SANTA IS COMING HOME TO CHRISTMAS VALLEY

SANTA wants to let Christmas Valley know that he is coming to town. He will be moving his Hot Rod & Classic Car Division to Christmas Valley and will live here. He has an enormous wealth of skills, know how, and motivation that he will be bringing, through the experience of himself and his 3 sons. He has built custom homes and custom cars and trucks for over 40 years, and 2 of his sons for over 14 years. He has been a natural bearded Santa for more than 16 years and started a non-profit foundation 3 years ago called "Santa's Reach the Children Foundation", where he taught some of the disadvantaged youth, skills in the automotive and construction industries.

WELCOME HOME SANTA....

HUNTING & FISHING REPORT

ANA RESERVOIR:

hatchery rainbow trout

Ana Reservoir remains ice-free during the winter because of springs producing constant 60°F water. Trout and hybrids remain active during the winter months. The water level is currently 13 feet below full pool and is expected to remain so until spring. Anglers should be prepared for dirt/mud conditions during this time. Fish can be caught using bait, lures, and flies from shore or boats.

ANA RIVER:

hatchery rainbow trout

Rainbow trout are active throughout the year in the river and anglers have been catching fish with bait, flies or lures.

DUNCAN RESERVOIR:

rainbow trout

The ice at Duncan Reservoir was unsafe when checked on Jan 7. ODFW does not recommend ice fishing at Duncan Reservoir currently. Anglers wishing to ice fish can access Thompson Reservoir, which has safe ice. Anglers wishing to ice fish can access the reservoir by snow mobile. Anglers should use caution during first-ice conditions including: using the "buddy system," wearing a PFD in case of thin ice, carrying a throw-rope, and using a heavy metal staff to check for thin-ice. Vexilar's Ice Fishing Today website has a quick 2-minute video describing how to be safe during early ice

THOMPSON RESERVOIR:

rainbow trout, largemouth bass

Access to the reservoir is not blocked by snow. Anglers wishing to ice fish can access the reservoir by 4-wheel drive vehicles to either boat ramp. The ice was checked on Jan. 7 and is about 12-inches near the dam.

Fishing was slow during that time. Anglers should use caution during first-ice conditions including: using the "buddy system," wearing a PFD in case of thin ice, carrying a throw-rope, and using a heavy metal staff to check for thin-ice. Vexilar's Ice Fishing Today website has a quick 2-minute video describing how to be safe during early ice.

LAKE COUNTY

Within the county Waterfowl season have different closure dates. Duck season closes on 19 January and Goose season closes on 26 January. Cold temperature during the latter part of December has caused ice to form on most of the major water bodies in the district. Almost all of the migratory waterfowl have moved south.

Cougar hunting is open. Populations are healthy due to good habitat and prey base. If hunters can find a fresh cougar kill, calling within a ½ mile of that kill can be very effective. Mule deer herds are well above traditional winter areas due to a lack of snow and periods of extreme cold temperatures at lower elevations. Cougar hunters should focus on areas with deer concentrations and so far this winter those areas are between 5,800 and 6,800 feet.

Coyote numbers appear to be increasing throughout the county. Prey distress calls still appear to be effective, however the breeding season is fast approaching and effectiveness of coyote vocalizations will increase through March.

Upland Bird - California Quail and Chukar seasons run through the end of January. The California Quail hatch was good but the birds are most common on private land and hunters must get permission. Hunters are finding very few Chukar throughout the county

SUMMER LAKE WILDLIFE AREA

This section was updated on January 13, 2014

Parking permits are now required on all vehicles. Hunters get the permit free with the purchase of their annual hunting license.

Hunting success was generally slow for waterfowl during the past week. Weather conditions were favorable during most of the week as a storm system past through the area. Ambitious hunters willing to hike to distant bird use areas and spending most of the day in the field enjoyed good success. Casual hunters jump shooting or attempting to pass shoot close to access areas and roads saw very poor hunting success.

Weather conditions are generally mild. Daytime high temperatures were in the 40-50s while night time lows were in the high 20's or low 30's nearly all week.

Skies were generally cloudy, winds were moderate breezy most of the week turning strong over most of the weekend. Frozen conditions deteriorated over much the area, and waterfowl were not as concentrated as they were during the previous week.

For the 14th week of the season, hunter participation (56 check-in) was down -27.3% from the same week of the season last year, and down -59.2% from last week. Reported harvest (96.4% check-out) of 76 birds (73 ducks, 2 geese and 1 Am. coot) was down -49.7% and -66.3% from the same week in 2012 and last week, respectively.

