NOT JUST A SPOOKY HALLOWEEN STORY THE MYSTERY OF THE EASTERN OREGON CATTLE MUTILATIONS

For the ranchers affected by the cattle mutilations in Harney, Lake, Wheeler and most recently Umatilla County - all located in Eastern Oregon - this is more than a science fiction or mystery novel. This is reality.

The latest mutilation took place in Ukiah, a small town with a population close to 250 people located along Camas Creek in the heart of the Blue Mountains in Umatilla County.

Fee Stubblefield raises cattle as a part of a small cattle ranching operation between Pendleton and Ukiah. Stubblefield, as reported by the East Oregonian, was making his rounds Saturday, September 12th, 2020; checking on his cattle that were near Dixie Ranch Road outside of Ukiah. He said that he saw something sitting in the thicket and upon investigation it turned out to be a dead cow lying on its side in the dirt. He noticed that the skin around the mouth and jaw had been cut away and its tongue had been cut out, lymph glands and the cow's genitals had been cleanly removed and a piece of the cow's ear was cut off and placed on its neck. There was no sign of struggle, no evidence of anyone or anything being in the area near the cow, and there was NO blood.

The Oregon State Police were called out and Stubblefield stated to the East Oregonian that the State trooper confirmed that this was a mutilation kill, not a predator kill. The cow had only been dead for a couple of days, so they were able to obtain good photographic evidence.

More disturbing to Stubblefield is the fact that within the past six months he may have had two other potential mutilations that he had not identified as such because they had not been found as timely as this cow.

Stubblefield has left the cow's carcass where it was found, and has placed several trail cams to monitor the cow and surrounding area. The most eerie development is that the footage revealed that the typical predators and scavengers will not go near the cow's carcass. Coyotes approach it, but keep their distance and scavenger birds may land on the carcass briefly, but quickly fly off.

On Thursday, July 23rd, 2020, Wheeler County Sheriff's Office responded to a very bizarre report of a mutilated cow on rangeland near Fossil.

The rancher, David Hunt, told the Capital Press, "She [the cow] died in a position she couldn't have gotten into by herself. I don't have any kind of logical explanation for it." Hunt is owner of Hunt Ranch and a partner-producer for Painted Hills Natural Beef, Inc. He said he found the cow the morning of July 23rd while conducting his weekly inspection of the pasture. She was located at a spot approximately a half mile from the nearest road.

The black Angus cow was found dead in an upright position with her front legs tucked underneath of her, a position investigators say they haven't seen before. Her tongue, genitals and reproductive organs had been "cut out".

In December 2019, Hunt found a dead bull in the snow with its nose, lips, ears, tongue, tail and genitals removed and drained of blood.

Deputy Jeremiah Holmes of the Wheeler County Sheriff's Office investigated both cases and to date has no leads in either case. However, in this case Deputy Holmes discovered a partial boot print about 100 yards from the carcass.

In Northern Lake County last September 2019, Kenyon Morehouse, a ranch hand on Stephen Roth's Ranch, found a dead mutilated cow when he was tending to the water tanks, as he did every morning.

Lake County Sheriff's Deputy Tom Roark responded to the scene, which was far off of Hwy. 20 on Roth's BLM grazing allotment.

The Christmas Valley Soup Kitchen was founded by Barbara Ferrando. It is quite a labor of love for her. All of the funds necessary for the Soup Kitchen come from her own fund raising efforts, like her community bake sales. Although she does not confess to it, she spends her own money, at times, on the ingredients for her Tuesday meals, as well.

She does the shopping for the meals, and gets up very early on Tuesday mornings to prepare the day's meals. She does have a few volunteers that help set up and clean up afterwards, and help with the bake sales.

Barbara is the dynamo behind the Christmas Valley Trunk or Treat, she is the hostess of the Christmas Valley Bingo nights and The Weekend Market. If that were not enough, she holds a position on the Christmas Valley Park and Recreation board.

So often we take for granted the various community resources, and forget that there are those community members behind the scenes that give their time, money, and energy to make our community a better place to live.

We're being reminded right now how the health of one affects us all.
In a community that cares,

NEWSLETTER

Summer/Fall, 2020

FROM THE DIRECTOR:

I hope you're staying safe and sane! I think the things I miss most right now are seeing the faces of the people we serve, the people who support us and nice smiles from everyone I encounter. Eyes are the window to your soul; I prefer to see your smiles 😊 AND OF COURSE, I MISS HUGS!

-Niki Sampson

WE LOVE
OUR VOLUNTEERS

I would like to pay tribute to ALL of our volunteers who are directly responsible for distributing food to more than 23,000 people in 2019-20!! NOT EVEN A PANDEMIC COULD KEEP THEIR HEARTS AT HOME. THANK YOU FROM THE BOTTOM OF MINE.

