Completion of Road, Course Opening Twin Highlights of 2nd Anniversary

Hi Friends!

I feel greatly honored that Mr. Phillips feels he can trust me to talk to you from his own "Penn Points" column. Don't laugh, it may be your turn next---I was just having a friendly conversation with him---I guess he figured I needed a job.

At our Motel here in Christmas Valley, I have a special vantage spot to talk to all you wonderful people who come to look at your property and also to those who "just had to come see if all I hear is a fact."

People Are Tops

So, let me give you my opinion of all these hundreds of people.

"They are Tops!" The finest I have had the privilege of meeting in my many years of public service. They are the special type who are and will make this the very choice community you will be proud to be a part of.

Having the M. Penn Phillips Company with its extensive successful experience to back us, together with you fine people who are seeking a different and more peaceful life ---we just can't miss!

Wonderful Crops

Don't put it off. Just jump in with both feet and let's show the world what can be accomplished. Come see the wonderful alfalfa and rye crops, vegetables of many kinds -- what flavors! See the flowers and grass and trees. Our trouble is that we need MORE of all of these. It takes many hands to make a community beautiful and a really lovely place to live in. So you see--we need you.

Not Retirement Project

This is not really a "Retirement Project" -- far from it. All ages are coming up, even newlyweds--four couples I can now recall in the past few months. The last count on children of elementary school age was 37--with 5 more expected next week.

You ask what you can do at your age with little cash. Let me suggest just a few easy, needed things.

The Penn Phillips Company co-operated with Lake County to pave 18 miles of County road from Oregon Highway 31 to the Christmas Valley Townsite. Phillips Company provided the materials used and the County provided the necessary equipment and labor.

11 MILES OF POWER LINES NOW INSTALLED IN TOWNSITE ALONE

Eleven miles of power lines has been installed within the 2500-acre Christmas Valley Townsite, according to the Midstate Electric Co-op officials. More than 25 miles of lines have been set up in the Townsite and the scattered acreage lots, farms and ranches.

George Larimer, manager of Midstate, said there were 215 new customers in the Christmas Valley area, which indicates the growth of this development.

Larimer also said power will be supplied for new irrigation pumps in the Fort Rock and Silver Lake Basin.

THE TOWN THAT HAD TO BE BUILT

BY CARLO P. GIUNTINI
President, M. Penn Phillips Co.

In several stories in this second anniversary issue of the GAZETTE, there are complimentary statements and verbal bouquets tossed at the M. Penn Phillips Co. for its constantly progressing development at Christmas Valley.

We wouldn't be human if we didn't say we were flattered and pleased with the nice things said about us and our work in Christmas Valley.

The development of Christmas Valley didn't just happen by chance. It took a well-qualified team of experienced men--men who have been with us for years--to plan and then to make their plans work.

Said We'd Do It And We Did

And yet, despite the hundreds of thousands of dollars involved, the problems that have cropped up almost every day, we tackled them as challenging but not insurmountable tasks. After all, we said we'd do it--and we did.

The M. Penn Phillips Co., in a manner of speaking, is a creature of habit. Of good habits, I might add.

We have a long established solid habit of doing what we promise to do when we undertake to develop an area.

Every Development Completed As Advertised

Others obviously have also discovered this. We have customers who have repeatedly bought property from us over the last 30 years and who have come in with us on almost every development which the M. Penn Phillips Co. originated. And they've seen every one of these developments completed as advertised.

Despite our numerous successes in many areas, I personally have an especially fond spot in my heart for what I see is happening in Christmas Valley.

The Town That Had To Be Built

Christmas Valley, I have felt, was "THE TOWN THAT HAD TO BE BUILT."

Only two short years ago, central Oregon was an enormous area of range land with widely scattered ranches, some distance removed from what we sometimes accept as commonplace. Things like a grocery store, a church building, a fine restaurant for family dining, a service station, a laundromat, a golf course, a lake, a dude ranch and good fellowship.

Closer Bonds With Neighbors Through Socializing

I'm proud to say the M. Penn Phillips Co. has helped to bring these conveniences to Christmas Valley. In addition, we have in some measure provided closer bonds between neighbors through the social facilities now available.

All these things naturally contribute to the growth and stability of Christmas Valley. They also create higher land values and other assets for the ultimate good of the buyers.

Right now, I'd better hastily add that we're not being entirely altruistic about our role in the development of Christmas Valley. I won't deny that we have a selfish interest--that of making a legitimate profit on our sizable investment.

There's Much More To Be Done

At the same time, I want to reassure you that we have a patriarchal influence over our development. We're vitally interested in the welfare of the community, the residents and their investments here.

The job is not yet complete. There is much more to be done. I am proud to say we have never skimped on anything we have done in Christmas Valley.

After all, the best is none too good for the town that had to be built.

Gentlemen:

I have followed with great interest your progress in Christmas Valley, since improvement in any section of the county affects the economy of the whole. I am very pleased with the results to date, and will look forward to the future developments that are encompassed in your plans.