Duck hunters reported the harvest of 41 mallards, 17 gadwall, 6 bufflehead, 6 American wigeon, and 3 other ducks of 2 species. The duck per hunter average of 1.55 was down -11.5% and 20.7% from last week and the same week of the season last year, respectively.

Hunters reported taking only 2 geese (Canadas). This harvest was down -95.1% from the same week of the season in 2012 when 41 were reported taken, and down -71.5% from last week's 7 birds.

Happy Educated New Year?

By Katharine Matchette

Here's a novel New Year's resolution. Why not choose to learn something new during the New Year? College may be beyond your reach, but you've never had a better chance for informal education. Pick a subject. If reading is your thing, check the local library for books on the things you wish you knew. Broaden the search by checking out all the available books through the Libraries of Eastern Oregon.

If you're curious about classic world literature, check out the website: <http://www.classical-library.org/>. Here you'll find an assortment of free literary masterpieces in HTML format. Read them with your browser. For classic Christian writings check out <http://www.ccel.org/>. Or go to <http://www.allyoucan-books.com/>. At this site you have 15 free days to download as many free books as you can. After that, the monthly membership fee of $14.99 allows you to download as many books as you wish. A search will turn up other truly free e-book sites.

Of course, if you're simply curious, you can search any subject in the world. You'll find almost anything on Wikipedia. For years I've wanted to learn Koine Greek (the Greek of the New Testament). I've even found a place I can download a free textbook. I've always enjoyed languages, so I'm making Greek my New Year's resolution. It won't be easy. As yet I don't even know the alphabet. If you're looking for more formal training, your computer is the portal for all kinds of opportunities. Kahn Academy (www.kahnacademy.org) offers classes in math, art, computer programming, economics, physics, chemistry, biology, medicine, finance, history, and more. The academy is always free.

Major colleges now offer between them at least 800 free online classes. You can check them out at <http://www.openculture.com/free>. These classes include everything from humanities and social sciences (archeology, art, art history), classics and the classical world (ancient history and philosophy), economics and statistics, film, food, geography, history, languages, law, linguistics, literature, music and performing arts, philosophy, sociology, biology, math, science—you name it.

And if you simply want to sharpen (or obtain) math skills www.youtube.com/user/dougsimmsonline offers help. If computers baffle you from the get-go, take advantage of free tutorials and classes at <http://www.gcfllearnfree.org/> computers. For more advanced training, check out <http://www.intelligentedu.com/cat1.html>. If you suspect you would never survive in college or that it's not for you, the free courses can give you a better idea of what it takes.

In the quest for learning, never overlook people with skills you don't have, but would like. For instance, you might have a friend who quilts and/or sews. Or find a chance to learn mechanical skills or welding from someone you know. By the way, learning is not just for the young and middle aged. Tackle a musical instrument. They tell us that learning activities keep brains young and may even stave off Alzheimer's disease. We've never had more opportunity to educate ourselves! This year, go for it. Learn something new!

Booster Update & Thank You

We would like to thank the individuals that helped gather greenery to make our holiday decorations, like our wreaths & table arrangements.

Deanna, Brayden & Dolores Roberts (who enjoyed the ride & scenery), Don & Sandra Overton, Avery & Jerry Overton, Gerald & Joyce Hanson, Heidi Hanson, Joe & Hazel Baertlein, Shara & Michael Shumway, Mark Bedinger, Karsten Monroe, Hollie Fritz, Jessica Anderson, Zachariah McElhatton & Wesley Stoner. Katherine Gillette was waiting for us at the Booster building with hot soup and desserts.

The Boosters made holiday decorations Nov. 11th thru Dec. 8th. Thanks to all that put together and who bought holiday decorations. All the proceeds benefit the children in North Lake County for children's events.

Thanks to each one of you,
Christmas Valley Boosters

SUMMER LAKE WILDLIFE

Ring-necked pheasant is closed now and no California quail harvest was reported last week.

The prospect for the upcoming week remains only fair for waterfowl hunting. DUCK, COOT AND SNIPE SEASON WILL CLOSE ON SUNDAY, JANUARY 19TH. GOOSE SEASON WILL REMAIN OPEN THROUGH THE 26TH. Frozen over conditions have declined over the past week. Low numbers of waterfowl and a mild weather pattern will result in difficult hunting conditions.

Weather conditions for the upcoming week are forecasted to remain mild for the entire week.

High temperatures are forecasted to be in the low to mid-50s and nighttime lows will be in the high 20s to low 30's. Under these conditions, a majority of the wildlife area's wetlands will continue to open and birds will spread out to recently thawed areas.

