Special Vacation Package to Highlight Easter Weekend in Christmas Valley

WINTER FISHING BETTER THAN EVER — Christmas Valley Lake proves just as productive of big trout during the cold months as it does in summer. Here Felix Wald and his partner proudly display their two limits of kamloups and rainbow trout. The rainbows, new last year, prove that they can hold their own with their bigger cousins when it comes to getting food. Or taking lures.

The modern penchant for digging up new meanings for words catches up with almost all of us, except perhaps the language purist whose talk is so correct we can't understand him at best. Anyway, one of the expressions we're confronted with now is the term "in," meaning "in style" or "in high fashion." To break your leg skiing is "in," to break it pulling a cow out of a well is, probably, way "out." Among the current "in" things to do is to spend a week or weekend in Christmas Valley.

With the highly successful summer and winter vacation plans functioning so well, it's not at all surprising that some of that vacationing should spill over into the rest of the year. There's more in this issue of the Gazette about the Easter Special, which is another bargain in vacations that just shouldn't be passed up, but the big point is that the people who live in Christmas Valley all year know how great it is, not just in sum-

U-Finish Model Offering Draws Interested Customers

The first announcement of the Penn Phillips Company's story-and-a-half, U-Finish home brought a gratifying number of seriously interested queries. Any one who has followed building costs must realize that the price of just $4990 for a "move-in-able" home is a first class bargain. Thirty-eight people saw the announcement in the Gazette and sat right down to find out more.

As delivered by the Penn Phillips contractor to the home owner, the specifications call for the house to have a concrete floor, complete framing and insulation, complete roofing, complete exterior of waterproof plywood, the windows, all outside doors, stain trim and siding, the rough plumbing — consisting of complete waste line to outside, the gas lines and hot and cold water lines, and the rough wiring, with meter loop and service head.

Financing

In addition to offering the ready-to-go house, the Phillips Company will handle the financing, with a contract calling for 20 per cent down and the balance, including interest, payable at $40 a month.

Normal construction time is about 90 days — which means that there can be a lot of new neighbors in the Valley when the first of the summer's exciting events takes place, in June.

With such a weather-proof building to work on, even a slow handyman could finish the house of his liking before winter sets in.

Property owners interested in the building opportunity should write to Penn Phillips Lands, Inc., 742 N. Loren, Azusa, California 91702.

LADIES' CLUB HELPS FIREMEN

Those tireless workers, the Christmas Valley Ladies' Club, combined their talents and energies again for the benefit of the Christmas Valley Fire Department's Building Fund. Terming the affair a "dime a dip" pot luck dinner, they presented another bonus affair for those who attended. Mention a worth while cause and the busiest, friendliest women in the valley will put on a benefit for it!

Special Easter Services will be held at the Christmas Valley Community Church On Sunday, March 26th, at 11:00 A.M.

Four Day Plan Promises Rest, Relaxation for Lucky Visitors

Taking cognizance of that fact that many people use the Easter time weekend as a "breather" during the long haul from Christmas until summer, the Penn Phillips Company is making available an attractive four-day, three-night vacation plan from Thursday, March 23 until Easter Sunday, March 26th.

Easter Service

A very special Easter Sunday service will be held at the Christmas Valley Community Church at 11:00.

"We're pleased that more people are visiting Christmas Valley in the off season," said Penn Thayer, Vice-President of the Phillips Company, "and since this is a long weekend for most people, we're offering a vacation bargain that could only be called another 'Phillips Special.'"

"For four days and three nights — Thursday until Sunday evening, March 26th, a property-owning couple can have double occupancy of a fine motel room, their food, golf, fishing, other recreation and evening entertainment, for just $50. Anyone who has enjoyed the superb meals the Lodge is famous for knows that this just has to be a real bargain."

Fish Galore

Fishing in Christmas Valley Lake has held up splendidly throughout the winter, with the trout coming in whopping size and limit numbers. Since there will be a prize offered for the largest fish, visitors are urged to bring their rods.

Prizes

Other events will earn prizes throughout the weekend. For those good and would-be-good golfers, in addition to play on the exciting nine hole course, there will be awards made in a putting contest and a very special prize in a Hole-in-One contest. This, as any golfer will carefully explain, is really open to anyone, whether he knows which end of the club to hold or not. To get on a green in one takes some skill: to drop

FELIX WALD TRIES TO match the size of his fish with his grin. And any angler who has longed for a whopper like this trout would agree. "Well done." And quickly ask: Where? Why, Christmas Valley Lake, of course.