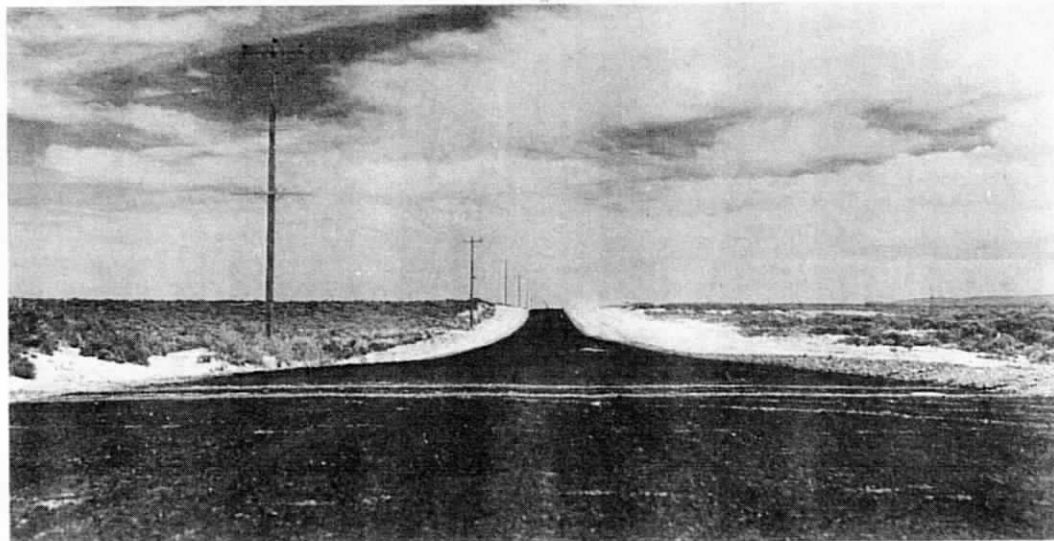

May I say that it has been a pleasure to work with your group, particularly general manager Phil Washington and project manager Warren Morton, since they have been very faithful in promised performance, a factor which makes the operation of my office much easier. With best wishes for your future success, I am

Very truly yours,

LAKE COUNTY OFFICIALS AT DEDICATION--County Judge C. W. Ogle, Commissioner Jewel Corum and superintendent of county roads Cliff Partin (from left) were greatly responsible, along with Commissioner J. S. Snider, for the splendid cooperation among the County, community and M. Penn Phillips Co. which made the road paving possible.

VIEW OF THE SPANKING NEW ROAD--This is the view motorists will get as they head down Christmas Valley Road out of the Townsite. Road has been called a vital factor in the further growth of Christmas Valley. Easy access to state and national highways is now possible after the completion of this 18-mile thoroughfare.

way is now open for easy access to the vast recreational facilities of all types available in the area," added Phillips.

Present at the impressive ceremonies were Judge C. W. Ogle, Commissioners Jewel Corum and Jim Snyder, Cliff Partin, Lake County Road Department Superintendent; Phil

Washington, general project manager; Al Baert, Virgil Hall, Glen Tyler and several others who contributed to the success of the project.

Joins Many Highways

The road will enable visitors to drive north to Fort Rock on the Arrow Gap Road or south on it to Highway 31. This joins Oregon Highway 97 and U. S. Highway 395. Visitors from Lapine, Silver Lake, Bend and Lakeview now have an easy drive to Christmas Valley.

But it wasn't easy building the road. The fact that the project was smacked on schedule is a tribute to the men spearheading the job.

A crew of 15 men virtually worked around the clock seven days a week, counting the men who were hauling gravel from Picture Rock Pass. These crews trucked in 3,500 cubic yards of crushed rock for the road.

681 Tons of Asphalt

Besides manpower, numerous pieces of equipment--valued at $200,000--was required for the project. A total of 681 tons of asphalt was used for the paving.

Yet, none of this could have been accomplished without the unstinting cooperation of the local merchants and ranchers, Lake County and the M. Penn Phillips Co.

After the dedication ceremonies, the officials and on-lookers retired to the Lodge for lunch. After lunch, several of them made a day out of it by playing golf on the newly opened Christmas Valley course.

Chancys Return From Texas Visit

Delores and Louis Chancy returned home last week after a trip to Eldorado, Texas, where they returned Delores' brothers, Jonnie and Chuck Calcote, to their parents. The Calcote boys spent the summer at Christmas Valley.

Little Orval Chancy made the trip with his parents but daughters Theresa and Connie stayed with Mrs. Rice, lower grade teacher at Fort Rock School.

The Chancys, who have a trailer on a permanent lot site, brought home a present for the kids -- a 60 pound watermelon.

Oregon Building Soars

June contracts for future construction in Oregon totaled $72,886,000, up a whopping 108 per cent over June, 1962, according to the F. W. Dodge Corporation.

FLURRY OF CONTEST LETTERS SNOWS EDITORS AT DEADLINE

Apparently most of our property owners would like to win the three valuable prizes offered in our free letter contest on "Why I'm Happy I Own Land in Christmas Valley."

Staff members have been bleary eyed reading all the entries and just when they were thinking of getting a rest, a sudden flurry of contest letters arrived by latecomers who wanted to beat the deadline of Tuesday, Oct. 15.

For the best three letters we'll give these valuable prizes. First prize -- an allowance of $150 on the balance of the winner's account. Second prize is $100 and third $50 on the balance of the other winners' accounts.

The winners and their letters will be published in the next edition of the Christmas Valley Gazette.

Good news for visitors to Christmas Valley--we are at present adding 9 more double units to our overcrowded 12 units. These are nice and very different. So now, at least for a while, we will be able to take care of your sleeping needs. These will have special built long mattresses for you taller ones.

No More Rough Roads

Our road is completed--all blacktopped. Thanks to the County, of course, but our thanks to the extra effort and money of the M. Penn Phillips Company. No more rough, dusty roads to come in on. So enjoy a fine meal with Ed Cater at the beautiful Lodge, have a dip in the lake or a horseback ride, an informative trip with one of our pleasant salesmen, then a game of golf.

But, best of all, you will enjoy "the best sleep you have had in years!" Rest! Quiet, peaceful rest! Well, come try it out for yourself.

Phillips Land Empire

The M. Penn Phillips Company story is as legendary and fabulous as that of its founder, astute and affable M. Penn Phillips.

His fame is such that he "made the cover" of Time magazine, a station reserved for the greats of the world.

Since his advent into land development in 1922, Phillips has successfully transformed 500,000 acres of heretofore unused land into flourishing communities and resorts.

His successes are recorded in four states and Mexico. Here is a thumbnail list of his developments:

CLEAR LAKE, CALIFORNIA-- Developed resort and home resort in 1922. More than 10,000 lots were purchased by the public. Hotel and club built. It is now one of the outstanding resorts in the state.

FRAZIER MOUNTAIN PARK NEAR BAKERSFIELD, CALIFORNIA-- Resort and home development sold in 1924.

VISTA, CALIFORNIA -- In 1926 developed the avocado groves of Vista into farms and home sites. It is now considered to be one of the most desirable places in which to live.