Pass shooting from dikes will continue to be very poor. Hunters utilizing decoys and willing to spend most of the day in the marsh should have fair success.

Those hunting interior areas around open pockets of water, away from dikes last week reported doing well, while dike shooters saw very poor success. Jump shooting along Ana River was reported to be only poor, constant pressure has moved birds away from most sections of the river.

The weekly waterfowl count conducted on Tuesday January 7th found about 2,500 ducks and 800 geese present.

The next count is scheduled for January 15th and results will be posted on the wildlife area's telephone answering machine the following day.

Library Corner

by A Non A Mouse

Here is a picture I took of the beautiful wall-hanging that the Friends of the Christmas Valley Branch Library are holding a raffle for. I wish it was in color so you could see all the bright reds, yellows and oranges, and more of the detail in the patterns.

This one-of-a-kind work of art was donated by the Gardner family in memory of their parents Jeanie and Victor. And of course we thank them ever so much for their thoughtful gift.

Tickets will sell for $1.00 each or you can buy six tickets for $5.00. You can buy the tickets at the Library or from any member of the Friends of the Library. The money raised will be added to our ever-growing building fund.

Don't forget to watch for the bright yellow posters announcing the Annual Winter Doldrums Art Show!

Your Library is a Happening Place!

Gun winner Robert Hulbert, drove from Kizer, OR. to pick up the Golden Boy .22 mag that North Lake Rodeo Association raffled off during the fall of 2013. He was awarded the rifle at the Fort Rock Rest. & Pub in an impromptu meeting with Club President Laura House, Sec. Stacey Judd (not pictured) Sheri Blackman and Kathy Kruse. The funds from the drawing will help the local Rodeo Association to continue to offer Rodeo action for the coming year. Sheri Blackman and the Crew at the Fort Rock Restaurant and Pub were responsible for selling an incredible amount of tickets. Hulbert bought his winning ticket from Sheri and says he is always buying and donating to the kids and this is the first time he has ever won. Thank you Robert Hulbert and Sheri and crew for your devotion to a good cause.

to be held on February 22nd.
The show opens at 10:00 am and exhibitors are able to setup starting at 8:30 am.

This year we are changing the format a little bit. We are actually sponsoring two art shows.
The one in February is 5 categories. Photography, paintings and drawings, crafts, and the popular rodent. All of these will be broken into age groups and judged by the public. This year for fun, we are adding an open, non-judged category for all ages. for artists to present their creative concepts of the word "sagebrush". This is an artists interpretation and anything goes.

The second art show will be Easter weekend and will have two publicly judged categories to include Quilt and needlework, and literature. These too, will be broken down into age groups.

WISDOM

Wisdom: "The quality of having experience, knowledge and good judgement; the quality of being wise. The soundness of an action or decision with regard to the application of experience..." (iPad Dictionary)

Developing wisdom is a lifelong job. Anyone who says, "I am wise," is probably a foolish person. A person with wisdom knows they're "on a journey"... and more wisdom will be gained. Certainly a parent might say to their child, "You need to listen to me because I am older than you," or "I have more experience than you." Hopefully our wisdom increases with our time on earth. The fact that we are still here at 60, 70 or 80 years old is probably because we have gained some wisdom along the way; and yet we are still growing. It would have been great if we had more wisdom when we were young. We would probably have avoided a lot of hard "lessons" if we hadn't been so foolish.

Nature is an incredible teacher. Bees work like crazy during spring and summer building up their honey supply which will give them life during the long cold winters. Wisdom: Save up for hard times! The same thing is true for squirrels, who bury nuts for their future winter needs. Birds migrate to warm places where food is plentiful during the "freezing season." Wisdom: It's a good idea to live in a safe place. The great Gray Whales migrate from the frigid North to the warm Southern waters of the Baja where they birth their young. Wisdom: Keep our children safe! The Giant Humpback whales sing songs deep under the oceans which travel hundreds of miles through caverns reaching their "cousins" around the world. Wisdom: Keep our communication channels open with family and friends.

Wisdom does not seem to be valued these days. Most advertising is directed at US, the individual, telling us to, Gratify Our Desires. Me first seems to be the "sirens' song" (the mythical creatures who wooed sailors to their death!) Words in Commercials: "Picture yourself in this ($50,000) car." Not directly said but implied...If you wear our cologne or our clothes you will be irresistible to the opposite sex, Treat yourself to _____, You've earned the right, You worked for this, You deserve a break today, NO interest for 60 months!" ME FIRST, ME FIRST, ME FIRST...Sounds like a bunch of First Graders! There are a lot of crazy things going on in families, social groups, church groups, in local, state and Federal governments. All are being torn apart by Personal Selfishness! Where can we look for examples of wisdom today?

