Letter asks for Correspondents

The Desert Whispers received the following letter:

"I'm wondering if there is a farm (or ranch) family in your area, who'd like to exchange letters with us? We have a 220 acre dairy farm in eastern Wisconsin, and find it interesting to correspond with people of similar interests in different parts of the world.

Runners up for honorable mention receiving $2.00 each were: Lisa Prom - 5th grade; Cindy Audiss and Drew Dutcher - 6th grade; Greg Johnson and Wendy Rider, 7th graders shared their winnings from a co-effort writing.

Judges for the original creations were Mrs. Della Mae Lowe and Mrs. Pat Patla.

FIRST PRIZE ESSAY "IF I WERE PRESIDENT"

IF I WERE PRESIDENT by Grant Johnstone

If I were president I would like in California in the white house. I would have a lot of responsibilities.

The gas prices might be high when I am president. So I might lower the price of gas by finding more oil wells in the United States.

Some people might need education. So I would give them education. Asia might need food so I would give it to them and other countries.

Inflation might go down if I were president. I would try to give more jobs by building more buildings. I would make new laws and balance taxes.

Presidents usually try to end wars. And also try to keep peace. I would try to build more airplanes. Because if we didn't have airplanes we would probably lose the war if there was one.

FIRST PRIZE ESSAY "FAMOUS AMERICANS"

LOU GEHRIG IRON MAN OF BASEBALL by Laura Johnson

There was a baseball team in New York City. The only people that knew about it was the team. One day Lou saw the team playing, he walked over and asked if he could play but all there was you have to have a mitt. So when he got a mitt he went to the same place and showed them the mitt. They let him play. He didn't care what his pants looked like, he just wanted to play baseball. When it came time for him to go to high school he had really short pants. When he went in the class room they all laughed at him. One day he got asked to play on a base ball team. Of course he took the job because his mother couldn't work and his father had poor health. He earned enough money to feed his family but not enough to support. All that he was doing was setting on the Bench. He talked to the coach about it and the coach told him to either shut-up or turn in his suit. So Lou turned in his suit. He got a job at a rich ladys house cleaning. When he had enough money he got him some long pants. One day he got asked to be on the New York Yankees. He took the job. He earned enough to give his mother half at least. One day as he was sitting on the bench one of the players got hurt, So Lou got to take the mans place on first base and the man was off the team because he was hurt to bad. Soon Lou was as good as the rest but he wanted to be better so he came to practices early and stayed later. One day as he was playing another team when he was batting he hitt it past the park fence.

One day he met a girl named Eleonor. They got married. After they got married about 8 days later Miller Huggins died he was his coach. In September Miller Huggins became ill. He went to the Hospital. A few days later he died. Lou wasn't to happy because they had another coach which he hated. Lou was the best one on the team and he kept getting hurt. Finally one day Lou was to sore to even hold the bat so benched himself. He quiet because he had a disease and he didn't have much time to live he had a party and most of his friends weirn't there when they all came he was happy. One day his wife came to wake him and he looked as if he were in a coma so she called his friends. He raised his head and he layed back down and died.

Unusual Visitors Travel Thru S.L.

Monday, March 8, Silver Lake was visited by a group of people heading through town to continue on their trek of traveling 48 states. (Which one man said would probably take them ten years.) When funds get low they stop and find work until they have money to start again. Their trip originated from Olympia, Wa. in October.

What was different about these people that caught everyone's attention? Instead of cars they were traveling in wagons each drawn by four sturdy work horses. One wagon was a converted trailer and the other they had "built from the ground up". They stopped at the store for provisions, then with the crack of a whip they went on through town.

On March 16 the Fort Rock Grange sponsored a candidates night for those running for the school board of North Lake School District #14. Both Education Service District candidates were present. Only 2 school board candidates failed to appear.

Some questions were directed at an individual candidate and then only he answered.

The evening was reported by those attending to be a success and a help in deciding how to vote.

Surprise Prize Won

"It could only happen in Christmas Valley!" says Loretta Stewart. It seems she and her husband, Art, went to a pinochle party at the Al and Linda Moore home a couple weekends ago. A ceramic bird went around to represent the "traveling" prize. Whenever someone got a double pinochle, they could claim it.

At the end of the evening, however, the final recipient said he would pass on the prize. A drawing for it then took place and Loretta's name was drawn.

To her utter amazement, they led her "prize" in on a string. It was a full grown black chicken. It promptly made a deposit on the beautiful carpet to the hilarity of of everyone present with the possible exception of the Foxes, who donated it and the Moores.

Loretta says she has the last laugh though. "The next day it presented me with a bonus, a turquoise egg. It has been laying me Easter eggs ever since!"

Easter Egg Hunt Scheduled April 10

On April 10, at 1:00 P.M. at the Lodge and Golf Course, the Boosters will hold their annual Easter egg hunt.

Hopefully the weather will cooperate! It was requested that it be held the day before Easter this year. It is hoped this is agreeable to all. The club would appreciate donations of eggs for the affair. They may be left at Lois Branchley's mobile home, one block north of the Community Hall.

E.M.T.'s Buy Jackets

The Christmas Valley ambulance had only one run this period. The EMTs made several runs in their own rigs.

With some of the money earned from the EMT Sweetheart Ball, the Christmas Valley EMTs are buying jackets identifying them as Christmas Valley EMTs. We are proud of our group and feel the community wants us identified, according to EMT Sue Johnson.

You Bought PIERCE. You Bought The Best.

You looked over the competition... then came back to us. You liked that Pierce Circle-Master center pivot. Both you and your wife felt good about the deal we offered and the services we provide. After all, Pierce has been making irrigation equipment for over half a century now. And that long list of available nozzles, automatic controls, safety features, sizes and low-pressure options lets us set up a Pierce Circle-Master right for your field, crop and water needs.

Pierce's tough, smooth epoxy coating on trusses, towers and pipes resists corrosion... helps you produce more per acre for less. Heat-fused epoxy is a Pierce exclusive. It keeps our systems looking better, running better years longer. The slick epoxy surface inside the pipe reduces friction losses and pumping requirements. With Pierce Circle-Master, you can save on initial costs and on yearly operating expenses.

Keep yields up, costs down year after year. Uniform and timely irrigation can make even your good years better. What's more, Circle-Master's easy operation and low maintenance just might give you extra time to appreciate the other good things in your life.

Drop in and visit today. See how the Pierce pivot is built better from the inside out—for those who appreciate the best.
