5th Annual Winter Doldrums Arts & Crafts Show

It's mid-winter now. The festivities of Christmas and other holidays are behind us. With spring still weeks and weeks away, the short cold days and long colder nights are the norm. With seemingly no local escape, the Friends of the Christmas Valley Library invite you to their annual WINTER DOLDRUMS ARTS & CRAFTS SHOW!

Now in its 5th year, the Arts & Crafts show features drawings, paintings, photography, writing, needlework and other crafts from local artists. The public is invited to attend and cast their votes in multiple categories.

It is Time For an Old Fashioned Barn Raising!

It could be done! We are seeking volunteers to bring back the community togetherness of fixing whatever needs done for whomever needs it. It will be just like an old fashioned barn raising, people helping people to enhance our town and the morale of our community.

There are many people in this town-site who have had hard times happen to them. We would like to start a movement, to help those in need. We already have eight people who are willing to give of their time starting in May 2016 helping to repair a house from a fire. There are 3 children and 2 adults trying to live in a fifth wheel. They have been trying to get the house re-established with what they have and no help. Money is slim, materials are slim, as I'm sure there are a lot of

To The Editor: "I decided SP is not for Everyone."

I had an eye appointment in Bend. My regular driver fell ill. I called Special Transportation for a ride. Dispatch said they had a driver who would take me in, however, no room for dog food, and they would not pick me up on Bowens Lane. The driver did not want to wreck their vehicle. I would have to drive to meet them at CV Highway and Oil Dri Rd. Coming home they would dump me off where I met them. I said I could meet on CV Highway going in however, coming back I would be unable to see.

Dispatch: "Could you have someone meet you where our driver dumped you off?" Then drive me home over the same road too hazardous for their driver, pick me up the next day, assuming I was able to see, take me back to the place I was dumped the night before.

If the assigned driver didn't want to wreck their vehicle that's fine. If all they could do was to dump me into a hazardous situation, they should bow out. I didn't know if I could make arrangements on very short notice to be taken safely home. I did not have access to PS's pool of drivers. Only Dispatch is allowed to call any of them. I was afraid to be stranded 15 miles from home, on a cold winters night unable to feed my dogs and unable to see the road.

I thought the best way for everyone was to reschedule my appointment. When my reappoint was scheduled a different driver would not be afraid to drive over Bowens Lane. And in the end I would be delivered safely home.

After my new appointment was established I recontacted SP. Dispatch asked, "You won't back out again this time?" The same driver was still front and center.

However they had compromised. They would pick me up along the edge of a paved road. And dump me off there. I then would be only ten miles from home, however, still blind. Dispatch said they would try to find a different driver. However, they did not think it would be possible.

After my previous appointment I did not recover my vision for three days and an additional two trips to the doctor. It would be very difficult to negotiate from the edge of payment so far from home, unable to see and unable to care for my animals. I decided that SP was not for everyone. I called SP left a message: "Found someone to take me in." I didn't want them to spend any more time on my behalf.

The new driver safely drove down Bowens Lane. Met me at my house on time. I gave him the hundred dollars. And we were off to see the doctor who was wont to save my eye. On the way home we stopped at BiMart. We drove safely up Bowens Lane, met by tail wagging dogs. I fed them abundantly from the cans and cases bags and boxes I brought with me. I spent the night in my warm camper, atop my soft bed.

A hundred dollars well spent!

I wrote this for those who might not be able to hire someone to take them to their doctor.

A New Year's Wish and an Invitation

By Rev Devon J. Noll

As I sit here today, I have read the lead article in the Desert Whispers January 15th edition. It has caused me to consider how I wanted to spend the year since I now own my home free and clear and will not be leaving Christmas Valley anytime soon. I realized that after years of being on the receiving end of lies and rumors started by one or two people with personal problems of their own, that forgiveness must be my choice for this year. So, I forgive these people and I will continue to forgive them as the rest of the years pass if they continue, because even my attorney believes that they will not stop no matter what I say or do.

