North Lake E. M. S. Special Taxing District now slated for November 2021 Ballot

On January 6, 2021, the Lake County Board of Commissioners held their first regular session of 2021 at the Christmas Valley Community Hall. During this session the Commissioner's were to hold the first of two scheduled hearings necessary to pass a resolution to establish a North Lake E.M.S. special taxing district to be placed on the May ballot, however, before the meeting began Blaine Nofziger, a representative of the North Lake E.M.S. board stated that they would like to postpone until the November 2021 ballot. This matter was brought before the Board in the Fall of 2020 after submittal of a citizen petition and the necessary filings by the North Lake County E.M.S. board.

The Commissioner's decided to carry on with the hearing for the sake of the community members that were already in attendance.

North Lake County E.M.S. is a nonprofit ambulance service that was established in 1959. At the January 6th hearing, Harold Miles, one of the founders of the ambulance service, told of having to throw a mattress in the back of an old pickup truck to take a man that was having a heart attack to the hospital back in those early days.

The ambulance service currently bills insurance or medicare for their services, but that does not always cover the entire expense of the run. Citizens in the Christmas Valley area can sign up for membership through North Lake E.M.S. and Air Link to cover the expense they are responsible for if their individual insurance or medicare does not cover the entire expense. What about those that can't pay? The ambulance service takes the hit.

The North Lake County E.M.S. has enlisted the assistance of David Kerr, former North Lake County School Superintendent, to help coordinate this effort of a special taxing district. In a letter to the editor of the Lake County Examiner, December 2020, he explains that "over the last ten years we have doubled our ambulance call volume which is straining our already over worked and dwindling volunteer staff. Since that time we began researching the financial feasibility of becoming a tax base funded special district which would allow us to have paid personnel to overcome this issue."

At the hearing Daniel Miles, a North Lake E.M.S. board member and grandson of Harold Miles, stated that the goal is to have a staff of nine employees of different levels of E.M.S. certification. With one of those employees to be a certified Paramedic.

When asked what the average weekly runs are for the ambulance service, it was stated that the ambulance service averages about four runs a week.

The greatest concern for the community members that were in attendance was the increased cost of their property taxes. It was stated at the hearing that the North Lake E.M.S. taxing district will be $2.73 per $1,000.00 of assessed land value. The taxing district will be one of the largest taxing districts in North Lake County. It is estimated that the revenue generated will give the North Lake County E.M.S. a budget of approximately $380,000.00.

The North Lake E.M.S. board plans to have more informational community meetings at least three months prior to the November ballot. The hearing scheduled in February is postponed until further notice.

For questions call Blaine Nofziger, North Lake E.M.S. board member, at (541) 408-2745.

One Man's Dream Changed the World

On January 15, 1929, Martin Luther King, Jr. is born in Atlanta, Georgia, the son of a Baptist minister. King received a doctorate degree in theology and in 1955 helped organize the first major protest of the African American civil rights movement: the successful Montgomery Bus Boycott. Influenced by Mohandas Gandhi, he advocated civil disobedience and nonviolent resistance to segregation in the South. The peaceful protests he led throughout the American South were often met with violence, but King and his followers persisted, and the movement gained momentum.

A powerful orator, King appealed to Christian and American ideals and won growing support from the federal government and Northern whites. In 1963, Bayard Rustin and A. Philip Randolph led the massive March on Washington for Jobs and Freedom; the event's grand finale was King's famous "I Have a Dream" speech. Two hundred and fifty thousand people gathered outside the Lincoln Memorial to hear the stirring speech.

In 1964, the civil rights movement achieved two of its greatest successes: the ratification of the 24th Amendment, which abolished the poll tax, and the Civil Rights Act of 1964, which prohibited racial discrimination in employment and education and outlawed racial segregation in public facilities. Later that year, King became the youngest person to win the Nobel Peace Prize (in 2014 Malala Yousafzai became the youngest to receive the prize at age 17). In the late 1960s, King openly criticized U.S. involvement in Vietnam and turned his efforts to winning economic rights for poor Americans. He was assassinated in Memphis, Tennessee, on April 4, 1968.