Scholarships Available To 4-H Members

The National Awards program is for club members 15 years and older who have completed three or more years of club, reports Dean Wimer, County Extension Agent.

ever it is at the end of his line, kamloups or rainbow, it's going to be a trout worth taking.

Winter Too

The new Winter Holiday Vacation Plan, which starts with the duck season and ends after the first of the year, will also be offered this year. As in the case of the golf course, as the private duck ponds age and improve, so will the hunting. The proximity of deer, upland game or waterfowl makes the late season holiday plan a very attractive one for the sportsman — and his wife.

Look Ahead

As more people learn of the vacation bargains, available space will become a problem. If you plan a Christmas Valley vacation this year, it is not too early, either, to write to Christmas Valley and ask that your name be put on the reservation list.

Hatchery Eggs Promise Fish

Fall egg-take at Game Commission fish hatcheries yielded around 19 million eggs from spring chinook, fall chinook, Atlantic salmon, brook trout and fall spawning rainbows. Spring egg-taking operations will start in the near future. Expected production for 1967 is in excess of 22 million game fish of all species.

PENN POINTS

mer or winter, but in all seasons. And it's gratifying to note that not only more out-of-state people are registering at the Lodge, but Oregon folks are finding out about our valley as well.

I saw an item in the paper the other day to the effect that there were more Californians in Oregon last year than Oregonians! We've some 1,999,780 state residents and of the more than 6½ million visitors last year over 2,800,000 of them were from California. And what's even better than showing off our wonder state is that those visitors left some $252 million dollars behind! Some of those six million plus visitors came here, to Christmas Valley. When we realize we're in a prime spot as a recreational center, with fishing, golfing, skiing, riding, hiking — all the outdoor sports — to offer, it behooves us to coax more of those visitors to come here, and to stay longer.

Advertising will bring people — once. How long they stay and whether they return or not is dependent upon the time they have and the reception they receive. Right now Christmas Valley is known as one of the friendliest spots in Oregon. Repeatedly we find comments in the Lodge Register to the effect that the writers "had a wonderful time," "the best fishing, the best food, "the nicest waitress," "most helpful," "lots of fun and we'll come again." That's the sort of comment any organization likes to hear. And really, most of comment stem from the fact that the writer ran into a ready smile. Which also reminds me: did you know a smile requires the work of only 16 muscles, but it takes 54 muscles to make a frown? That's one of those useless bits of knowledge you pick up as you go along, but it does make you think, doesn't it?

It would be pretty silly of us, here in Christmas Valley, not to capitalize on the growing demand for recreation. In this jet age more people with more time are crowding into recreational areas that are shrinking daily. We've got the land, and clean air, and a fine community spirit in our growing population — if we fail to turn it to our advantage it will be our own fault. Regardless of what our occupation is, we all ought to "think" recreation. It's something a lot of property owners didn't consider when they bought here, but it's probably going to prove to be the biggest bonus they could imagine.

There are a number of owners who haven't yet visited Christmas Valley. Why not make this the year? Join the "in" crowd. You may not make a hole-in-one or even break par on the golf course, but I'll bet if you've got a hook on your line, whether a beginner or expert, you'll catch fish in Christmas Valley Lake. See you soon?

CONNIE AND AL BAERT CUT the handsome cake which symbolized the 40th anniversary of their wedding. A well kept secret, the open house party at the Lodge drew most of the Christmas Valley residents to wish them continued happiness.

Golf Course Attracts Players

One of the pleasant signs of the acceptance of Christmas Valley as a recreation center is the increased use of the golf course by members from other clubs.

Groups of players from distant clubs are discovering that a weekend at Christmas Valley can be a very pleasant thing. The practice is growing even in the so-called "off season", which means that come summer, the course will sustain a high rate of play, with weekend activity constant.

One thing is certain: pros who make the tours will be dropping in for a whack at the course before the big Pro-Am tournament. Most courses seem to roll over and play dead for the long-hitting, accurate-putting professionals — but not Christmas Valley. In three years of tournament only seven players have bettered the par 72 rating.

High or low handicap, the players always get a run for their money on this course.

FOUR-DAY PLAN PROMISES REST & RECREATION FOR LUCKY VISITORS

For those who like to throw things there will be a Horseshoe Pitching contest and for those who don't like to throw things there will also be horseshoes available — with the horse in them — for trail riding.

Social Events

On Friday night there will be an appropriate movie shown: "The Singing Nun," featuring Debbie Reynolds and Greer Garson. Everyone, of course, is invited to attend.

On Saturday night there will be one of the always-successful Social Hours at the Lodge, preceeding dinner. Later in the evening there will be a dance, with door prizes to be given to the lucky ticket holders.