I also decided that in a town where the religion and politics of people seem to drive wedges faster than they heal a wound, that perhaps a healthy dose of tolerance was needed as well. The Desert Whisper also included a letter to the Editor and a short piece from the Fort Rock Homestead Museum about religious tolerance. We are seeing now in our political arena the kind of intolerance towards Muslims, as well as immigrants and African-Americans, which should make all of us hold our heads down in shame when we do not speak out and demand that it stop. Even the British Parliament took aim at one of our presidential candidates, ridiculing him for his hateful rhetoric and debating whether to bar him from their country. Our politicians are making us targets, not just of extremists from the Middle East, but from every nation on this planet, even our allies.

We are a nation that has welcomed people regardless of religion, race, ethnicity, gender, sexual orientation, and age to our shores for over 200 years. We were founded on that principle that all people were created equal with certain rights, including the right to worship as we see fit. We now see in the media the blaming of one religion and one group of people for the actions of people over whom they have absolutely no control and whose interpretation of their faith they have repeatedly and very publicly rejected. We show intolerance towards people based on the interpretation of one faith by one sector within that faith (because not all Christians believe the way that Evangelicals interpret the Bible), and politicians who want to turn us against each other so that they can insure votes. This is both wrong and anti-American. It is also dangerous.

We allow ignorance to color our actions and our words, rather than practicing tolerance and learning about those who follow a different faith. Ironically, if you actually read the Qur'an, you would learn that they follow the Ten Commandments, define living a righteous life the same way that Jesus does in Matthew, describe the struggle between good and evil as a personal one, not a political one, and who worship the same God as the Jews and the Christians do. (By the way, Allah is just the Arabic word for God – the God of Abraham, Moses, Jesus, and Mohammed, not some alternative deity that many have told you from the pulpits of churches across this nation and in the media.)

So I would like to suggest tolerance to go along with the forgiveness. These two virtues go hand-in-hand towards creating a healthy society, one where the freedoms we all enjoy can continue to allow our nation to grow and live peacefully in this world. And yes, we all enjoy them and no one is trying to take any freedoms away from any Christians or gun owners legally or otherwise in this nation, contrary to what many people have told you.

To that end, I am starting a non-profit foundation called The Grain of Mustard Foundation that will work to create paths to learning so that tolerance and forgiveness can grow here. Anyone who would be interested in working with me on this project, can join me in the next few months to plan projects that can be done at our homes, such as planting gardens, growing and processing food while teaching others

Phone Tree - Being Prepared for the Unexpected

For anyone and everyone in the Christmas Valley/Silver Lake/Fort Rock areas, this is your invitation to be an active participant in a Phone Tree.

Recent events outside the community of Burns have shown that interesting things can happen near to us. They are not always 1000 miles away!

In the event of a local special event this Phone Tree would enable our community to quickly and efficiently respond. Here are a few theoretical events that might activate the phone tree.

(In no particular order)

- A truck wreck that leaves perishable product/produce abandoned alongside a road.
- A brush fire.
- A house fire – to fight it or help with supplies afterward.
- A big storm that traps people.
- An Amber Alert.

The list goes on and on: A cattle stampede. A zombie attack. Perhaps Uncle Bill forgot to take his medication and has wandered off. Use your own imagination.

There is no cost to join – just a willingness to call 3 or 4 people. Only you can decide if you wanted to, or were able to participate in the "event". But you would need to make the commitment to call "your" people, even when it is not easy or convenient.

Once set up, there would be a test run every six months.

To participate, contact Terry Barlow at terry.barlow54@gmail.com or write to PO Box 147, Christmas Valley Oregon. As last resort call 541-576-4280. With my poor hearing I do not want to misspell a name or transpose a phone number.

Back in Thyme Herbals: Herbs Defined By Linda McCoslin

I want to thank the people who have stopped me around town and thanked me for the definitions in the last few articles. It always helps to know what the terminology of some of the words I use means.

AROMATIC describes herbs that have a strong and often pleasant odor and can stimulate the digestive system. They are often used to add aroma and taste to other medicines. Examples of aromatic herbs: Angelica, Aniseed, Balm, Basil, Caraway, Cardamon, Celery, Chamomile, Cinnamon, Cloves, Coriander, Dill, Fennel, Hyssop, Ginger, Meadowsweet, Pennyroyal, Peppermint (most mints), Rosemary, Valerian, and Wood Betony.