COOS BAY, OREGON -- Acquired 10,000 lots and developed these into resort area with industry. Sold this in 1929. Coos Bay is a lumber and manufacturing center.

LAS VEGAS, NEVADA -- Developed and sold many of the properties in 1932. Today, on this land are located the famous hotels of the "Vegas Strip."

KINGMAN, ARIZONA -- Company sold thousands of acres in 1932. Today, Kingman is a major railroad center on the Santa Fe line.

ENSENADA, MEXICO -- With Jack Dempsey, heavyweight boxing champion of the world, Phillips developed area here in 1932. They built the modern resort hotel, the Playa del Pacifico in Ensenada.

PALMDALE-LANCASTER, CALIFORNIA -- Pioneer developer in Antelope Valley in 1937. Experts recently predicted the area will have a population of 1,000,000 in 1975. The company still builds an average of 30 homes a month in this area.

LAKE ARROWHEAD AND BIG BEAR LAKE, CALIFORNIA -- In the late 1940's, hundreds of lots in this area were developed and sold. Built a club for the purchasers of the property.

HESPERIA, CALIFORNIA -- Purchased 23,000 acres in 1954. Built championship golf course, $1,000,000 Hesperia Inn and other facilities. Population has zoomed from 143 in 1954 to 7,000 today. There are 717 children in two grammar schools.

VICTORVILLE, BARSTOW, SAN BERNARDINO, RIVERSIDE, CALIFORNIA -- Since 1950 the company has specialized in development work in these High Desert areas.

GREATER LOS ANGELES AREA -- In San Gabriel, Azusa, Baldwin Park, Compton, Surfside, Glendora -- the list is almost unending of the many communities the company has developed, both industrially and residentially.

SALTON CITY, CALIFORNIA -- Purchased 19,600 acres in 1958 and developed complete sea-desert recreation resort on Salton Sea.

Has Reputation of Completing Community It Starts to Develop

By M. PENN PHILLIPS

Our company enjoys the enviable reputation of completing any community it undertakes to develop. And the improvements are accomplished with the finest materials and workmanship.

One of the main reasons our company has enjoyed the success it has is that we do not rely on sales dollars to pay for these improvements.

Funds are allocated for all this work BEFORE the development is even placed on the market.

All the work it takes to build a complete community is begun almost simultaneously.

Our staff of trained experts makes an over-all design or master plan of the area, determining where the residential, recreational, civic, church, commercial and industrial areas should be and their relationship to each other.

When this plan has been approved, and the pattern set for development, budgets are compiled, funds allocated, schedules of completion are set and the work itself is started -- drafting, surveying, engineering, purchasing, earth moving, road work, construction, housing and all the other phases of development that will convert the raw land into the finished product.

Before land can be used it must be developed and "packaged" in units that can be utilized.

This is one of the primary reasons California has grown to its present size. Developers prepared California land and paved the way for the progress which followed.

Have you ever thought why a town grows in a given spot? Someone builds it.

Someone provides the water, roads, electricity and telephone service necessary to make the land usable.

This is the function of our company. We are land developers and have been for 41 years.

Our company has developed more than 500,000 acres of successful developments in places like Vista, Clear Lake, Azusa, Baldwin Park, Hesperia, Salton Sea, Las Vegas, Los Angeles, Antelope Valley, Lake Arrowhead and others.

Our company -- with its vast experience -- has planned for Christmas Valley a recreational and service center second to none in a state that is famous for its recreational resources.

Teamwork, Experience Spell Success of Company

The M. Penn Phillips Company believes that teamwork in management is the key to success in running a multi-million dollar organization with a 41-year history of successful community development.

A close-knit organization where the executives of the company have known and worked with one another for many years, the company is well aware of the advantages of teamwork; knowing what every department is doing, how it is doing and when it plans to finish what it is doing.

Founder M. Penn Phillips

has grouped the following men around him to plan and guide the orderly progress of Christmas Valley. The key executives of the company have had over a half century of combined experience in the real estate field.

Giuntini President

Heading the team is Carlo P. Giuntini, President. Giuntini has been associated with Phillips as his chief executive for almost two decades. As president, he directs all sections of the company's operations: engineering, planning, administration and sales, as well as developing the over-all program, with Phillips, of the Christmas Valley development.

His extensive background has made him one of the top, young executives in the real estate field.

Washington Project Manager

Phillip O. Washington, General Project Manager, has been with Phillips most of the last ten years. Starting as a construction field supervisor in the company's building department, he showed a decided knack for the sales field.

When the community of Hesperia was first opened for public sale in October of 1954, Washington was made sales manager for the project.

Except for a short period of time in the late 1950's, when he ran a successful construction and sales business in Hesperia, he has been associated with Phillips and Giuntini in a sales executive position.

Thayer Heads Engineering

Penn Thayer, head of Planning and Engineering, is the youngest of the executive team. A short but extensive background in the field, plus a well-rounded education and a "head for business" have placed him in his present position.

Chief executive at Christmas Valley is Warren W. Morton, who is in charge of all development and building. Morton's responsibilities are to build roads, the lake, the

Legislator Impressed by Progress Made Here

Rep. Cannon Calls Christmas Valley Almost Unbelievable

By KESSLER R. CANNON
State of Oregon, House of Representatives

The story of Christmas Valley is a story of people and their faith in a great area of Central Oregon. In Bend, our people have watched with interest, curiosity and wonderment at the substantial development, construction and progress that is being made.

We first heard about Christmas Valley at the time of the telephone expansion into that fine Valley. It was my pleasure to lead a large group of Bend Chamber of Commerce People to the celebration.

At that time I met Mr. M. Penn Phillips, heard his story and plans, drove over the area with him, saw the drilling of wells, saw the first plans for the lodge and the lake, roads and water systems, the model farm and other initial developments. Later, we flew over the Christmas Valley country, seeing from above the land mass. This was summer and early fall of 1961.

