, Baert made the most ringers, 80, followed by Morehouse, 64, and Terry Kolb, 60.

Contestants came from all over the state of Oregon and even a few from California

Joe Ward's Garden Raided for Lettuce

Joe Ward's vegetable garden was the scene of an unexpected raid during the second annual Christmas Valley Rodeo but Joe didn't seem to mind.

It seems that when barbecue chefs Phil Pitman and Ed Cater ran out of lettuce for the salad, they converged on Joe's garden and picked every head of luscious lettuce.

"I've still got plenty of radishes, carrots, beets, spinach, strawberries, onions and cabbage," said the obliging Ward.

in a feeble attempt to dethrone our Christmas Valley aces.

The contest, which was organized by Phil Pitman and Baert, was sanctioned by the National Horseshoe Pitching Association.

KNORR, KENNEDY IN COW RIDING WINS

One of the humorous events of the second Christmas Valley Rodeo was the Businessmen's Wild Cow Riding contest.

Eight intrepid riders started out but not many stayed on the wild cows for the necessary 40 feet.

Fred Kennedy was the winner on Saturday and Duffy Knorr on Sunday. Other contestants were general project manager Phil Washington, Kenyon Morehouse, Ed Cater, Al Baert, Frank Emery and Warren Morton.

bulldoggers, 19 girl barrel racers, 2 rescue racers, 16 rein cow horse riders and 8 businessmen's wild cow riders.

Gib Gregg of Dayville, Oregon, rode off with the All Around Cowboy championship and the $300 Saddle Trophy, which was donated by the sales division of the M. Penn Phillips Co.

Fun For Entire Family

It was an activity-crammed weekend for the entire family. Besides the two-day thrilling rodeo events, an old fashioned outdoor beef barbecue, a horseshoe pitching contest and a romantic dance under starry, summer skies were other features.

Comment heard most often was, "I can hardly wait until next year. Wonder what they can do to top this year's wonderful rodeo?"

Salesmen Donated $300 Trophy Saddle

The handsome $300 Trophy Saddle which went to Gib Gregg of Dayville, Oregon, for All Around Cowboy was donated by the M. Penn Phillips Co. sales force.

Each salesman voluntarily contributed $5 for the saddle after project manager Warren Morton suggested the idea. Each salesman also joined the Sage Brush Riders, the local riding club.

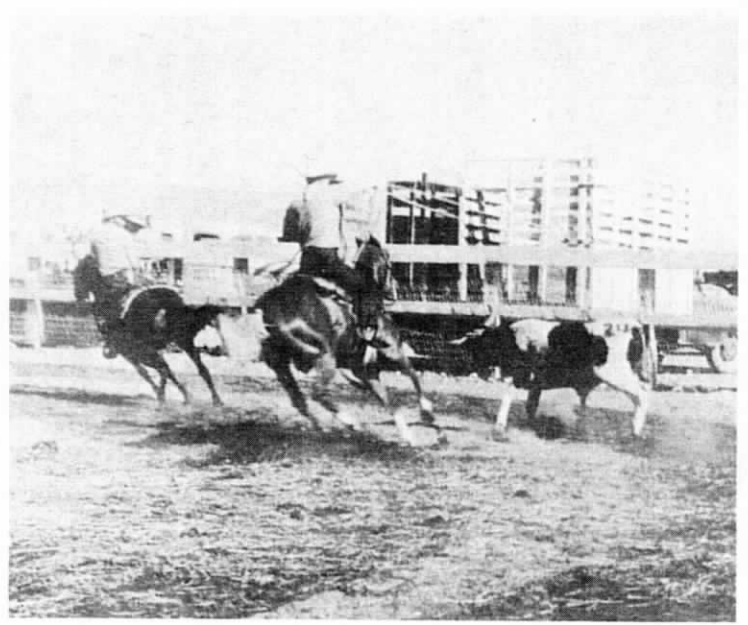

For his generosity, each salesman had a bucking horse named after him.