An ASTRINGENT contracts tissue by precipitating proteins and can thus reduce secretions and discharges. They contain tannins. Astringents include: Agrimony, Avens, Blackberry, Beth Root, Bistort, Black Catechu, Bugleweed, Cranesbill, Elecampane, Eyebright, Golden Rod, Ground Ivy, Kola, Lungwort, Meadowsweet, Mouse Ear, Mullein, Oak Bark, Periwinkle, Pilewort, Plantain, Ragwort, Rhasberry, Red Sage, Rhubarb Root, Rosemary, Slippery Elm, St. Johns Wort, Tormentil, Wild Cherry, Witch Hazel, and Yarrow.

BITTERS, in addition to tasting bitter, act as stimulating tonics for the digestive system through, a reflex via the tastebuds. Bitters include: Barberry, Boneset, Chamomile, Centaury, Gentian, Goldenseal, Hops, Rue, Southernwood, Tansy, White Horehound, and Wormwood.

CARDIAC TONIC affects the heart. Their specific functions should be checked out per herb. Cardiac Tonics include: Broom, Bugleweed, Cayenne, Hawthorn, Lily of The Valley, Motherwort, and Night Blooming Cereus.

Rich in volatile oils, CARMINATIVES stimulate the peristalsis of the digestive system and relax the stomach, thereby supporting the digestion and helping against gas in the digestive tract. Carminatives include: Angelica, Aniseed, Balm, Caraway, Cardamom, Cayenne, Cinnamon, Chamomile, Coriander, Dill, Fennel, Galangal, Garlic, Ginger, Hyssop, Juniper, Mustard, Peppermint, Sage, Thyme, and Valerian.

CHOLAGOGUE stimulates the release and secretion of bile from the gall bladder which can be a marked benefit in gall bladder problems. They also have a laxative effect on the digestive system since the amount of bile in the duodenum increases when one takes them, and bile is our internally produced, all natural laxative. Balmony, Barberry, Black Root, Blue Flag, Boldo, Dandelion, Fringetree, Fumitory, Gentian, Goldenseal, Mountain Grape, Wahoo, and Wild Yam are all Cholagogue herbs.

DEMULCENT describes an herb usually rich in mucilage and can soothe and protect irritated or inflamed internal tissue. These include: Coltsfoot, Comfrey, Cornsilk, Couchgrass, Flaxseed, Irish Moss, Lungwort, Liquarice, Mallow, Marshmallow, Mullein, Oatmeal, Parsley Piert, and Slippery Elm.

A DIAPHORETIC aids the skin in the elimination of toxins and promotes perspiration. Angelica, Bayberry, Black Cohosh, Boneset, Buchu, Cayenne, Chamomile, Elder, Fennel, Garlic, Ginger, Golden Rod, Guaiaicum, Lime Blossom, Peppermint, Pleurisy Root, Prickly Ash, Thuja, Thyme, White Horehound, Yarrow are considered Diaphoretics.

To be continued in the next issue of Desert Whispers.

how to do it, teaching about other faiths or beliefs as well as the origins historically of their own faith, teaching people about our history and Constitution, and finding other ways to forgive and show tolerance towards our neighbors through work projects to help people who need home maintenance or help with yard or farm projects but cannot afford to pay a whole lot of money to get things done because of their own financial issues.

The foundation will also work to stop rumors from being spread around the community by pushing people to reject the rumors until they have a chance to actually confirm what they are hearing, rather than repeating it to others so that harm and hurt are caused. People who are the subject or the target of the rumors have real feelings and real fears, and when they hear things that they know are untrue or are being said just to cause fear and panic, they are hurt. This gossip mill of hurt and fear needs to stop if we ever hope to have a community where people want to live and work. This has to stop. And it stops with forgiveness and tolerance. So I will forgive, and I will tolerate those who feel some need to hate me. And I will tell people the truth and educate them if they ask me about a rumor involving me or that might affect me or my friends and family.

This foundation is the first seed to be planted, and it will hold tolerance and forgiveness at its core. I hope that those who have felt marginalized in this community by certain groups or individuals will join me in making this a place where everyone feels welcome, not just one specific group or faith. I hope that by reaching across the things that divide us, we can find ways to make peace and stop the hateful rumor mongering, religious intolerance, political ignorance, and isolating of anyone who is different. It is time for us to set an example for our children, our neighbors, and our community as a whole of what it means to be forgiving and tolerant so that we can bury the hate where it belongs – in the past. I can be reached at devon.noll@att.net if you are interested in helping to create forgiveness and tolerance in Christmas Valley. I hope you will.