Almost Unbelievable Transformation Made

Now, just 2 years later, I visited again at the time of the road completion ceremony and opening of the new golf course. What is the comparison that can be made, except to point to remarkable, almost unbelievable transformation of the country.

Aside from the opportunity for a new kind of living, in a clean, bright country, free from smog and crowding people that Christmas Valley affords, the development has had a substantial impact on the economy of our region.

Substantial Impact on Economy of Cities

Retail trade in Bend, Lakeview, Klamath Falls, Silver Lake, Fort Rock, and all tributary cities and communities has been increased by thousands of dollars because of Christmas Valley.

I checked with two wholesalers in Bend, for example, who report their combined yearly wholesale sales to Christmas Valley approach $50,000. And these two, while important, are just two of many who have found good business opportunity in the development.

From an economic standpoint, too, the Christmas Valley business community now supplies a vast area that before was not supplied. And in future years the businesses established at Christmas Valley will become increasingly important to a substantial part of Central Oregon.

New Recreation Area Developed

A new recreation area has been developed for people, another place to go for relaxation, to enjoy an unhurried vacation period, to unwind from tensions of today. Another area has been opened for retirement homes, for acreages, for small ranch operations.

And the sales success of the area, exceeding all expectations, has proven the value of the country, and what it has to offer.

Tremendous Resource Brought To Light

Here in a vast area, a tremendous resource has been brought to light. A resource of providing what people want.

It is ironic, in a way, that most of the attraction has been to people outside the state of Oregon. It may well be that people here are too close to the forest to see the trees. But regardless, development is underway, and it is important to the State of Oregon. We like to have people discover our state, and to move here. It helps us, and at the same time, it helps them, and encourages others.

For many parts of our state, this type of land development is the only immediate chance for exploitation of the resource. Without it, much of Oregon might not be developed for another long period of time. With it, progress comes in which we all participate and enjoy.

Discovery of Vast Underground Water Resource

Christmas Valley and the Fort Rock-Silver Lake country has a long tradition of grassland farming, ranching, cattle and sheep operations. Discovery of the vast underground water resource, and then the coming of cheap power, telephones, roads all made the Christmas Valley project possible.

Many people, critical of the development, fail to understand that the country was not a vast, uninhabited desert, but a long-established stockmen's community. Families still in the area have been there for 60 years. Discovery of the area, and opening it to many people, does not detract from the fact that many have enjoyed it for a long time, nor does it discourage the new comers.

Salutes People Who Made Christmas Valley Possible

I wish continued success to Christmas Valley and its fine people. It is my hope that more and more people will discover this great part of our state of Oregon, and come to live and enjoy it.

On this anniversary, it is a pleasure to salute the people whose vision and faith in a country has made Christmas Valley possible and continuing.

Those who have not visited the valley should do so, and see for themselves. Talking to the people there is the best way to also get the enthusiasm they have and their wanting to share what they have with others.

OREGON LEGISLATOR LAUDS DEVELOPMENT -- Kessler R. Cannon, member of the State House of Representatives, is a frequent visitor to Christmas Valley. Rep. Cannon, who is a member of the Agriculture and Livestock, Natural Resources and Military Affairs committees, called the Christmas Valley Development "a remarkable, almost unbelievable transformation."

THOMPSONS PLAN TO BUILD 9 MORE UNITS TO THEIR MOTEL

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Thompson, owners of the 12-unit Christmas Valley Motel, said they are planning to add nine more units to their hostelry. "These will be double units and very nice. We'll also have them specially built for bigger beds and longer mattresses to make even the tall ones comfortable," said Mrs. Thompson.

"My husband and I decided we need these additional units because of the overcrowded situations at our present 12 units. It used to be that we'd only be filled when some big event like the Rodeo was going on.

"Lately, however, we seemed to be at full capacity just from the people visiting Christmas Valley on weekends," she said.

Plans Being Set Up for Volunteer Fire Department

Christmas Valley residents recently were treated to a movie and a special spaghetti dinner at the Lodge and then were told how to organize a Rural Fire District.

The movie, "A Fire Named Jeremiah," was sponsored by the Bureau of Land Management. The 40-minute movie, whose theme was Range and Forest fires, showed how fires can be started by carelessness and showed how to fight them with men and equipment such as Borate bombing planes and smoke jumpers.

After the movie, Guy Hand of Klamath Falls gave a discussion on how to organize a Rural Fire District. Hand has been chairman of the board of directors of Stewart Lennox Rural Fire Protection District in Klamath Falls for 15 years.

Plans Being Made

Plans are now being made to organize a Volunteer Fire Department for Christmas Valley.

Bureau of Land Management personnel present at the entertaining program were George Lea, district manager; Jake Harris, Range conservationist, and C. W. Sullway, administrative assistant.

Local BLM fire guards Maurice Ward, Ted Emery, Ted Lee and Del Hand were also present.

Theologian From Florida Daughter Move to Valley

Residents are moving to beautiful and healthful Christmas Valley from all over the country. Newest Valleyites are Donald Murphy and his daughter, Ruthie, age 16.

The Murphys came all the way from Miami, Florida, which is about as far away as you can come here from the U.S.

Murphy spent 20 years in Europe and Asia studying Philosophies and religious beliefs. He speaks fluently the Indian language Bengali and also Urdu, which is Hindustani as spoken by Mohammedans in India.

Murphy produced three theological programs in the southern states of South Carolina, Georgia and Florida. For the last six years he had a daily program in Miami.

A lecturer for many years, Murphy has promised to speak to Christmas Valley residents and to show color slides of India and other Asian countries.

Firm's Secret is Teamwork, Experience

golf course, the installation of utilities, build homes and business places. And he is ideally qualified for the job.

Morton Supervises

Morton has supervised the special building projects of Phillips' and Giuntini's since the Hesperia development. He was construction supervisor of the beautiful Hesperia Inn and Country Club; the ultra-modern Salton City administration building at the Salton Sea; as well as supervising the building of hundreds of homes and business places in both communities.

He spends most of his time at the project, flying his own plane between the Valley and the Los Angeles area.