"We've considered the children, too," added Mr. Thayer. "Our special egg-producing bunnies promise them an exciting egg hunt on Easter morning." Sunday dinner at the Lodge

Baerts Surprised On 40th Anniversary

A surprise open house party in honor of the 40th wedding anniversary of Project Manager Al Baert and his wife Connie, was held at Christmas Valley Lodge on Sunday afternoon, February 19th.

A large decorated cake was prepared by the Lodge personnel and served with punch and sandwiches to the many well wishers who dropped in during the open house hours.

Family Here

In addition to the Valley residents, other celebrants were the Baert's three children and eight grandchildren who had assembled for the momentous weekend.

Among the gifts presented to the well known couple were a number of albums for their stereo phonograph.

Al and Connie moved to Central Oregon from Canon City, Colorado, in 1942. In the intervening 25 years, Al has been engaged, principally, in the lumber business. The Gazette wishes to join in the congratulations to this popular pair who have done much to stimulate the wonderful Christmas Valley spirit.

will follow the Easter Services at the Community Church.

Reservations

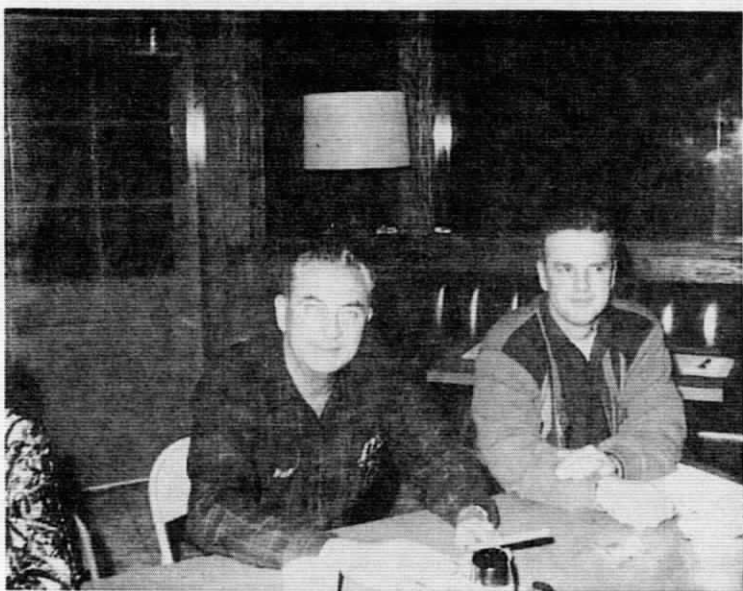

Since this four day vacation package is also being made available to non-property owners — at a cost of $66 per couple — it is urged that everyone interested make his reservations as quickly as possible. Remember, for property owners it's just $50 for two, for others it's $66.

For reservations write: Christmas Valley Lodge, Christmas Valley, Oregon 97638 — or better yet, phone them at 1-503-576-22-2.

G. R. BOATWRIGHT, of Ft. Rock, addresses the Chamber of Commerce gathering on the subject of roads and their improvement. The well-attended meeting provoked lively discussions.

LISTENING ATTENTIVELY TO THE SPEAKERS are Ed Eskelin and his son, of Ft. Rock; Rube Long, also Ft. Rock, and Frank Anderson, representing Viewpoint Ranches.

ATTENDING THE CHAMBER MEETING were young Don Salsbury, his father, Gordon Goeres and Mrs. Salsbury.

Shriners and Masons Find Lodge Beautiful

The Shriners and Master Masons of Lakeview, Paisley, Summer Lake, Silver Lake and Christmas Valley selected February 10th as the date for a joint dinner meeting at Christmas Valley Lodge. Meeting at the Lodge for the first time, the group had a wonderful time.

Bus In

Twenty-six of the group came in a private bus and everyone not only found the comfortable Lodge attractive, but thoroughly enjoyed the social hour and the steak barbecue presided over by "Atch" Atchison. The balance of the evening was devoted to cards and when it came to a late conclusion the most frequent comment was: "Let's come back to Christmas Valley often!"

First Chamber Meeting Of 1967 Well Attended

By Helen Byam, Sec'y C of C

The first meeting of the Christmas Valley Chamber of Commerce was held at the Lodge in late January. Mel Brown, President, presided at the meeting which was very well attended by members of the Ft. Rock Grange and Christmas Valley residents.

Speakers

First to address the group was Mr. Max Bruce, District Manager of the Lakeview District of the Bureau of Land Management. He gave an informative talk on the Public Land Law, Public Sale Act, and the zoning areas on sale of public lands in Lake County.