LEAF CLOVER.
HARD TO FIND &
LUCKY TO HAVE.

I also want to recognize and thank our Food Bank staff. Since early March, they have given 150% of their hearts and souls. Showing up knowing the task facing our Food Bank during this pandemic. Pitching in with projects outside of the scope of their own job. They stayed healthy and kept their beautiful smiles on their face. THANK YOU ALL SO VERY, VERY MUCH!

AND WITHOUT YOU, OUR FOOD BANK SUPPORTERS.....

Nothing we do would be possible.
Thank you for your monetary gifts AND food.

COVID-19 has left us wondering day to day, what's next? When will schools return to a normal schedule?

One of the big issues this holiday season will be food drives. Many, if not all city and county schools hold holiday food drives. These kids take it very seriously because they know how it helps their friends who may face hunger at home.

These drives provide us with approximately $120,000 worth of food. That's $120,000 I don't have to spend. We literally have a double whammy this year; more families needing food assistance because the kids are home, and no food drives because the kids are home 😞 This is why your support this year will mean more than you'll ever know.

PRODUCE TIME!!

Bring us your extra garden goodies. We can handle as much as you want to give. Also, we can take any and all fruit when your trees are popping at the seams.

The Klamath-Lake Counties Food Bank has a strong board, but there's nothing wrong with making it stronger. If you would like to consider joining our program in the future, please call and we'll chat.

IF YOU'VE RECENTLY MADE A DONATION TO THE FOOD BANK, THANK YOU VERY MUCH. FOR MORE INFORMATION ABOUT THE FOOD BANK OR TO SECURELY DONATE ONLINE VISIT klamathfoodbank.org

North Lake Food Share in Christmas Valley Continues to be a Valuable Resource

For several years, Glenna Wade has been heading up the efforts at the North Lake Food Share. She and her crew put together food boxes for families in need. People from all walks of life; the elderly, families with children, young people just starting out on their own. People needing a little extra to get them by from having to go through a financial set back or just not having enough extra after their living expenses. Whatever the case may be this resource has consistently met the needs every third Tuesday of every month. And in November every year the Food Share distributes Thanksgiving boxes filled with everything (turkey, too!) necessary to fix a great home cooked Thanksgiving dinner. The Thanksgiving boxes are possible due to generous cash donations.

North Lake Food Share is funded by generous donations and is a recipient of food donations from Klamath-Lake Counties Food Bank. Cash donations can be made at Patty Effingham's office.

SOUTH CENTRAL OREGON FIRE MANAGEMENT PARTNERSHIP & LAKEVIEW INTERAGENCY FIRE CENTER

To the Lake County Community:

Fire Managers from the South Central Oregon Fire Management Partnership want to extend our appreciation to the volunteers that make up the Rangeland Fire Protection Associations and Rural Fire Departments in Lake County. In this unprecedented time of having to suppress fires during a pandemic where many fires were burning into and through communities across Oregon, these volunteers sacrificed their time, money, and livelihoods to help their neighbors in a time of need when federal, state, and contract fire suppression resources were spread thin. They communicated with federal and state supervisors as professionals when decisions impacted their personal lives and potential incomes. In doing so, they helped save their neighbors' houses, haystacks, and much of their winter feed for their cattle.

The community of Paisley and its surrounding population would be in much different condition if it were not for the Paisley RFD, Silver Lake RFD, Lakeview RFD, Thomas Creek Westside RFD, High Desert RFPA, Warner Valley RFPA, along with help from Green Diamond Resource Company, Collins Company, and other RFPAs from Harney County.

The rural fire chiefs and presidents of the RFPAs acted in good faith, helping move their resources from house to house to save structures and haystacks. Simultaneously, the High Desert RFPA installed many of the containment lines that protected Paisley's community as the fire encroached.

Many of these same people and organizations provided needed assistance throughout the fire season on fires such as Crane, School House, and many others. We are proud to have worked alongside these volunteers and to be residents of Lake County. We applaud their efforts to fight these fires and begin the restoration process. We will be proud to work with them in the future as the threat from wildfire in our region will continue.

The range cow was lying on her side with her genitals, udder, tongue and heart surgically removed. As in the other cases, there was NO blood.