The beautiful trophy saddle was made by Pete Armstrong of Fort Collins, Colorado, and was bought from Al Spenger of Lakeview, Oregon.

Carpenter Moves Here

Coy Amaker, who has been working for some time as a carpenter on the Christmas Valley development, has seen the light.

Coy moved his family from Lakeview, Oregon.

THRILLING ACTION IN RODEO--This is a sample of exciting wild west show which 3500 witnessed during the two-day second annual Christmas Valley Rodeo. Contestants split $4840 in prize money.

450 HUNGRY DINERS GET PLENTY TO EAT AT OUTDOOR BARBECUE

About 450 hungry diners took advantage of the bargain offer at the second annual Christmas Valley Old Fashioned Beef Barbecue, served up by Phil Pitman and Ed Cater.

The gourmets could eat all they wanted for only $1.50. Kids under 12 could stuff themselves for 50 cents.

The menu included delicious barbecued beef, beans, salad, garlic bread, ice cream and coffee. The diners enjoyed their food al fresco at the Rodeo Arena grounds.

Pitman and Cater stayed up all night to prepare and barbecue the beef.

MOONLIGHT DANCERS JAM OUTDOORS FLOOR

A standing room only crowd of dancers enjoyed themselves under starry skies to the strains of a snappy Western Band on Saturday night of the two-day Rodeo weekend.

Rodeo contestants, the rodeo queen and her princesses and visitors had a ball doing everything from the twist to square dancing on the outside dance floor at the Rodeo Arena.

It was a balmy night and dancers took advantage of the weather, dancing until the band finally played "Good Night Sweetheart."

MRS. HAMILTON AND HER VEGETABLE GARDEN--Christmas Valley residents can purchase plenty of fresh vegetables at the Mercantile Store, thanks to Pearl Hamilton and her husband, Bill. Hamiltons have cleared three acres and are growing many crops, including lettuce, radishes, onions, spinach, mustard greens, turnips and carrots. Hamiltons said they are experimenting with plantings of numerous vegetables and flowers.

Sagebrush Spraying Earned Rancher $12 Extra Per Cow

A Harney County rancher made $12 extra per cow by spraying sagebrush and in turn increasing his calf weights by 50 pounds, according to Bill Moser, County Extension Agent.

By investing $3.50 an acre the rancher was able to earn an extra $12 per cow just by increasing his calf weights.

It took three years for the sprayed area to hit this peak production, but there was a 20 pound increase in calf weights off the sprayed area 2 years after the spraying was done.

Not everyone can expect to obtain such outstanding results, Moser states, because not all range responds to sagebrush eradication like this Harney County ranchers' range.

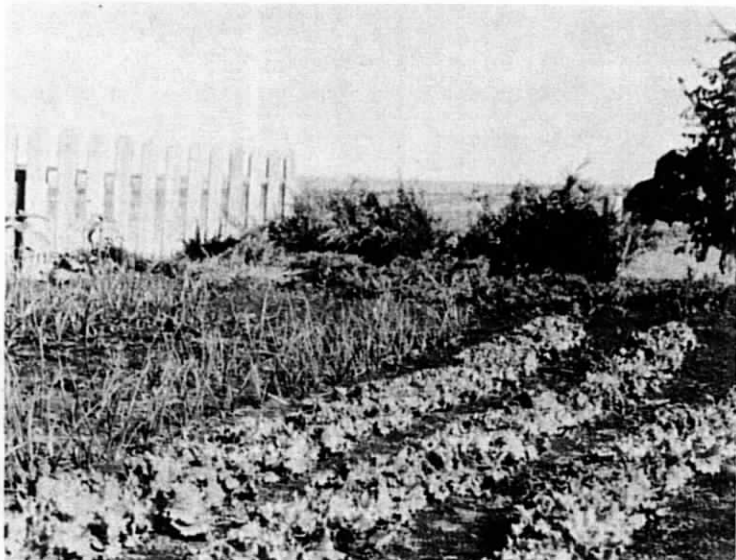

Before a range will respond sufficiently to return the money invested in spraying the sagebrush, it must meet the following conditions:

1. Clumps of bunch grass every 3 to 5 feet, or close enough so that an average sized man can step from clump to clump of grass.
2. Have moderately deep soil.
3. Be supporting either big sagebrush or rabbit brush (and very little or no browse plants such as bitterbrush).
4. Be located in an area and with the right topography to lend itself to spraying.