Day of the Groundhog

Mark Joseph Russell
Desert Whispers, Editor

Early on the morning of February 2nd, thousands of people will be up and out in the (probably) cold air, waiting for a rodent to pop out of its cozy hole and see, or not see, a shadow. Tradition says that if the creature sees its shadow, it will scurry back into its den for another six weeks of winter hibernation; If no shadow is seen (because it's cloudy) the critter will not be frightened, signalling an early spring.

I imagine that the vast majority of people who flock to see one of the "famous" groundhogs, do not actually believe it can accurately predict when things will warm up. But the crowds long to be part of "something." They seek to break the monotony of winter. They want to get out of the house, even if it's still cold outside. People desperately need something to do.

Locally, we have plenty of active sage rats, but famous groundhogs are scarce. Consequently, February 2nd in these parts will likely be much like the 1st or the 3rd. However, in just a couple weeks, the Friends of the Christmas Valley Branch Library have an activity planned to help us get out of the Winter Doldrums ... and interestingly, there are rodents involved. See more about that in "Library Corner" on page 21.

Years ago, Harold Brown, or Farmer Brown as he was known to many, lived in the Willamette Valley. I was lucky enough to live near him at the time. Every year on February 2nd, the church that Farmer Brown attended would have a Ground Hog Fund-Raiser Dinner. I remember going to it and it was quite the event.

There were salads of various kinds, side dishes of this-and-that, dinner rolls, mashed potatoes and gravy. An entire table was covered with dessert options.

Every year, the main featured "dish" of the evening was the same. It came as a simple meat patty, packaged between two toasted buns, with pickles, lettuce, tomato, mayo, and cheese if you wanted. It was delicious! But it wasn't beef we were eating. They were pork patties...

"Ground hog."

FORT ROCK HOMESTEAD MUSEUM

Sheep Recorded in Petroglyphs

M.E. "Jack" Swisher
Fort Rock Homestead Museum

Bighorn sheep were released near Paisley [in January] by ODFW biologists with help from volunteers. They added to existing herds on Mt. Diablo and Coglan Buttes east of town.

Very old petroglyphs of sheep exist at many sites across Lake County, so it seems they were important to the Native Americans who lived here. The last bighorn sheep reported at Picture Rock Pass was in the early 1920's. A site on Far View Butte attests to how people hunted them before the iron culture arrived.

Lake County has an estimated 1,500 rock art sites, which equals or exceeds the combined count in the other 35 counties. It is a rich and enduring legacy of Oregon's heritage. Petroglyph symbols likely meant something to their maker, but the makers died long ago. As in the case of most religious and personal symbolic expression, the glyphs are not understandable without someone to tell us what they mean. Some sites remain in excellent condition; the one pictured here still exhibits rock polish.

For more information on the Fort Rock Homestead Museum, visit the website: www.fortrockoregon.com or follow them on Facebook.

Last year the Fort Rock Homestead Museum provided 2,500 visitors the opportunity to explore – for learning, inspiration and enjoyment. The public is encouraged to attend board meetings, as we prepare for the 2016 Season.

The Board of Directors meet the second Tuesday each month at 9:30 a.m., in the visitors center at the Fort Rock Homestead Museum.

It's A Hillbilly Weddin' and Y'all are Invited!

Pa Belsnickle is a man with six problems—in the form of six unmarried daughters. Juney Lou, his third daughter, wants to marry Homer Upchlager, but Ma Belsnickle has decided Juney Lou can't get married until Ceelie, a ripe old nineteen, and Bonnie Mae, the bookworm, are married and living happily ever after. She elects Pa to find husbands for them.

Pa takes his shotgun off the wall with a very simple method of procuring the necessary husbands. He decides to "wing" 'em, pick out the buckshot, and have the boys married to his girls before they know what happened.

In the midst of Pa's husband hunting, Ronald Maxwell, a medical student, and his aunt arrive at the Belsnickle's mountain cabin. They are vacationing in the area and their car broke down. Pa gets his trusted gun, but unfortunately misses Ronald.

Two neighbors (male and unmarried) decide that the handsome stranger loose among the valley's most attractive girls is a threat to their manhood. The feudin' finally settles long enough for Ceelie and Bonnie Mae to find happiness and Ronald to escape with fond vacation memories.