Deputy Roark told the Blue Mountain Eagle that there was no discerning how the cow died - there was no sign of significant struggle, no bullet wounds, no strangulation marks, no recent lightning storms, no rope burns on trees, not tire tracks, no shoe prints, and no spilled blood. "When a pack of coyotes or birds gets to a carcass, not much is left - bones and hide, unevenly chewed," said Roark. "This was a clean-cut, like it was done with a blade. If somebody was hungry, they would've whittled up a chunk of back meat and taken it home. This wasn't done for food. It was something sinister. I've seen too many crime scenes. But this one's got no evidence. Nothing. It's really bizarre."

The Roths say that this is not the first time that this has happened to their cattle. Twenty years ago Stephen Roth and his father found multiple cattle mutilated in the same way, with the same body parts removed.

A month prior to the Roths' discovery five prized purebred Hereford bulls, valued at $6,000 each, were found mutilated on the Silvies Ranch in Harney County.

As in the other cases the bulls were found in remote locations, this time on U.S. Forest Service grazing allotments. Their coats were reported to have been shiny, and the carcass looked to be deflated instead of normal decay. Their hides were brittle, their genitals, and other body parts removed surgically, and again, NO blood. No evidence. No predators or scavengers near the carcass.

None of the cases mentioned have been solved. Some of the ranchers have offered rewards for information, but nothing substantial has resulted. The theories range from cultists wanting body parts for rituals, to government experiments and to aliens.

These body parts are readily available at any slaughterhouse, so why would someone go to so much trouble, and expense to wrestle a 1,500 to 2,000 pound animal for its parts? The government can create their own ranch for experimenting on cattle, so why would they pursue range cattle in the middle of nowhere?

This is not a new phenomenon. Reports of such unexplained mutilations, carried out on both humans and animals all over the world, have been reported and have baffled investigators for decades, leading to speculation about whether the perpetrators might be otherworldly beings conducting biological experiments on earth's inhabitants.

Since the early 1970's, incidents of mutilated cattle, sheep horses, rabbits, deer, bison and elk have been recorded, with the bloodless corpses often lacking jaw flesh, eyes, ears, tongue, lymph nodes and genitalia.

So numerous did reports of cattle mutilation become in western and mid western states in the 1970s that the FBI was asked to step in and investigate. According to now declassified documents, they were unable to properly perform the task due to "jurisdictional issues."

The FBI documents make clear that the best investigative minds were stumped by these cases. All very similar - remote areas, drained of blood, missing body parts and no evidence of anything or anyone in the vicinity.

In many cases there were reports of strange lights in the night sky, strange sounding engine noises, and sometimes reports of black helicopters in the area before the occurrence.

Linda Moulton Howe, investigative reporter and founder of EarthFiles.com, said "I interviewed a Sheriff in Logan County, Colorado, who told me a veterinarian he had performed a necropsy on a fresh cow mutilation at the pasture site discovered that the entire cow's heart had been removed from inside the pericardium and the chest, without any excision in the pericardium that surrounded the heart and no excision in the cow's chest."

According to experts, to achieve such a feat would require molecular-specific surgical devices capable of going through skin, cartilage, muscle, bone and organs to remove tissue from a specific organ without causing any cutting damage to the rest of the body. Although hypothesized, this is an impossible feat on Earth.

These cases have been investigated by the best and no human or predator has ever been found to be the culprit. -The Editor

Exotic Plants

Corkwood: Duboisia myoporoides R. Br.
Nightshade Family: Solonaceae

Crowded below the decks of the many troopships that rode the rolling waves of the North Atlantic during World War II, thousands of American GI's battled an unarmed but formidable enemy - seasickness. To combat the debilitating malady, military doctors prescribed scopolamine.

One of the drug's major sources is the cork wood, and Australian tree found in the thickets and open woodlands of the coast of Queensland, as well as in the interior of north and central New South Wales. The tree sometimes reaches a height of 40 feet in the wild, but in cultivation kept shrub sized. It has gray, fissured bark and pretty, bell-shaped, white to pale lavender flowers. But it is the broad, lance shaped leaves that yield the drug for which the tree is cultivated. Since mid-20th century, Australian cork wood plantations have been an important source of scopolamine.

The aborigines would submerge branches of cork wood in eel-populated water because something in the tree caused the eels to become lethargic, and very easy prey. Scientists discovered cork wood leaves are rich in the narcotic scopolamine, atropine, and several other alkaloids found in many members of the nightshade family, including belladonna and bittersweet night shade.

Scopolamine's sedative properties were demonstrated when German doctor Carl J. Gauss used the drug to produce his famed "Twilight Sleep", which made child birth relatively painless. Today scopolamine is administered as a tranquilizer in the treatment of drug or alcohol withdrawal and of various psychotic problems. In combination with morphine, scopolamine has a blocking action on the nerves that control a variety of organs, recommending it for controlling violent muscular spasms of the respiratory system that can be life-threatening to asthma sufferers. It is an excellent medication for combating both airsickness and car sickness.