We celebrate Martin Luther King Day on the third Monday of January; this year on January 18, 2021. Canada, Japan, Israel, and the Netherlands also share in their own observance of a Martin Luther King holiday.

at the "March on Washington," 1963 (abridged)

I am happy to join with you today in what will go down in history as the greatest demonstration for freedom in the history of our nation.

Five score years ago a great American in whose symbolic shadow we stand today signed the Emancipation Proclamation. This momentous decree is a great beacon light of hope to millions of Negro slaves who had been seared in the flames of withering injustice. It came as a joyous daybreak to end the long night of their captivity. But 100 years later the Negro still is not free. One hundred years later the life of the Negro is still badly crippled by the manacles of segregation and the chains of discrimination. One hundred years later the Negro lives on a lonely island of poverty in the midst of a vast ocean of material prosperity. One hundred years later the Negro is still languished in the corners of American society and finds himself in exile in his own land. So we've come here today to dramatize a shameful condition.

In a sense we've come to our nation's capital to cash a check. When the architects of our Republic wrote the magnificent words of the Constitution and the Declaration of Independence, they were signing a promissory note to which every American was to fall heir. This note was a promise that all men—yes, black men as well as white men—would be guaranteed the unalienable rights of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. . . .

We must forever conduct our struggle on the high plane of dignity and discipline. We must not allow our creative protests to degenerate into physical violence. . . . must not lead us to distrust all white people, for many of our white brothers, as evidenced by their presence here today, have come to realize that their destiny is tied up with our destiny.

. . . We cannot walk alone. And as we walk we must make the pledge that we shall always march ahead. We cannot turn back. There are those who are asking the devotees of civil rights, "When will you be satisfied?" We can never be satisfied as long as the Negro is the victim of the unspeakable horrors of police brutality.

We can never be satisfied as long as our bodies, heavy with the fatigue of travel, cannot gain lodging in the motels of the highways and the hotels of the cities.

We cannot be satisfied as long as the Negro's basic mobility is from a smaller ghetto to a larger one. We can never be satisfied as long as our children are stripped of their adulthood and robbed of their dignity by signs stating "For Whites Only."

We cannot be satisfied as long as the Negro in Mississippi cannot vote and the Negro in New York believes he has nothing for which to vote.

Reprinted by arrangement with The Heirs to the Estate of Martin Luther King Jr., c/o Writers House as the proprietor New York, NY. Copyright: © 1963 Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. © renewed 1991 Coretta Scott King

No, no, we are not satisfied, and we will not be satisfied until justice rolls down like waters and righteousness like a mighty stream.

I say to you today, my friends, though, even though we face the difficulties of today and tomorrow, I still have a dream. It is a dream deeply rooted in the American dream. I have a dream that one day this nation will rise up, live out the true meaning of its creed: "We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal."

I have a dream that one day on the red hills of Georgia sons of former slaves and the sons of former slave-owners will be able to sit down together at the table of brotherhood. I have a dream that one day even the state of Mississippi, a state sweltering with the heat of injustice, sweltering with the heat of oppression, will be transformed into an oasis of freedom and justice.

I have a dream that my four little children will one day live in a nation where they will not be judged by the color of their skin but by the content of their character. I have a dream . . . I have a dream that one day in Alabama, with its vicious racists, with its governor having his lips dripping with the words of interposition and nullification, one day right there in Alabama little black boys and black girls will be able to join hands with little white boys and white girls as sisters and brothers.

I have a dream today . . .

This will be the day when all of God's children will be able to sing with new meaning. "My country, 'tis of thee, sweet land of liberty, of thee I sing. Land where my fathers died, land of the pilgrim's pride, from every mountain side, let freedom ring." And if America is to be a great nation, this must become true. So let freedom ring from the prodigious hilltops of New Hampshire. Let freedom ring from the mighty mountains of New York. Let freedom ring from the heightening Alleghenies of Pennsylvania. Let freedom ring from the snowcapped Rockies of Colorado. Let freedom ring from the curvaceous slopes of California.