For information about spraying sagebrush or help in contacting spray applicators interested persons should contact the Lake County Extension Office.

Shetland Ponies Cute

Eight Shetland pony mares and their tiny colts from Wagon Tire are attracting plenty of attention at Christmas Valley. They're staying in a large corral at the Dude Ranch and are drawing plenty of rail birds, including grown-ups.

FLOURISHING VEGETABLE GARDEN--This is how golf course superintendent Joe Ward's garden looked before it was raided by lettuce "robbers", who needed the lush vegetable for making more salad at outdoor barbecue. Joe is raising lettuce, onions, radishes, carrots, beets, strawberries, squash, cabbage, cantalopes, rhubarb, spinach and mint.

FRESH VEGETABLES AVAILABLE DAILY AT MERCANTILE STORE

Customers trading at the Christmas Valley Mercantile Store may purchase fresh lettuce, radishes, onions, spinach, mustard greens, turnips and carrots. The vegetables are supplied daily from the local garden of Mrs. Bill (Pearl) Hamilton.

The Hamiltons have cleared three acres and have planted and seeded numerous varieties of vegetables and flowers. They said they are experimenting this year so they will have a good idea of what to plant in quantity next year. The Hamiltons, who own 20 acres in Christmas Valley, have nearly completed a two-bedroom home, which they built by themselves.

Bill is retired from the Navy after 23 years of service. The Hamiltons have a 10-year-old daughter, Cora Lee, two married daughters and four grandchildren.

Two Day Tour of Range Land Taken

A two-day range tour to inspect the Bureau of Land Management improvements on the public domain was conducted July 9-10 by the public lands committee of the Lake County Stockgrowers Association in cooperation with the BLM and the Extension Services.

The groups visited Christmas Valley, Abert Rim, Juniper and Fort Rock areas on July 10 and Warner Valley, Guano and Hill Camp areas the previous day.

Bob Weir Jr., chairman of the committee, said the tour was also made to check on natural range growth resulting from the current wet season.

COURSE SUPERINTENDENT CHECKS GRASS--Joe Ward inspects growth of lush grass on fairways of Christmas Valley Golf Course. Rains in June and early July have really helped the course come along, says Joe.

IDEAL WEATHER SPEEDS UP DAY WHEN GOLF COURSE WILL OPEN

Precipitation in Christmas Valley was rather "unusual" during the month of June--about twice the normal amount for this time of the year.

While most Christmas Valleyites may grumble a little when the sun goes behind a cloud, at least one person wanders around in the showers, smiling and beaming as he watches the grass grow.

Golf course superintendent Joe Ward grows ecstatic as he talks about the ideal combination of warm days, afternoon and evening showers with no frost, which has turned the fairways to a brilliant green.

Just one year ago, workmen began clearing the brush from the golf course. Last fall, rye was seeded along the bare strips, to act as a ground cover, holding the top soil in place and providing protection for future seedings of grass.

First grass seedings of the fairways were started about the middle of May and the grass has sprouted to several inches in height.

Greenskeepers are busy mowing the rye on the fairways and grooming the putting greens and driving range, which are now open.

Ideal weather conditions have perhaps speeded up by months the completion of the nine hole Christmas Valley Golf Course.

Mobil Guide Highlights Oregon Sites

At a time when 90,000,000 American engage in the annual auto touring season, many are expected to vacation in scenic Oregon, thanks to the help of the nation's most comprehensive and authoritative aid to auto tourism, the Mobile Travel Guide.