Following Mr. Bruce was G.R. Boatwright of Ft. Rock, who talked about improving the roads in general in this part of Lake County, and explained a long-range program for improvement in the northern portion of the county. At his suggestion a committee was appointed to probe further into the matter of road improvement. The committee consists of Frank Anderson of Viewpoint Ranches, G.R. Boatwright of Ft. Rock and Jack Gillette, Al Baert, Mel Brown and Gordon Goeres of Christmas Valley.

T.V. Okay Waits

Floyd Olander gave a resume of the work of the Christmas Valley T.V. program. All that is lacking is the final authorization of the F.C.C., a situation that has existed for too many months.

Brown Reports

President Brown related the excellent work done in behalf of Christmas Valley residents by the Silver Lake Disaster Unit whose Ambulance Car has made a number of emergency runs for the valley. He also announced the plans for the White Elephant Bingo Benefit which is reported on in this issue of the Gazette.

Mr. Brown plans to do some travelling in the near future, speaking before various groups, extolling the benefits to be derived from a Christmas Valley vacation.

Power Intertie Plan Explained

During the past several years much has been said about the Pacific Northwest-Southwest Intertie lines. A further explanation is set forth in the booklet "The Population Challenge", printed by the Department of the Interior.

Most Important

The article says "the most important achievement in the history of electric power development in the United States, the Pacific Northwest-Southwest Intertie will join electric systems, public and private, from Seattle to Los Angeles and Phoenix".

World's Longest

The article goes on to say that the four transmission lines reaching from the Federal power plants on the Columbia River in Washington and Oregon to terminals in California and Arizona will comprise the backbone of this epoch-making intertie. Two of these will be high-voltage, direct-current lines, America's first and the world's longest.

11 States

Delivering power to users in 11 Western States, the Intertie not only will permit surplus

Recreation District Re-Elects Byam

The Christmas Valley Recreation District held its annual election at the Lodge on Tuesday, January 17, 1967. Re-elected to the Board of Directors was Mrs. Gordon (Betty) Goeres, whose term had expired. She will serve an additional three years.

Among the defeated contestants, who gallantly cheered Betty's re-election, were Floyd Olander, Jerry Emery and Wesley Ladbury.

With the addition of Mrs. Goeres, the full Board of Directors is now composed of Bob Byam, John Pettus, Mel Brown, Al Baert and, of course, Betty Goeres.

Northwest secondary power (power available only during part of the year) to be sold in California and the Southwest, but also will make possible exchanges of Northwest summertime surplus peaking capacity for Southwest wintertime surplus peaking capacity, with resultant substantial savings for both regions in power plant investment.

One of those first two Direct Current lines will soon be installed 25 miles east of Christmas Valley, probably about June, according to Mr. Virgil Pace, Superintendent for the Power City Construction Company. His crews are now working chiefly on the Portland General Electric lines which parallel the intertie just built. Their present location is between Millican and the Rube Long ranch.

With the footings essentially complete, the workmen are now assembling and erecting the steel towers. While the snow is about a foot deep in the area, a few miles from Malin, the cold weather has not held up the winter's work to any extent.

Valley Next

The work crews will again be back to make Christmas Valley their headquarters in about three weeks. Fifty or more men will stay three or four weeks, then move to another location until they return to Christmas Valley later in the spring.

Grasshoppers Spin Wheels On Valentine Weekend

Forty grasshoppers — the two wheeled kind — plus families, made the Valentine weekend a special one by visiting Christmas Valley. The group — actually the Grasshopper Club of Springfield, Oregon — brought their motorcycles and thoroughly enjoyed themselves on the trails and over the dunes. It was a chilly weekend, but the glowing fireplace at the Lodge, thawed them out between rides — and the excellent meals filled the voids that were packed down by the hard riding.

Ambulance Bingo Benefit Successful

A Bingo party was staged on February 11th for the benefit of the Silver Lake Ambulance Car. The successful event collected a total of $104.00 for the organization which has on a number of occasions come to Christmas Valley to transport the ill or accident victims to hospitals in Bend or Lakeview.

The fine turn-out once again demonstrated the community spirit that marks Christmas Valley as some place special. The Wes Ladbury's donated the use of the Recreation Building and the Lodge furnished sandwiches and coffee. The games were conducted in gay, breezy style by Wes Ladbury and Atch Atchison.

Prizes consisted of White Elephants — which added to the hilarity of the evening because some winners found they hadn't given away their "dogs" after all.