Such are the men who make your Christmas Valley project "go". They know their jobs, know them well, so the future of Christmas Valley is in good capable hands.

CATTLE FEEDING UP IN EASTERN OREGON

Production of grain-fed beef is on the increase in Eastern Oregon because of utilization of the area's grain crops and processing plant by-products to supply the growing regional market.

At Baker, the Roger Rode feedlot has been expanded to 33 acres, and capacity has been increased to 3,000 head of cattle at one time.

The new Shaw feedlot at Elgin is starting its second full season with a capacity of 2,000 head of cattle.

Christmas Valley Progress Still Accelerating at Pace of 1st Year

After the tremendous first year activity powered by the M. Penn Phillips Company in its development of Christmas Valley, one conceivably could anticipate a little tightening of operations, if only for a short period.

This certainly wasn't the case with the topnotch management team of the M. Penn Phillips Co. and its talented crews.

In fact, progress in the second year of development compared favorably with the initial year's activity in which $1,100,000 was expended. And this did not include salaries.

Here is a brief rundown of major events which occurred during the second year of Christmas Valley's existence and helped in its further growth, expansion and development.

NOVEMBER-DECEMBER

Oregon Congressman Al Ullman receives word from postal authorities that Christmas Valley soon would have a fourth class post office--the Christmas Valley Rural Station. Post office to be located in Al and Connie Baert's Christmas Valley Mercantile Store. . . New Christmas Valley service station opened off Christmas Valley Road at west end of Air Park. . . Christmas Valley Mercantile Store expands facilities to provide greater variety of merchandise. . . Engineering work completed for Christmas Valley Townsite. . . President Carlo P. Giuntini donates land for church and school sites. . . Phillips Co. gave 1,739 Christmas trees to property owners in San Diego, San Jose, San Francisco and Azusa.

JANUARY

Christmas Valley residents unanimously approved formation of the Christmas Valley Recreation District, which is providing for the future development of recreational facilities, youth programs, parks and playgrounds, street planting and maintenance and other community activities. . . Warren Morton was elected president of the CVRD, with John Pettus and Al Baert also serving on the three-man board. . .

First batch of mail processed in new Christmas Valley Rural Station Post Office. . . Mel Brown elected president of the Chamber of Commerce and also appointed Deputy Sheriff. . . Chamber of Commerce membership numbered 3500. . . Christmas Valley Lake freezes over, and kids and grownups have ball with ice skating parties and races. . .

Additional water strata discovered by Gordon Goeres during deepening operation of Well No. 2. . . Joint study by Midstate Electric Cooperative and Bonneville Power Administration reveals it would take about 250 times the amount of consumption of water by an estimated 2,000 residents before starting a decline of water level in wells. . . Road improvement work completed in Units 4 and 5 of the Townsite.

FEBRUARY

Lake County officials, Judge C. W. Ogle and commissioners James Snyder and J. D. Corum, approve formation of Christmas Valley Recreation District. . . Recreation District announces it will build softball diamond and proceeds to do so in record time. . . More than 6,000 pieces of mail were processed in first month of operation by new post office. . . Nearly $10,000 spent on purchasing golf course equipment. . .

Marine Lt. Ted Lopuszynski first proposed idea of forming Christmas Valley Property Owners Clubs in different areas to promote and support Christmas Valley. . . First such club formed in Saugus, Calif., by Mr. and Mrs. Russ Lansdowne, Ralph Kain and George Shultz. . . More than 1,000 evergreen trees planted around Lodge area. . . Two reservoirs in Lake County--Ana and Priddy Reservoirs--opened to fishing all year around....

Midstate Electric Co-op, operating under the Rural Electric Administration, installed about 20 more miles of power lines in the Townsite and more distant acreage lots.

MARCH

A whopping $300,000 contract awarded to Sterling Pipe Co. to supply labor and materials necessary to complete water system in Townsite. Over-all contract called for installation of some 168,400 feet of pipeline, 170 valves, 180 firehydrants and various special fittings. . . Warren Morton elected chairman of Recreation District. . . Local softball season started in balmy weather. . . Road work on schedule in Christmas Valley Townsite. . . Workmen rush to complete Recreation Building, which is part of $65,000 Mobile Home Estates. . .

Christmas Valley's newest residents, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Ellis, can keep folks entertained by just telling them of their traveling experiences.

MAN'S RING FOUND

A man's ring recently was found in one of the washers of the Chris-O-Matic Wash laundromat by owner Evelyn Pettus.

The owner of the ring may claim it by contacting Mel in the Christmas Valley Sales Office.

The Ellis couple recently spent a year in Bangkok, Thailand, and just prior to that, they lived for three years in Turkey.

Gerald and his wife, "Skeeta," who celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary Sept. 6, are living in their trailer at the Mobile Home Estates.

Ellis was a field service engineer for the aeronautical division of Curtiss-Wright Corporation. Before joining the aircraft firm, Ellis was a Navy Chief.

John Browns Find New Home in C.V.

Mr. and Mrs. John Brown and their three children are now residing in Christmas Valley after moving here from Springfield, Oregon.

John is working at Al Baert's saw-mill in Silver Lake, while his wife, Pat, is helping with the cooking at the Lodge.

The Brown's three children are their daughter Sandy, 17, and sons, John, 5, and Frankie 4.

$364 Million Potential Livestock Industry

Scientists Predict Great Economic Impact for Expanded Grain Feeding

Oregon has the potential to pick up an extra $246 million in annual state income -- if the cards fall right.

That's the judgment of men who have taken a hard look at Oregon's capacity to boost its grain feeding industries in competition with other areas.

Livestock and poultry feeding in Oregon now generates about $100 million a year in economic activity. Oregon's gain resources, coupled with West Coast markets for meat products, offer the potential for this to jump to $346 million, according to a report published by Oregon State University.

Much depends upon federally-managed grain programs that have helped create circumstances now restricting opportunity for poultry and livestock feeding in the Pacific Northwest.

Maintain Prices

Sales of government-held stocks in the Midwest and Great Plains at prices below support levels have tended to subsidize livestock and poultry feeders in that region. At the same time, government export subsidies for Pacific Northwest grains have helped maintain prices in this region above the support level.