Fifty-one pages of the new 1963 edition are devoted to the wonders of the Beaver State. The publication contains descriptions of 71 cities, towns and villages and includes rated listings for 259 motels and motor hotels, 44 restaurants, two resorts and 24 hotels and inns.

Governor Mark O. Hatfield has provided an introduction to the State's section, which concludes with: "Whatever your purpose, you'll be able to relax in a State of excitement!"

Last year Oregon's income from tourist travel amounted to a huge $491,800,000.

In introducing vacationers to Oregon, the editors state: "Whether one's taste is for an ocean beach, a ski slope, a mountain lake, or riding and rodeos, everyone who loves the outdoors (or the American West) will love Oregon." Mt. Hood, 13 National forests and 160 State parks are among the many Oregon attractions included in the report.

Christmas Valley Shirts Selling Fast

It pays to advertise. Especially if one is advertising Christmas Valley.

Connie Baert reports that 240 Christmas Valley Sweat Shirts have been sold at her store. Of this total 20 were sold by mail order.

The white sweat shirts spelled out Christmas Valley, Oregon, in green letters. A green Christmas tree also adorned the sweat shirt.

In addition to the 240 sweat shirts, 36 short sleeved T shirts, also emblazoned with Christmas Valley, were sold.

List Controls for Grasshoppers

Christmas Valley farmers and ranchers are urged to be on the lookout for young grasshoppers and the hoppers' egg beds.

Bill Moser, Lake County Extension Agent, says locating the egg beds and treating them now as the young grasshoppers emerge can result in an effective and economical control.

Moser says the two chemicals proven most effective against grasshoppers are Aldrin and Dieldrin. However, Moser cautions that these materials should only be used on land not being pastured and hayed because excess residues have been found on forages.

For hay and pasture lands, Moser recommends Sevin, Malathion, Dibrom and Diazinon.

CHRISTMAS VALLEY'S NEWEST FAMILY--Chuck and Lola Banteir and their daughters, Lynne, 6, and Charlene, 9, are constructing a 3-bedroom home near the Dude Ranch. Chuck and Lola are building the Christmas Valley Beer Tavern and hope to complete it in September.

BANTEIR STARTS CONSTRUCTION OF NEW BEER TAVERN IN TOWN

Charles (Chuck) Banteir has started construction of the Christmas Valley Beer Tavern on Christmas Valley Road between the Mercantile Store and the Sales Office.

Bantier says he hopes to open the Tavern for business sometime in September. After completion of the Tavern, Chuck expects to expand the facility with a restaurant.

The beer and wine license which is now in the name of the M. Penn Phillips Co. for use in the Lodge will be transferred to Banteir.

Lodge Family Clubhouse

This is in accordance with the company's plan to convert the Lodge into a family clubhouse, dining and meeting room. The Christmas Valley Recreation District is expected to take over the Lodge in the near future and will carry out these aims.

The Banteirs sold their home in Canoga Park, Calif., and will build a 3 bedroom house near the Dude Ranch. Architecture of the house will fit in with the area's Western motif. It will be finished in natural wood.

Love Valley

Chuck, who has had previous experience as an innkeeper, fell in love with Christmas Valley and decided to move here immediately. The Banteirs, who have two children, Charlene, 9, and Lynne, 6, were active in the Catholic Church and choir in Canoga Park.

Charlene and Lynne love horses and the outdoors. Both will attend school in Fort Rock. Both are good students and talented little painters.

Chuck is a likeable and friendly fellow and will make a good host. His wife, Lola, is a charming person and a wonderful cook.

'Chris-O-Matic Wash' New Name Chosen for Valley Laundromat

Christmas Valley's new laundromat has a name, and Mrs. Esther Mercer of Bellflower, Calif., has a month's free washing coming to her.

Mrs. Mercer won the month's free washing by submitting the winning name in a contest conducted by John and Evelyn Pettus, owners of the laundromat.