Have you ever had a car salesman, insurance salesman, realtor or store clerk, say, "Don't buy this unless you have cash!" "Don't use your credit card today!" "Go home and think about this decision for a few days!" This kind of Wise advice would surely cause them to lose many sales and probably their jobs! Me First, Self Gratification, keeps our banks, our economy going! And it keeps many in debt, some even for a lifetime! Sadly, often the sweet taste of our new purchase turns sour in our stomachs...as we make the monthly payments...sometimes at 25% or more interest for several years. Often people only make the minimum payment which won't even bring the principal down because of the high interest. When this is multiplied by several credit card purchases...our lives and money languish away as this process grinds on and on! Many of us were never taught how to manage money or how to shop wisely looking for sales and special deals. We pass on this inherited financial incompetence to our children; perpetuating financial bondage from generation after generation.

Many folks get into unhealthy relationships. Again this behavior/decision making is inherited. An "unhealthy" lifestyle and "unhealthy" decision making is passed on from generation to generation. We may become addicted to drugs, alcohol, gambling, food, anger, sex, depression, suicidal thoughts, or other hurtful things. We may become involved in domestic violence and/or child abuse. All of these hurtful things are passed from generation to generation! Trying to overcome them alone is virtually impossible! We did not get here alone! The Truth

Is: There is strength in numbers! Amazingly some people break these cycles in their lives and families. Maybe because of the intervention of a loving friend, a great self help book or because they were invited to a "recovery group" where they connected to the Experience, Strength and Hope of those making positive choices and changes in their lives! They found people with similar backgrounds, similar struggles. They are accepted and receive healing from the group members who are working on their own recovery. They are encouraged to "Keep Coming Back." Connecting with people who are making life changing and life healing decisions helps them make progress!

Wisdom: It can be a Foreign concept or idea to us! Wise thinking or choices may seem crazy because of where we came from or currently are. We were never given the tools to recognize wisdom. A wise person said, "Insanity is doing the same thing over and over and expecting a different result!" The smallest amount of "self reflection" is often a surprising amount of help. It opens a door to what's inside us, gives us a chance to be honest with ourselves. This is the beginning of change, of healing. Spending time with people who are part of a life changing recovery program WILL change our lives for the better! Their Experience, Strength and Hope not only lifts us up, it becomes a part of us. "Dear God...Please help me to recognize wisdom wherever it is, wherever it comes from and to glom onto it!" Please help me to become self reflective. To be able to look inside myself and have the Courage to change the things I can. Please help me to connect with others who are seeking wisdom and working on their recovery. And help me to connect with their experience, strength and hope.

Thank You." Amen

Position will remain open until qualified applicant is approved by the Board of Directors.

Wolves and coyotes can look alike

Most wolves in the state today are in northeast Oregon but a few have dispersed further west and south. Wolves are protected by state and/or federal law and it is unlawful to shoot them. Coyote hunters need to take extra care to identify their target as wolves can look like coyotes, especially wolf pups in the mid-summer and fall.

ODFW appreciates hunters' assistance to establish wolves' presence in Oregon; please report any wolf sightings or wolf sign to ODFW using the online reporting system.

SUMMER LAKE WILDLIFE AREA (cont.)

Habitat conditions are improving with all units beginning to thaw. Wetlands across the area remain around 60% frozen at present.

Summer Lake proper remains fairly low but is increasing in size slowly.

THE HUNTING SEASONS FOR SCAUP AND RING-NECKED PHEASANTS CLOSED FOR THE REMAINDER OF THE HUNTING SEASON ON DEC. 31ST!

Hunters need to remember all of Bullgate Refuge has been returned to refuge status where no hunting or entry is allowed (except to retrieve lawfully downed birds).

In addition, the entire Bullgate Refuge is dry in preparation for major wetland enhancement work. As a consequence, about 300-400 acres in the hunt area along Bullgate Dike in the south-east portion of Between The Dikes unit and the northeast corner of Summer Lake proper will be dry.

All hunters must have a free daily hunting permit in their possession and are required to check out at the end of the day. Self-serve permits are available in the Checking Station Lobby at Headquarters. Please read and follow instructions when obtaining permits.

Check-out boxes are found at each campground, Headquarters and major access areas.