Here in the Pacific Northwest, the situation presents what appears to be a conflict of interest between grain growers and grain feeders--at least until the full situation is understood, the OSU report points out.

Common Interests

Grain is a cash crop for some ranchers who want to sell large volume at "favorable" prices. Feed grains are a cost of doing business for livestock and poultry feeders who want to buy grains at prices "favorable" to them.

Actually, grain growers and feeders in this area have long-run, common interests that can be served by building a sound grain-feeding industry, the OSU study team believes.

Grain Feeding Opportunities

Present federal grain programs now require much of Oregon's grain land to lie idle. Future net returns to local grain growers might be about the same as at present, and even larger under certain conditions, if more acres of grain were planted and "marketed" through livestock and poultry feeding, the report indicates.

OSU staff members in animal and poultry sciences, farm crops, and agricultural economics compiled the report, "Grain Feeding Opportunities and Problems in Oregon." Oregon residents may obtain copies from local county extension offices or from the Bulletin Clerk, Oregon State University, Corvallis.

The report points out the snowballing effect on economic activity that could result from an expanded feeding industry.

$53 Million Cattle Feed

For example, cattle feeding in Oregon in 1961 generated about $53 million in economic activity. Of this amount an estimated $3 1/2 million was paid as wages and salaries in meat packing plants.

However, had the cattle feeding industry operated at full potential, it would have generated some $250 million at retail. Roughly $16 1/2 million would have been paid in wages and salaries in Oregon packing plants.

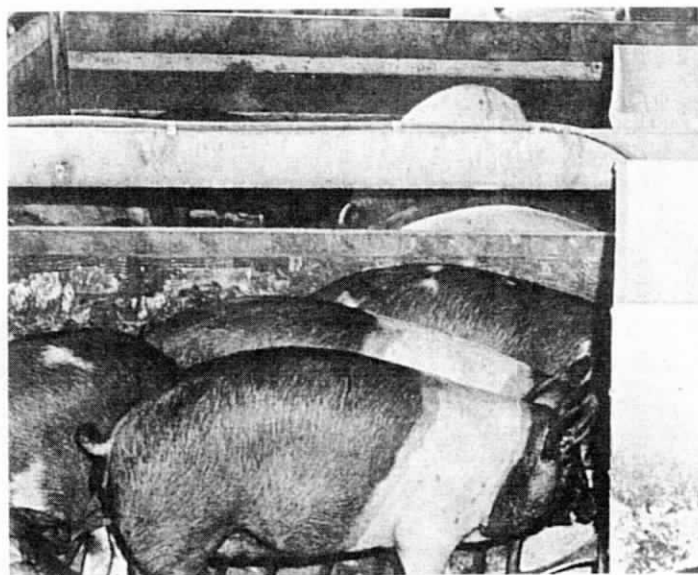

Had Oregon's pork industry produced enough meat for local market needs in 1961, it would have generated about $62 million at retail compared to its actual figure of $17 million.

$14.5 Million Broiler Industry

Oregon's broiler industry generated an estimated $14 1/2 million of income at retail in 1961 but could have hit $23 million had the state's producers supplied the local market demand.

And present opportunities barely scratch the surface of long-range potential, based on expected population increases on the West Coast by 1975, the report explains.

The Pacific Coast is expected to have a deficit of more than 2 million head of cattle and calves in 1965 and a 4 1/3 million deficit by 1975. Heavy deficits are also predicted for pork, sheep and lambs, and broilers by 1975.

PORK INDUSTRY COULD NEARLY QUADRUPLE--- Experts at Oregon State College said Oregon's pork industry could climb to $62,000,000 a year if local market needs were met. Christmas Valley farmers have shown considerable interest in pork production.

DISPLAY AT DEDICATION--An example of the variety of vegetables and grasses which are grown in Christmas Valley can be seen in this arrangement from the Painter Ranch. Assortment includes rye, corn, crested wheat, rutabaga, potatoes and beets.

Thompsons Presented with Their First Grandson

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Thompson, operators of the Christmas Valley Motel, again became grandparents when their daughter, Mrs. John Hunter of Salem, presented them with their first grandson, Brian Lynn.

Their other grandchild, 19-month Roseane Hunter, has been staying with the Thompsons.

Lodge Area, Trailer Park Get Paving

Along with many other facilities at Christmas Valley which are sporting the new bright look, the Mobile Home Estates and Own-Your-Own Trailer Site projects also got in the act.

All the streets around both these facilities have been paved with asphalt. Spruce Street, which runs on the south edge of Christmas Valley Lake also got the asphalt treatment.

The Lodge parking lot also benefited from the paving program.

The area around the trailer site also received landscaping work to beautify the area. Many trees were also planted to add to the pleasant atmosphere.

EASY ON THE BACK

Back packing in the mountains around Christmas Valley can be a lot easier on the sacroiliac if you leave cumbersome cooking utensils at home. Just bring your favorite foil, which doesn't mean your wife, in this case.

Fry pans and shallow pots are easily made by shaping the foil to suit your culinary plans.

Something Doing All The Time

NEW SPORT FOR LIVELY ONES--Water skiing in Central Oregon? Why not? The Christmas Valley Lake is plenty big for the sport. Gordon Emery is on skis while Duffy Knorr and Sue Emery pilot the boat. There is no danger to swimmers because a special section of the lake has been set aside for water skiing only.

FOUR SKATERS GET SET FOR RACE--Until this year, ice skating was unknown in these parts. But with the filling of the lake, youngsters and oldsters found a new exciting sport for the winter months. Races and skating parties are regular features here.

FINE KETTLE OF FISH--That's what the McClister and Cater families will have judging from the nice catch of trout by Johnnie McClister (left) and Mike Cater. Trout, which were planted a short time ago, have doubled in size. Several 14 and 15 inchers have been landed. The bass, blue gill and catfish, planted last month, have also survived the airlift and are growing rapidly. Fishing has been halted at the Lake in order to give the fish a chance to spawn in spring and summer. More fish will be added.