"It was very difficult to select the winning name because we had so many fine suggestions," said Evelyn, "but John and I finally settled on 'CHRIS-O-MATIC WASH' as the best entry."

The Chris-O-Matic Wash, which is located on Christmas Valley Road, contains six washing machines and three dryers. It is a coin operated facility.

The winning name was selected on brevity, phonetic quality and appropriateness. Mrs. Mercer's entry was one of three final ones chosen.

AVERAGE U.S. FARM VALUED AT $43,000

The average farm in the U.S. was valued at $43,000 or $126 per acre as of last November, the Economic Research Service reports.

Estimated value of all farm real estate was $141 billion, 4% above the previous year.

Even though market average prices were at record highs, the supply of farmland for sale was reported to be relatively tight.

Americans engage in the annual autotouring season, many are expected to vacation in scenic Oregon, thanks to the help of the nation's most comprehensive and authoritative aid to auto tourism, the Mobile Travel Guide.

FOUR GENERATIONS OF CATER FAMILY MEET

Four generations of the Cater family were represented when Ed and Ann Cater hosted Ann's grandmother, Mrs. Louise Duquette, Calgary, Canada, and Ann's mother, Mrs. Edna Becker, Salem. Youngest members were Mike, Ralph and Jeff Cater.

Also visiting the Caters were Ann's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Barret, Calgary, Ed's mother, Mrs. Ruth Cater, Salem; Mr. and Mrs. Gene Owens, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cater and family, Eugene, and Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Boatwright and family, Dallas, Ore.

LAKE FILLING UP FAST--Deputy Sheriff Mel Brown checks pump and hose which are making Christmas Valley Lake into a big recreational facility. On July 30, 500 rainbow trout (8-inch average size) and 1500 fingerlings were planted. Bass, blue gill, crappie and catfish will also be stocked in the Lake.

2000 RAINBOW TROUT PLANTED IN CHRISTMAS VALLEY'S LAKE

The population of Christmas Valley Lake increased by 2000 on July 30 with the planting of 500 rainbow trout (average size of 8 inches) and another 1500 fingerlings, reported Penn Thayer, president of the Christmas Valley Mutual Water Improvement District.

"In a short time we will augment the fish population with additional planting of many bass, blue gill, crappie and catfish," said Thayer.

"Because we don't want to deplete the supply of trout too rapidly, the Recreation District directors decided that for the time being, fishing in the Lake will be reserved for kids only. After we stock with other types of fish, everyone can have fun," he added.

The Lake is now filled and is being used by boating enthusiasts and even water skiers. During the Christmas Valley Rodeo, water skiers were zooming around the big Lake.

It should be stressed that a special section has been set aside for water skiers so as not to disturb or endanger fishermen and swimmers.

RUBE LONG AT FORT ROCK CAVE DEDICATION--Long, on whose land the historic cave is located, made moving speech at cave mouth. Long accepted certificate of registration in a ceremony which officially registered the cave as a National Historic Landmark.

RUBE LONG MAKES MOVING TALK AT FORT ROCK CAVE DEDICATION

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Rube Long, on whose land the Fort Rock Cave is located, accepted a certificate of registration in a simple and moving ceremony that officially registered the Cave as a National Historic Landmark.

The Longs agreed to "preserve the historic quality of the site to the best of their ability; to make use of the site consistent with its historic characteristics and to permit an annual visit by a representative of the National Park Service."

Speaking for himself and his wife, Eleanor, Long promised that during his "temporary custody" he will make the site available to all who wish to visit there.

Long Makes Moving Speech

During a moving and emotional acceptance speech before 200 onlookers, Long said that "because ownership was such a fleeting thing, he believed this was the best way to preserve for the public this earliest known Oregon habitation of man."

"Nine thousand years ago," said Long, "man once lived and loved here and chased the rabbits. And he thought he would always own this place. But human projects are puny things when compared to the Great Plan of the Creator."

Always Open to Public

Long said he wished the site to always be available to the public so people might come there, look out over the Fort Rock Valley and meditate. He said he believed meditation was one of the greatest forms of worship.