Midstate Clinic Handles Irrigation Problems

The irrigation clinic offered by Midstate Electric Cooperative in late January drew more than 60 interested agriculturists when it met at Christmas Valley Lodge. In the discussion panels six acknowledged experts offered answers to practical problems. The morning and afternoon sessions were separated by a special luncheon served by the Lodge staff.

Hints

One of the speakers, Professor Marvin Shearer, irrigation specialist from Oregon State University, even presented a business opportunity to the listeners. Professor Shearer said that one of the most useful tools for proper design of irrigation systems had recently been invented: an "evaporation pan" which accurately measures the amount of water taken from irrigated soil by crops. He said the pan should be easy to make and there should be a substantial demand for it, but that no one is now making it. Anyone interested was urged to write or call Prof. Shearer or his colleague, Professor John Wolfe, the inventor, at OSU in Corvallis.

Suggestions

Also offered was a free publication giving answers to many growers irrigation problems. The booklet, entitled "Sprinkler Irrigation in the Pacific Northwest — A Trouble-shooter's guide" was passed out among the audience. More copies are available by writing the OSU extension service.

During the luncheon break one Midstate manager who operates a large livestock ranch made a comment that showed a appreciation for the efforts put forth by the co-operative. He said: "In the 10 years I've been here every single operating expense we've had has skyrocketed — except one. Electric pumping power cost is the only thing that has dropped. That new pumping rate the co-op put in is going to save us thousands of dollars and can make a great difference in what we do."

Seminars such as this one are of a great benefit to growers — not only do they get professional suggestions, but they have the opportunity of exchanging ideas with other agriculturists who have the same home-grown problems they do. Christmas Valley, with its reputation for friendly helpfulness, was a happy choice for the clinic.

THE STANLEY HALEY HOUSE nears completion. The large house, 3200 square feet, features the attractive ranch style. With five acres of their own to roam over, the four Stanley children will have a ball. Owen Holmes is general contractor with Bob Byam supplying the plumbing.

Haley Home Nears Completion

The newest house being built in Christmas Valley is rapidly approaching the move-in state for the excited Stanley Haley family. With a whopping 3200 square feet of floor space, the house matches in size the five acre plot of surrounding land near the Christmas Valley town-site.

Stan Haley is a Warrant Officer in the U.S. Navy and has five more years of service before retirement. But the rest of the family, wife Sandra and four children, have already taken up temporary quarters in the Valley.

In School

The two older Haley children,

Stewart, 8½ and Scott, 7, are already attending Christmas Valley school and the younger ones, Sherry, 6 and Skipper, 4, are looking forward to joining their older brothers soon.

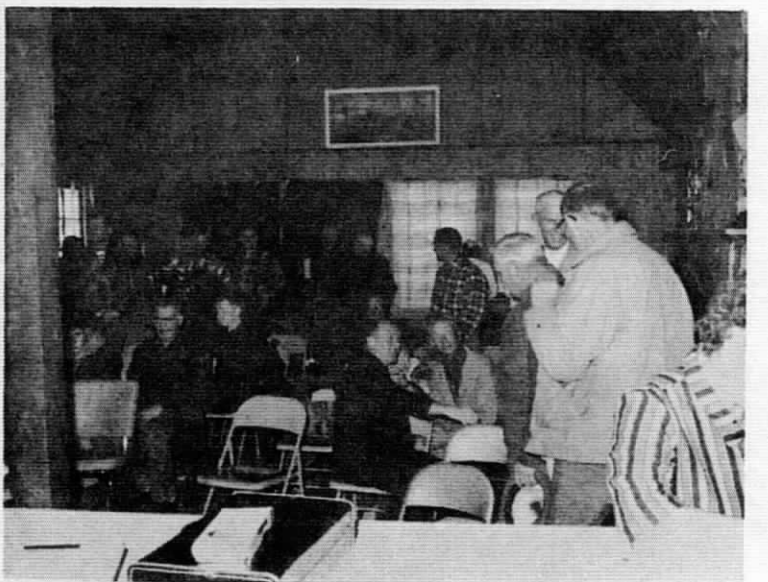

Anchored

Like most service families, the Haley's have lived in many cities and countries. Scott, for instance, was born in Okinawa. But when the time came to finally drop anchor, the Haleys left their last residence, in California, to settle in at Christmas Valley.

What better plug for the valley than to have these newcomers, who've been everywhere and seen everything, select Christmas Valley for their home port?

SPECIAL LUNCHEON FOR MIDSTATE clinic filled the Lodge dining room. Growers and their wives found the day-long session of great value.

REST PERIOD DURING MEETING gave the audience a chance to exchange ideas and go more deeply into practical solutions offered by the expert panel.