The Stage Rat Players present their production of "A Hillbilly Weddin'" the first two weekends in March. So gather up all yer kin-folk and come enjoy the show. Tickets will be available soon.

Valentine's Day Thoughts - Love in Lyrics

By Mark Joseph Russell

February 14th, the day we celebrate LOVE, is fast approaching. As I contemplate this day of LOVE, I am divinely thankful that my life and heart are filled with acts of LOVE for and from my wonderful wife. Everyday is a celebration. (I am a lucky man!)

I think too, of the world as a whole and what LOVE there is or isn't in it. It seems as if so much in this world is based on ones status in a community, or material wealth, or physical appearance. It's been preached by many, for thousands of years, that the greatest of things is LOVE. And I don't just mean "preached" as in: from-the-pulpit on Sunday's. Poets, novelists, screen writers, visual artists, musicians, and others have repeated the theme over and over again throughout the ages. I was just listening to the electronic pop duo Pet Shop Boys who released the album "YES" in 2009 containing the song "Love, etc." which echoes the theme.

*Don't have to be a big bucks Hollywood star Don't have to drive
a super car to get far Don't have to buy a house in Beverly Hills
Don't have to have your daddy paying the bills
Don't have to live
a life of power and wealth
You need more, you need LOVE.*

Yet, as we seek to muster the LOVE in our own lives, and our LOVE for others, we need to do it intelligently.

Another musical group I enjoy listening to, Information Society, released the album "Peace and Love, Inc." in 1992. The title track warns of the dangers of political correctness. Simply accepting everything in the world as "OK" in a so-called act of "peace and love" is simply wrong.

Information Society issued this warning almost a quarter century ago. Our world chose not to heed it.

Personally, I will choose for myself who and what to LOVE.

us out here in the same position, but if enough of us were to get together with any spare materials and a little time, we could make things happen for a lot of people. Just a couple of hours here and there and any extra materials not being used, imagine what we could accomplish!

Any left over materials at one project could go to the next one to help another. We could have a cook to help feed the help. This project could do anything from repair, to yard cleaning, to gardening, canning, or any sort of help one would need. This could improve the spirits of our community as well as improve the looks. We can do this and it only takes positive thinking and a willingness to make things happen. "Negative" and "Can't" never got anything done.

We can start with a list of volunteers and people who need help, and do one at a time, setting a time for each task.

The benefits of doing this would be the pride of what we have accomplished for everyone.

If interested please call Linda McCoslin (Back In Thyme Herbals) at 541-977-2902 or Ellen Morehouse (That Dragonfly Stuff) at 541-678-0747 and we will add you to our list. Thank-you.

Hugger Hats Donate Across Region

Jimmy Hall
Lake County Examiner

Christmas Valley's Hugger Hat Project is searching for contributions of yarn and craft enthusiasts to make warm caps for cancer patients and others to be distributed across the region.

According to Carol Chapman, the organizer of the project, just in 2015 alone they have been successful in donating 558 hats to 14 delivery sites with another 24 to individual destinations. There have been 11 contributors giving 2,266 volunteer hours. "We are always looking for yarn and people to help," said Chapman, adding that 2015 has been a wildly successful year for the group, which is sponsored by the Friends of the Library in Christmas Valley.

Donations have gone to Grover Cockrum Physical Therapist, Lynda's Prosthetics, Bend Memorial Clinic Cancer Center Infusion Room, St. Charles Cancer Center, Ronald McDonald House, Children's Heart Center, Mosaic Medical Outreach, Homeless Project, North Lake School, Boosters Tree of Joy, North Lake Clinic, Ranger College Cross Country Team, Hospice of Lakeview and the Christmas Valley Library. Chapman explained that the Christmas Valley Librarian has even distributed hats to those who are stressed or those who are simply needing a hug.

The group welcomes anyone who is interested in making hats, whether by crocheting, knitting, or knitting loom. The organization can supply equipment, pattern, and yarn. "If anyone in the Lakeview or other area is interested in joining," said Chapman, "we would be happy to visit to get them going."

She further illustrated that the idea grew from using leftover yarn from making baby afghans and evolved into looking for places that needed hats, resulting in finding great success from Lakeview to Redmond. "We want quality and to produce nice hats of all different colors and styles," she said.