Long accepted the certificate of registration from W. Ward Yeager, superintendent of Crater Lake National Park, who as spokesman for the National Park Service, made the dedication speech.

VETS FARM,

HOME LOAN

MAXIMUM RAISED

A bill increasing the maximum amounts available under the Oregon Veterans' Farm and Loan program has been passed by the Oregon legislature, the Department of Veterans' Affairs reported.

Effective Sept. 2, veterans' loan maximums were increased from $13,500 to $15,000 for homes and from $30,000 to $40,000 for farms.

Bronze Plaque at Cave

A bronze plaque fixed to the cave's exterior entrance states:

"This site possesses exceptional value in commemorating and illustrating the history of the United States."

Dr. Luther S. Cressman, head of the department of anthropology at the University of Oregon, was the main speaker at the dedication. Dr. Cressman was introduced by Phil Brogan, associate editor of The Bend Bulletin and who is widely known as a top authority on archaeology and geology of Central Oregon.

Sandals 9000 Years Old

Dr. Cressman, who in 1938 headed the excavation team which unearthed 75 sagebrush sandals -- said to be 9000 years old -- beneath the Newberry and Mazama volcanic pumices, described what life must have been like for the Indian sandal makers and hunters who were here 7000 years before Christ.

Dr. Cressman said a vast inland lake covered the present Christmas Valley, Fort Rock, Silver Lake and Thorne Lake Basins. Its waves washed just in front of the cave. Beach gravel found inside the cave indicated that once the lake was even higher.

Short Life Expectancy

He described the ancient people as hunters who used a "throwing stick" to cast pointed rocks at their quarry because the bow and arrow did not come to this region until about 4000 years ago. Parts of these throwing sticks were found in this cave and also in the Paisley Caves.

The scientist said that while man's life expectancy today is 70 years, that of the ancient people of Fort Rock Cave was only 18 to 20 years. A woman 30 years of age would be very, very old.

Proud of Work

Dr. Cressman told of the obvious pride the ancient people had in their work, pointing out that the sandal weaving and decorative basket work had a quality far beyond the utility needed.

Mrs. Maurice Ward was chairman of the Fort Rock committee which made the arrangements for the program. Merritt (Bud) Parks served as master of ceremonies.

Women of the Fort Rock Grange provided luncheon for 200 at the Grange Hall.

"CONGRATULATIONS, ED YOU SET A NEW RECORD, --AN ALTITUDE RECORD!"

Big Market Seen for Oregon Raised Cattle

Expanding California markets for Oregon-grown beef were predicted by a West Coast livestock specialist at the annual Oregon State University Beef Cattle Day.

Some signs indicate that cattle feeding in California has reached its peak and may taper off in years ahead, reported Reuben Albaugh, University of California.

At the same time, demand for finished beef in California will increase rapidly with the state's population growth and high-level per capita income, Albaugh told some 150 Oregon cattlemen attending the meeting.

Import 2,000,000 Cattle
California now imports

nearly 2 million head of stocker and feeder cattle that are finished in California feedlots. The state also imports about one-half its needed supply of livestock feeds for finishing beef cattle in lots.

This combination of importing both unfinished animals and feed imposes limitations even though feedlots are highly efficient, operating on large-volume, low-unit profits, the specialist explained.

More than 450,000 head of finished cattle were imported into California in 1962 for immediate slaughter with about three-fourths of this number coming from Arizona.

Has Potential
Oregon supplied only 18,000

head but has the potential for greatly increased sales of finished beef, believe many Oregon livestock market authorities.

In 1961, Oregon produced about 500,000 calves and 166,000 cull cows--most of which were shipped out of state for finishing in states that have developed grain feeding industries, according to a recent study by Oregon State University.

Beef cattle feeding in Oregon now generates about $53 million annually in local economic activity. The OSU study estimates it would be $250 million if the state's potential feed grain resources were "marketed" through finished beef.
