asking that all riders wear face cover-

our drivers and other riders. If you do

Christmas Valley Annual Golf Tournament

July 3, 2020

On July 3rd, the Christmas Valley Park and Recreation District held their annual golf tournament. There were 10 teams with a total of 40 participants that played.

Prizes were awarded for the longest drive from the 8th tee; that was awarded to Ashley Gutierrez, the closest to the #1 hole was Larry Kuwahara and we had two teams tie with the lowest score of 32 (3 under par). Team #4 (Dale Martin, Mike Williams, Mike Lambert & Richard Mensch) and team #5 (Henry Rondeau, Garret King, Hannah Creswick & Hannah Rondeau).

Everyone had a great time and we enjoyed seeing everyone that came out for a little fun. Special thanks to Greg & Kris Rondeau and Dan & Kathy Kinion for setting up the BBQ and for hosting it for us all. We really appreciate all that you have done by letting us crash your home away from home.

Christmas Valley Park and Rec would like to thank all the participants, as well as, all of the people & businesses that donated prizes for our event: Jim Larsen, Lost Tracks Golf Club, Chuck & Sue Bean, Ponderosa Pizza, Quail Run Golf Course, Willows Antiques & Gifts, JW Kerns, Sagewood Grocery, Mindy Cross (Stellar Nails), Christmas Valley Concrete, Oregon Country Realty, The Farmhouse Café & Bakery, Robbins Equipment, Santa's Hardware, Klamath Basin Equipment and our crew Chris Wade, Mike Foltz & Larry Kuwahara.

See you next year !!

BACK IN THYME

Another 4th has come and gone. This year seems to be flying by, as we are all use to it doing. The parade was great this year, we even had a couple of rigs ease the minds of the youngsters by throwing a little candy out. I thought that was nice, because the children did not get left out. They are so use to the treats and the small ones don't quite understand this COVID thing.

It's a shame the water slides couldn't be done and we all missed having the music and booths at the park and library, not to mention, the shortcake! As for the fireworks, WOW! Yet another amazing show.

I live off of Rainbow Road and invited a few friends, who live way out in the boonies, to come watch the show from my 20 acres. We bar-b-qued around 6 p.m. and the young ones played croquet and monopoly until it got dark. We set off a few fireworks in my driveway for them and when the "real" show started they were all excited. Everyone commented on how beautiful it was and thanked me for sharing. They said that my place was perfect for watching the show! They all enjoyed themselves while observing the distancing rule.

So, until next year have a good summer - even if it is a strange one!

God be with you all,

Linda McCoslin

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Good afternoon,

I just want to say how very much I appreciated opening up the Desert Whispers this morning and seeing the Declaration of Independence, along with a more legible version for all to read. Far too much of our history is forgotten these days, and it's not just because we don't read or write enough in cursive. Although it is nice to see and read about our native friend the horny toad, exotic plants, hearing from our School Superintendent, and letters to the editor. It was definitely a highlight for me to see this in our small North County publication, along with the editors insert for why we celebrate that day, and how the men in that room 244 years ago took the first steps in putting our nation on a path of independence for all.

For myself, I think it helps remind the community that although we appreciate the simplicity of living in rural Oregon, where we tend to our gardens, still wave to our neighbors, read our paper, and admire the wildlife and Gods amazing creation, we also remember that we are part of something bigger. A small corner of a truly great nation, with the most diverse population possibly in the world, both culturally, ethnically and religiously, we are still one nation. There's good and bad in our history, that we should remember and never forget. We should remember the bad, as it may prevent us from making those mistakes again, and we especially remember and honor the good, because it's always been what we as a people fought and have died for.

We accept our history with all our flaws and mistakes, as we do with every man and woman who has done great things in this world. We acknowledge that it's what makes us who we are as humans... imperfect... but Americans.

Thank you for all you do.

Regards,
James

OBITUARY

Zelma Newbrough
"Miss Kay" "Granny"

Zelma was born in Nebraska (they say in the backseat of a car) May 7, 1936, and passed peacefully at her home in Fort Rock on June 25, 2020.

Zelma was always a hard-worker, and she loved the Lord. She told stories to her family of growing up as a "fruit tramp" traveling with her family picking fruit at harvest times.

She married Howard Cecil Newbrough July 17, 1960, who preceded her in death on January 27, 2020. They would have celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary this year. They lived in Mehama, Oregon, prior to moving to Fort Rock when Cecil retired from long haul truck driving.

They loved living in Fort Rock. They attended the Fort Rock Community Church, and have both been laid to rest in the Fort Rock Cemetery.

Zelma is survived by her brother, Jonathan "Tuffy" Fox; her sister, Valerie "Tootsie" Richardson; daughter, Christy Hamby; grandchildren, Wesley, Miryria, Jerimiah, and Joe Lynn. Also, fourteen great-grandchildren, and three great-great-grandchildren.

When Good Will Sacrificed

The civil rights bill which passed the U.S. House of Representatives without major difficulty represents the thinking of many sincere members of Congress who want to extend full justice to members of minority groups who have long suffered from discrimination and a denial of basic rights guaranteed them in the Constitution.