ENTHUSIASTIC KIDS CAN'T WAIT--The enterprising Knorr kids even have their own version of a fairway cart, but course superintendent Joe Ward gives them the red light signal because they tried to jump the gun before the official opening of the Christmas Valley Golf Course. Dickie, Chuckie and Tammie Knorr are the impatient golfers.

Golf Course Opening Attracts Eager Group

The Christmas Valley Golf Course opening attracted the young, not-so-young and several ladies who wanted to test the challenging 9-hole layout.

More than 40 golfers went around the course on Sept. 21, according to course superintendent Joe Ward. "And it was dark before most of them would quit," he said.

$1 For 9 Holes

Greens fees are only $1 for 9 holes. For $3 you can play all day, says Ward. Pull carts are available at reasonable costs.

The amateur course record is a fine 1-over par 37 shot by Art Pacheco. Art will be a tough customer on the links. A retired Honolulu fireman, Pacheco has won several titles including the Hawaiian championship.

45 Holes in One Day

Speaking of champions, the endurance title must go to Virgil Hall. Virgil, who just started the game, was so fascinated or disgusted that he went around the sporty course FIVE times. That's right, he played 45 holes in one day.

Duffy Knorr is another seized by the golf bug. After work he rushes to the course and hacks away. Duffy keeps a record of all his scores to check his progress.

The sporty course, which was designed by president Carlo Giuntini, measures 3405 yards but can be stretched to 3550 for tournaments. Par is 36. Shortest hole is 170 yards and the longest a back-breaking 545 yards.

BAERTS ARE A RIDING FAMILY

The Bud Baert family of Christmas Valley is made up of what you might well call "horsey" people.

Barbara, mother of three lively children and Postmaster at the Christmas Valley Post Office, owns a sorrel and white pinto mare named Ginger. Barbara trains and rides Ginger as a barrel horse, and the combination is hard to beat.

The Baert youngsters have trained their own horses and ride them constantly, except when school intervenes.

Rhonda, age 10, is the proud owner of Shadow, a little four year old pinto gelding. Cindy, age 9, is equally proud of a black mare named Sue, and Greg, age 8, brags about Spook, a four year old Pinto Welsh mare.

Spook surprised the whole Baert family by producing a cute little pinto addition to the horse population of Christmas Valley, about a month ago.

Bud Baert claims Sand, a well built three year old, half thoroughbred dun colored colt. After quite a few "arguments" with Bud, Sand is becoming a well trained horse.

Horses and horseback riding remain a popular pastime for Christmas Valleyites.

Christmas Valley Motel Hosts Younger Set

Among guests at the Christmas Valley Motel, the younger set has been enjoying the recreational facilities offered here.

Robert Heiss, 12, of Canoga Park, Calif., can really tell some big fish stories when he gets home. They're true, too. Robert caught his limit of four trout in about 15 minutes in the Christmas Valley Lake.

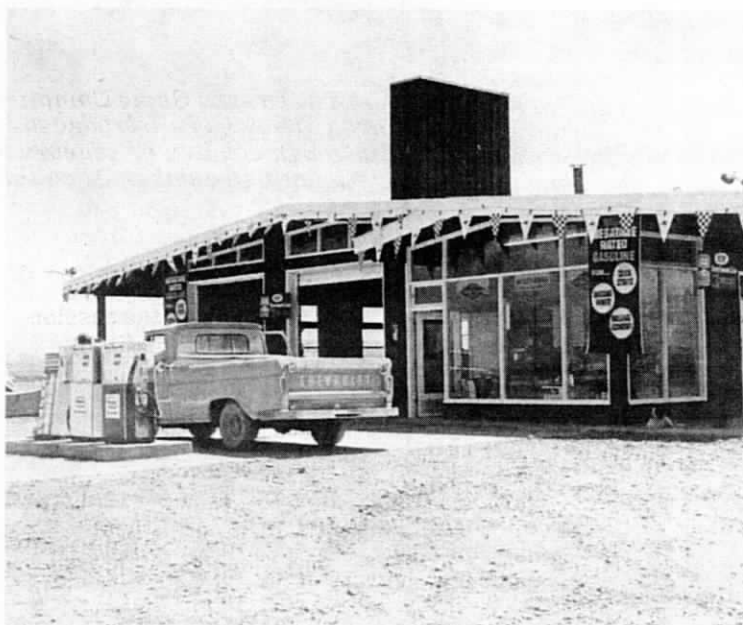

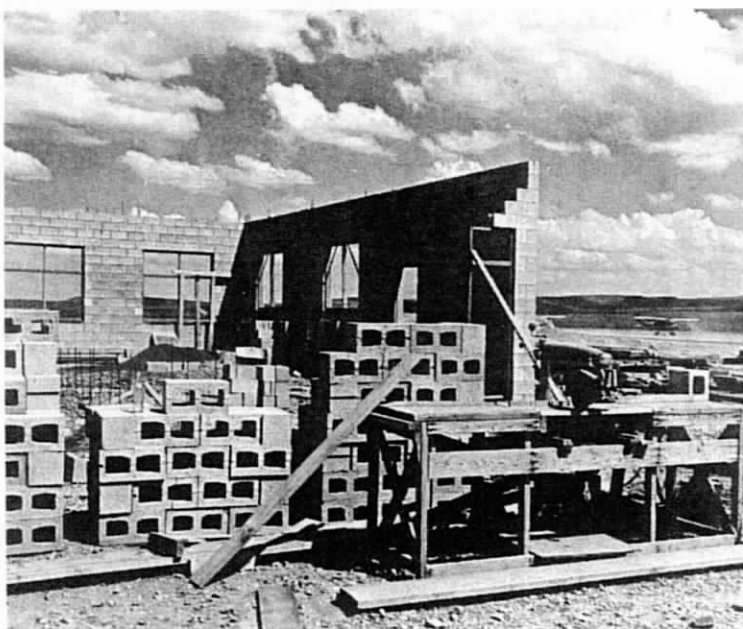

While they weren't quite as spectacular in their fishing skill, Joe Lorez, 15, and his brother, Jon, 12, did some trout fishing and horseback riding. They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Lorenz of Garden Grove, Calif.