But not only that. Let freedom ring from Stone Mountain of Georgia. Let freedom ring from Lookout Mountain of Tennessee. Let freedom ring from every hill and molehill of Mississippi, from every mountain side. Let freedom ring

When we allow freedom to ring—when we let it ring from every city and every hamlet, from every state and every city, we will be able to speed up that day when all of God's children, black men and white men, Jews and Gentiles, Protestants and Catholics, will be able to join hands and sing in the words of the old Negro spiritual, "Free at last, Free at last, Great God a-mighty, We are free at last."

Exotic Plants

Ever wonder where some things come from? I do, and I found some very interesting things, so I am doing a series of articles on these items as curiosities.

AGAR: Gelidium cartilagineum (L.) Gaill.

AGAR Family: Gelidiaceae

At first glance the comparatively plain red seaweed G. cartilagineum does not appear to be an important plant. However, it has medicinal value, and it makes a great contribution to the bacteriological sciences.

Agar, as G. cartilagineum is more familiarly called, red seaweed, a member of a large group that includes some of the world's most beautiful seaweeds. The colors of red seaweeds, ranging from a soft rosy pink to a striking purplish red, are due to pigments that camouflage their green chlorophyll. These pigments serve to soak up light when it is scarce, and those seaweeds that inhabit deep, dark waters are more colorful than those that dwell near the light in shallow tidal areas.

Small, reddish brown, and cylindrical in appearance, it reaches only about 6 inches in height, but its diminutive size belies the toughness of its bushy stems and branches. The cells of this and other red seaweeds contain an odorless, tasteless, colorless, and transparent substance commonly called AGAR. To produce agar, the manufacturers first boil the seaweed in plain water or in water which sulfuric acid has been added; then they dry and clean the gelatinous result. One of the most interesting properties of agar is that it is indigestible by practically all bacteria. So, it is an excellent base on which to control the growth of laboratory bacterial cultures the bacteria consume the medium in which they are grown but not the agar itself. This important fact was discovered in the 1800's by the pioneering German bacteriologist Robert Koch. Because agar is also indigestible by humans, it is a common ingredient of packaged diet foods; it fills the stomach without adding calories. In the Far East, agar has been a popular food additive for centuries. The Japanese are particularly partial to it and put it in sauces, soups, jellies, and deserts. Often, in the West, it is used as a gelling and stabilizing agent by meat and fish canneries and by manufacturers of baked goods, dairy products, and candies.

Agar's extremely useful medicinal asset is that it is hydrophilic; that is, it absorbs water. Hence, it is effective as a bulk laxative: the agar soaks up the water in the intestines and increases the bulk of waste material; the increased bulk, in turn, stimulates peristalsis (the rhythmic motions of the intestinal wall), which prompts evacuation of the wastes. Because of its water absorbent capacity, agar has also been employed commercially in the impression materials used by dentists and in manufacture of some emulsions, lubricants, suppositories, and

David Paris Van Dusen

January 10, 1959 - December 21, 2020

David Paris Van Dusen, our brother, born January 10, 1959, passed away of multiple medical conditions on December 21, 2020. He was 61 years old.

He took care of our grandfather, George A. Wyant, after his wife Hazel, our grandmother Wyant, passed away of lymph cancer.

David earned a CNA at Evergreen Care Center in Lincoln City, Oregon, then worked for Albany General Hospital's home care service before moving to Christmas Valley on July 4, 1991. He worked for the ZX ranch a few years then for Don Boyles, until a second heart attack forced him to stop working.

He liked fishing, his cat, Uncle Bibb, classic vehicles, our flower garden, his prayer books, and loved the Lord. He is sorely missed by the family.

David is preceded in death by our oldest brother, Matthew T. Van Dusen; our dad, Thomas J. Van Dusen and our mother, Phyllis J. Van Dusen.

We thank everyone for their caring cards and gifts to us. It is very appreciated.

Services will be in the summer. Nobody stands out in the cold.

~Thomas B. Van Dusen