Atrophine, the other important narcotic derived from the leaves of cork wood, is efficacious in drying up such moist areas of the body as the upper throat or nasal passages. It is used to treat hay fever and the common cold. atrophine is valuable, too, in diagnostic and postoperative procedures involving the eye because it has the ability to relax certain eye muscles, dilating the pupil.

The Giving Plate's new North Lake County Kid's Korner is now Open in Christmas Valley

The Giving Plate (TGP) opened its doors in Bend, OR, in April 2010 through the efforts of Gary & Debi Kelso, the organizations founders. Gary and Debi met while serving at Shepherd's House together in early 2007. Debi, a 25 year resident of Bend, had just retired from the school district. Gary, a former business owner from Wisconsin, had completed a discipleship program at the Union Gospel Mission in Salem, OR, before helping to open Shepherd's House in 2005. "While serving together, our eyes were opened to the need our community had for food relief," says Debi. The two decided to do what they could to help. After a great deal of thought and prayer, they used Debi's savings to fund The Giving Plate's startup fees and expenses. This was during the time that Central Oregon, like much of the nation, was experiencing a financial crisis. There was a high rate of unemployment and a great need for their ministry of providing food for the hungry. Their mission statement says it very succinctly "Feeding the hungry today with compassion & hospitality."

Their Christ-centered passion was to serve the community during a poor economic time where many were struggling to make ends meet. Initially, they thought helping 500 families have food on their table would be amazing, but within months of the opening they had registered that 500th family and they began to realize the need was much bigger than they ever imagined. The community need for food continued to rise at an astounding rate, and has not let up.

TGP provided 8,697 food bags of nutrient-dense food to children in 2019 through Kid's Korner food pantry, which is separate from their families monthly food box.

TGP is currently helping 540+ kids per week in 33 Bend / La Pine schools with food for the week-end. In the 2019/2020 school year, they will provide over 21,000 weekend bags of food - this is a 68% increase since adopting the program in June 2018. This is the only program of its kind in the Bend / La Pine school districts.

New Pet Pantry Opens in Christmas Valley

Christmas Valley has a new pet pantry, a nonprofit dedicated to supplying free and low cost pet food and other pet supplies for pets in need. All made possible by the Jones Furry Angel Ranch: Ratchet's Pet Food Pantry and Shana's Pet Supplies. In affiliation with the Healing Heart Rescue Ranch.

This project is the brainchild of Lisa Jones and her dear friend, Shana Lucas. Years ago, Lisa fell upon hard times and was having a difficult time feeding herself and her service dog, Ratchet. She and Shana would talk about how they would someday like to start a food pantry for dogs and other pets, as Lisa had been helped by the local human food pantry, but there was nothing to help to feed her service dog, Ratchet.

Then in 2016, the bottom fell out of Lisa's world. Her faithful companion, Ratchet, passed away. Shortly after, her dear friend, Shana, was killed in a tragic car accident. The dream of the pet food pantry was put on hold indefinitely. Lisa thought her dream was unattainable with all that she was going through at the time.

Lisa moved to Christmas Valley a couple of years ago seeking to ground herself and recover from her trials in life. She credits the staff at La Pine Community Health Center in Christmas Valley for helping her through her healing and self discovery, and helping her regain her confidence.

Lisa says that she does not want people to agonize over how they will feed their pet or to contemplate giving them up when they are facing hard times like she was. "I started meeting good positive people who believed in my wildest dreams and believed that I had what it takes," Lisa, said. "I reached out to a few people and asked if they thought there is a need for a pet food pantry." She met with a lot of support and found that there is a need.

Lisa and Shana's dream is taking shape more rapidly than Lisa expected. She recently received a generous donation of cat and dog food and other pet supplies, and a wonderful volunteer was able to pick it up for her.

Lisa recently purchased a fifth wheel travel trailer to use as storage and as an office for the pet pantry and pet supply nonprofit, named after Ratchet and Shana. Lisa has a new "fur baby" emotional support dog named Chase. She and Chase will be filling orders as fast as they can, and several community members have already offered to volunteer to help.

Jones Furry Angel Ranch: Ratchet's Pet Food Pantry and Shana's Pet Supplies welcomes volunteers and donations of pet food and supplies. Monetary donations are greatly appreciated, as well, and can be made through the organization's GoFundMe account.

You and your child are invited to join Mrs. Anthony on the first and third Thursdays of each month from 10:00 a.m. - 11:30 a.m. at the North Lake School annex building for a Mommy and Me Play Group.