PROPOSE WILD AREA

The U. S. Forest Service has proposed establishment of a 96,944-acre Mt. Jefferson Wild Area in the Oregon Cascades.

Besides the 10,497-ft. Mt. Jefferson, the proposed Wild Area would include nearly 100 lakes and 200 trails.

Another Example of Progress Here

Beer Tavern Due to Open

The Christmas Valley Beer Tavern is expected to be open for business by the time you read this. They're putting in the finishing touches on the interior.

Owner Chuck Banteir said the insulation work, top-out plumbing and roofing all have been completed.

Installation of the bar, coolers and other accessories is now being made, Chuck said.

Home Comes First

"I expected to be open a little sooner but I had to slow down construction of the Tavern for a very good reason. We had the builders change over and work on our house so we could move in first," explained Chuck.

Banteir and his wife, Lola, have two young daughters. The Banteirs are building a 3-bedroom Western style home near the Dude Ranch.

The Christmas Valley Beer Tavern is located on Christmas Valley Road between the Mercantile Store and the Christmas Valley Sales offices.

425 Visited Lodge in Month of Aug.

More and more people are seeing for themselves why the plush $100,000 Christmas Valley Lodge is being called the Showplace of Central Oregon.

During August, 425 visitors signed the guest register at the Lodge, raising the total to 1825 in only the last four months, according to Ed Carter, popular manager of the Lodge.

Of the 425 who visited the Lodge in August, 61 per cent were from California. Thirty-five percent were from Oregon and the remaining 4 per cent from other states.

Oregon guests represented 35 towns and cities.

SUPER SIZE RUTABAGA-- Mrs. Ellis (Carrel) Painter could use a little help to hold up the 19-lb. rutabaga she grew in their garden. Rutabaga, sometimes called the yellow turnip, is tastier and more flavorful than its white cousin, according to culinary experts.

DON'T NEED MANY OF THESE FOR A SALAD---- Rancher K. O. Buick displays the huge carrots, turnips and beets he's just picked from his garden. Great varieties of fruit and vegetables thrive exceptionally well here.

FIRST PLANE LANDS AT AIR PARK--When the M. Penn Phillips Co. plane first touched down at the newly built airport, everyone turned out to greet the visitors, including a horse and some dogs. Air Park, which can accommodate multi-engine aircraft, has handled as many as 17 planes at one time. Aviation gasoline can be purchased at nearby service station.

XMAS VALLEY POSTMARK REQUEST COMES FROM DISTANT S. WALES

Christmas Valley post office personnel can expect to be busier than they thought around Christmas time. It was expected that many property owners would send numerous letters to be postmarked Christmas Valley for greeting cards.

But now it appears Postmaster Barbara Baert can expect more business from other sources. An example was the letter she received Sept. 7 from a Mrs. D. King, who lives in Swansea, Glamorganshire, South Wales, Great Britain.

Mrs. King's overseas letter was addressed simply, "To Christmas Valley Post Office, Oregon, United States America." The letter read:

*"To The Post Office, Christmas Valley
Please will you kindly postmark the enclosed envelope with your complete postmark (Silver Lake, Oregon-Christmas Valley Rural Station) and return same so that we may have them for Christmas. Thank you very much.*

*(Signed) Mrs. D. King
I have enclosed 2 International reply coupons to cover return postage."*

Good Local Hunting Predicted for Upland game, waterfowl, deer, elk

Good upland game and waterfowl hunting is predicted for Christmas Valley property owners by that ole dead-eye, Phil Washington.

"You can bet it's going to be a great season because the ducks and geese are already coming in. And you know where they're coming? Right smack in the middle of the Christmas Valley Lake," said Phil.

Need Reservations for Motel Rooms

Attention hunters and visitors!

You should make reservations for rooms in the Christmas Valley Motel well in advance of your planned visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Thompson, proprietors of the Motel, point out that accommodations are limited, with many requests for room reservations during the long hunting season.

The Thompsons said hunters can use the Motel as a base for planning hunting trips.

For reservations write Christmas Valley Motel, Christmas Valley Rural Station, Silver Lake, Oregon, or telephone 576-2262.

LARGER BUS BOUGHT FOR SCHOOL KIDS

Because of a record enrollment of students -- three quarters of whom are from Christmas Valley -- Fort Rock school officials had to acquire a 60-passenger bus to transport the students.

Fort Rock school has a fall enrollment of 48 students, 36 of whom are from Christmas Valley.

The old bus had a capacity of 25 pupils. This is irrefutable proof of the growth of the Christmas Valley area.

"We counted about 300 various ducks and many Speckled Geese and Canadian Honkers. Of course, you can't shoot them around the Lake but there will be plenty of action down around Summer Lake, which is about 30 miles south of Christmas Valley.

Top Shooting Spot

"The Summer Lake Management Area is considered one of the top waterfowl shooting spots. Last year on opening day, for example, there were over 125,000 geese and 18,000 ducks in the Summer Lake area," said Washington.

Phil also had encouraging news for hunters thus far unable to try their luck for deer.

"There'll be better shooting late this month for deer and later for elk because the animals are still up in the hills. We've had such good rain during the spring and summer that there's still good feeding high up in the hills.

"When it gets colder and the feed runs out, they'll start coming down," Washington said 10,000 mule deer were bagged in Lake County last year.

GUSHER GETS TOP BILLING--This photo of Well No. 4, part of Christmas Valley's abundant water system, appeared on the front cover of the Central Oregon Rancher magazine. Penn Thayer, president of the Christmas Valley Mutual Water Improvement District, said the well is capable of pumping 2300 gallons of pure water a minute. Well No. 4, which is located about a mile from the Lodge in the Townsite Unit 1, was drilled to a depth of only 320 feet. It has a static level of 19 feet and a draw-down of 34 feet. The well is cased and sealed with 120 feet of 12-in. casing.