Please check the 2013-2014 Oregon Game Bird Regulations for daily bag and possession limits.

Federally approved non-toxic shot is required for all game bird hunting.

Please contact Summer Lake Wildlife Area at (541) 943-3152 or email martin.j.stlouis@state.or.us for additional information.

BACK IN THYME HERBALS

by Linda McCoslin

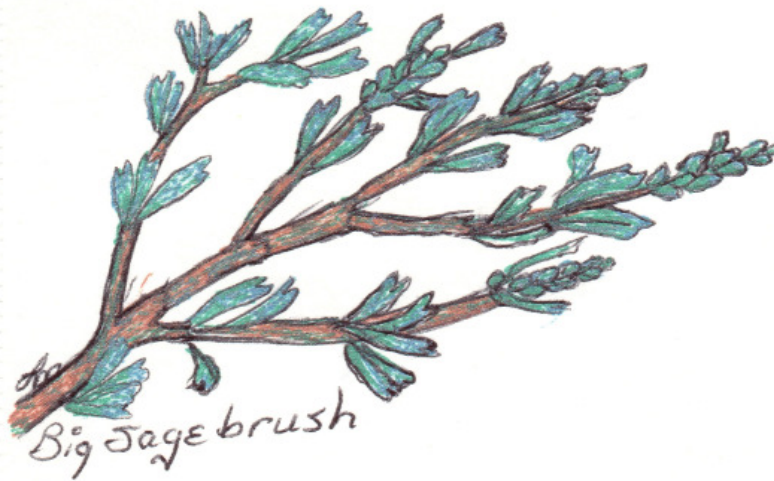

Lu's second choice of curiosity is our numerous growth of sagebrush. Sagebrush is of the sunflower family. (Artemisia Tridentata NUTT). Also called Basin Sagebrush, Common Sagebrush, Big Sagebrush, Wormwood- Compositae.

The term sagebrush refers collectively to several species of low shrubs distributed throughout the semi-arid regions of North America. Among these species, tall sagebrush (Artemisia Tridentata), the state flower of Nevada, has the broadest ecological tolerance and can survive under the greatest range of environmental conditions. It grows best in deep, relatively moist soils that are mildly basic (rather than acidic). They may become very large and robust, up to eight feet tall and equally broad through the branched crown. It is designed to increase the efficiency of water absorption and retention under semi-arid conditions.

Sagebrush produces two types of leaves, lobed ones that persist throughout the year and non-lobed, smaller and softer ones that appear along the branch tips in early winter and drop during drought the following summer. The plant becomes somewhat dormant during the drier part of the year, thus conserving its water. It has a two component root system: small, widely dispersed, shallow roots which absorb water quickly following a rain, and coarse, penetrating roots that draw water from reservoirs deep underground.

Sagebrush has minute flowers of numerous yellowish heads during late summer or early fall. Sagebrush is wind pollinated which in summer breezes causes an allergic response in some people, further extended by the extended flowering period. The volatile chemicals making the strong sage odor also has a mild al-lergenic effect.

Another sagebrush species of western steppeland (Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Montana) is stiff sagebrush (Artemisia Rigida) a major dominant in dry rocky areas.

The genus was named after Artemisia, wife of Mausolus, ancient ruler of Caria (Southwest Asia Minor). Mausolus died in 353 B.C. His bereaved wife erected a magnificent mausoleum in his memory, which became one of the seven wonders of the world. Artemisia herself was named in honor of the Greek Goddess Artemis, the virgin huntress or goddess of wild nature.

The American explorer,

John C. Fremont, noted the appearance of big sagebrush during his westward journey through what is now Wyoming in 1842, calling it by the name of its European relative Absinthe. The settlers who followed soon came to regard its presence as a good omen, since where it grew in abundance, the soil was fertile enough to support farming.

From prehistoric times, the western indians made use of the treelike shrub, belonging to the same medicinally important genus plants as European Tarragon, Absinthe, and Mugwort. They chewed the leaves of sagebrush to ease stomach gas and used a tea made from the leaves to treat other stomach disorders, as well as colds and sore eyes. When settlers arrived, they took up some of the native uses of the plant and added their own. Sagebrush preparations are used to treat headaches, diarrhea, sore throat, vomiting and even bullet wounds. Indians in the Southwest ground the seeds for flour, and many more set great store by a kind of hair tonic, made fragrant with sagebrush. Pioneers often used the fast growing shrub as firewood.

Sagebrush contains a volatile oil that can be added as an aromatic to liquors and hair rinses or used as a bug repellent.

I have found no cautions on sagebrush.