To volunteer, make a donation of yarn, or for more information, contact Chapman at 541-408-2642.

to people of all ages! Only reading of (or listening to) library materials counts. The challenge begins February 1 and ends March 14, 2016. The library that reaches a million pages first wins bragging rights. If no library has reached a million pages by March 14, the library with the most pages read wins. The top 10 readers in Lake County will also receive small prizes.

Stop by your local library to pick up a book mark to track your reading - or keep track yourself on any old piece of paper. Books, magazines, newspapers, e-books, and audiobooks checked out from the library all count. Items you purchase yourself do not count. Participants will need to record the title and number of pages they read or listen to. To count audiobook and ebook "pages," library staff can help you look up the number of pages of a print book of the same title. Pages can be turned in any time at any Lake County Library District location.

Questions about the contest may be directed to Amy Hutchinson, Lake County Library Director, at 541-947-6019.

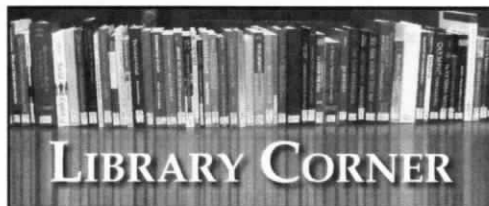

The Hugger Hat Project

The Hugger Hat Project makes hats out of yarn for cancer patients. So far we have distributed over 600 hats! We are seeking individuals interested in helping with this project. All supplies are provided. Please contact Carol E. Chapman at 541-408-2642 for more information.

LIBRARY CORNER

Every morning my feet are doing the Happy dance because the WINTER DOLDRUMS ART SHOW is February 13th and that is only like two weeks away!! I hear Sally Sage Rat is entering again this year as is Molly Book Mouse so I have fierce competition; I hope others are entering to spread the votes because if it just Sally Sage Rat, Molly Book Mouse, and me, I probably won't have a chance because those two are just awesome!! Remember, the artist decides the category for their entry(ies) and the categories are: Art, Crafts, Photography, Sewing, Needlework, Writings, and All Other which would include things that the artist feels do not really fit in the other categories. Each person has an entry fee of $5.00 with a three item limit including the RODENT category which is limited to one entry per rodent. This year, due to space, photography entries are not to exceed frame size of 11x14 and new this year is family discount--2 or 3 family members entering a total of 3 pieces pay $8.

Arts, Crafts, Photography, Sewing, Needlework, Writings, and All Other categories will be awarded first, second, third, for each age group split out as child up to 11, young adult 12-18, Adult 19 and over.

The Rodent category is judged as a single group and awarded first, second, and third. Concept category is to show how artists interpret words—there are no awards and no entry fees.

Artists may start bringing their entries Friday the 12th at 1pm until 5:30pm and again early Saturday morning the 13th at 8am. The art show is open to the public at 10am to look, see, ooh and aah, and vote. Any questions please contact Miss Julie at the library or call at 541-619-1880, Miss Reese at 360-831-2145, or text or call Miss Barbara at 541-306-9607.

Lastly, the Friends have a "save the date" for March 18th—more on that later.

Walking Program Expands to Three Times a Week

Late last year, as winter weather set-in for the season, an idea was born, to provide an indoor walking venue for local folks. Through a co-operative effort, the Christmas Valley Community Hall was opened up two mornings a week for those wanting an out-of-the-weather opportunity to be active.

Increased interest in the new year has prompted the expansion of the program to now include an additional morning.

Exercise is a natural and effective anti-anxiety treatment. It relieves tension and stress, boosts physical and mental energy, and enhances well-being through the release of endorphins (feel good brain chemicals)

- An inactive person spends 37% more days in hospital and visits the doctor 5.5% more times than an active person.

- Walking reduces the risk of both breast and colon cancer.

- Research shows adults who are physically active in their 50s and early 60s are about 35 percent less likely to die in the next eight years than those who are sedentary.

- Walking briskly for one mile in 15 minutes burns approximately the same amount of calories as does jogging an equal distance in 8.5 minutes.

Co-Sponsored by Christmas Valley / North Lake Chamber, North Lake Park and Recreation, and Lake County Community Health Improvement Program (CHIP)

Tai Chi and indoor walking is at the Community Hall Monday, Tuesday and Thursday mornings. Please join us 7:30 -9:00 am!