The measure as it now stands is believed to have enough support in the Senate from a coalition of Republicans and Northern Democrats that it could be passed if allowed to come to a vote.

But Southern Democrats who oppose the bill have made clear their determination not to allow it to come to a vote.

First there will be extended debate on the merits of the bill itself. The Southerners do not call this a filibuster. But when this phase has passed, the anti-civil rights leaders are prepared to keep talking indefinitely on whatever subjects may come to their minds solely for the purpose of eating up time. The pro-civil rights forces are likewise prepared to sit out the battle no matter how long it may take. Each side is confident it eventually will wear out the other. The most optimistic prediction is that the battle will not end before the middle of May. Meanwhile, all other legislation will remain at a standstill.

The question of compromise has never been clearly answered. The antis says there will be no compromise. The civil rights leaders say the bill should not be compromised, that it is a good bill as it stands. They have not said flatly they will refuse any compromise that might insure the bill's passage.

What we are about to see on the Senate floor is not the best picture of the "greatest deliberative body on earth." Every parliamentary trick in the book will be used to prevent final action. Meanwhile, the fact that the Senate will be shooting for early adjournment so members can campaign for reelection means that a great deal of legislation will be bypassed.

The impatience of civil rights leaders outside the Congress, both Negroes and white, is understandable. It will be increased as the filibuster drags on.

But they should be warned that pressure tactics in Washington, including demonstrations and sit-ins in Senate offices, will not help their cause. Such tactics would be resented, we believe, not only by the opponents but also by those senators leading the fight for the bill.

The right of peaceable assembly and peaceable petitioning is guaranteed by the Constitution. But demonstrations can be and have been overdone, particularly where they interfere with the ordinary conduct of business and invite or threaten violence.

There are evidences across the country that such tactics have produced adverse reactions even among people friendly to the Negro's cause.

Whether the civil rights bill is passed or not — and we believe it should be — that alone will not achieve what the Negroes are seeking. The good will of the general population is an essential element in the winning of equal opportunity. Good will is sacrificed when pressure tactics get out of hand.

Fulbright's Past Prophecies Right

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — The significant thing about the recent Fulbright bill — dress speech on U.S. foreign policy is that its author has an almost perfect score in looking ahead on foreign affairs.

Whatever his defects on domestic policy — and they are many — the author seems to have been almost too accurate in his diagnosis of foreign policy and the need for the new foreign relations. This is what makes his current proposal of the old Frank Lyndon Johnson regarding U.S.-Soviet relations and the Cold War most important.

FULBRIGHT was the only member who was both almost enough to find out what the key to the situation is to do with it, and who, through to argue with Kennedy until he was blue in the face to try to stop it.

He was thoughtful enough to initiate the Fulbright scholarship which has since saved thousands of youngsters and contributed to some understanding among the world. And he was one of the very few to realize that the only way to ending a more effective Voice of America and U.S. Information Service.

He was a key to the work of former member of John F. Kennedy at a time when the old machinery of state was broken to lead the American people through the war against Russia. Fulbright exposed the problems of internationalism and of the new individualism and of the new individualism and of the new individualism.

FULBRIGHT's greatest contribution was in trying to save the system at a time when the Soviet was trying to break it up in pieces, was making no progress in the new world, and was pushing its own individualism against the old individualism.

In January, Fulbright told John F. Kennedy in November, 1955, "I am in your camp as long as you are in the camp of the world, and you are in the camp of the world as long as you are in the camp of the world." This is the best that Fulbright has ever said as a sign of his own wisdom. In the context that we are in, we are in the camp of the world as long as we are in the camp of the world.

to fire their top military man.

"You point out that Russia makes 100,000 automobiles while we make 8 million," continued Fulbright. "Maybe they don't need 8 million automobiles a year in Russia. Maybe they are better off with 100,000 automobiles a year. Maybe our children would be better off with less automobiles and more in school the way Russian children are studying."

Since Jan. 12, 1955, Fulbright made a series of up revolutionary as well as which he made last week. He was for about the same Department — but that time it was in the name of.

The part of the nation increased daily because of the way the government all revolutionary has failed and continues to fail the nation's economy of the danger of failure," the author stated.

FULBRIGHT's proposal was the best that the world has ever seen. It was the best that the world has ever seen. It was the best that the world has ever seen. It was the best that the world has ever seen.

Meanwhile, conditions have changed since the revolution. The two most powerful members of the world are engaged in a deadly battle which shows no sign of being pushed to the end. The world is now in a state of chaos and confusion. The world is now in a state of chaos and confusion. The world is now in a state of chaos and confusion.

Meanwhile, the two most powerful members of the world are engaged in a deadly battle which shows no sign of being pushed to the end. The world is now in a state of chaos and confusion. The world is now in a state of chaos and confusion. The world is now in a state of chaos and confusion.

There are those who say Fulbright was a prophet. It is true that he was a prophet. It is true that he was a prophet. It is true that he was a prophet. It is true that he was a prophet. It is true that he was a prophet.
