OUR LAKE COUNTY // RURAL VOICES ON A CHANGING LAND PROJECT 2021

By Carolyn Law

Keepsake postcard in the Rural Voices project mailer

As a re-cap for those who may not have heard before – “RURAL VOICES ON A CHANGING LAND” invites the Lake County community to join together to capture and share the depth of appreciation and understanding each of you have for the land you live on and in. This project will collect and share your deep connection to the landscape and environment. The outcome of the project is sharing - through your distinctive words and photographs - the love of the land that leads to understanding the importance of the community taking good care of the land looking ahead to many future generations. We know that Lake County folks have a deep understanding and appreciation of their land – it’s diverse landscapes and nature. When you each sit back and reflect on what is amazing and also important to pay attention to about what is happening in and on yourland, there is so much to talk about with your deep knowledge and experience. A short list includes the dynamic vastness of the ever-changing sky and clouds, weather changes sweeping in; the incredible vistas with dramatic changes of shifting light and season; the soil, grasses, forests, rivers, and the most delicate of wildflowers; animals and birds; tons of recreation, ranching, farming, many special places, the drama of impacts to the land from fire, juniper encroachment, depleted snowpack and fast melts, watershed restoration. But there’s always more. ALREADY HAPPENING - Visit the incredible Facebook group page started by Paisley photographer, Clark

Heglar. Go check it out and enjoy the many wonderful photos of your land. Add some of your own by joining the group! Search for Our Lake County Landscape Photography on Facebook.

Make your mark of a special place on the Lake County map in the interactive website – www.ourlakecounty.org hosted by the Lake County Library system. This is a way to create a community story about your knowledge of the land that personalizes a general map. It is a new way to tell a community story about your land. It is a story-telling tool that can be used in many ways - for example school and community history projects going forward, citizen science projects, and more.

WHAT'S COMING UP -

Look for the a directly mailed piece in your mailbox early April – after Easter. We are mailing to 2000 folks. Inside is a lovely keepsake postcard with landscape photographs. Plus another stamped return postcard to write down your thoughts to three questions. Drop it in the mail by April 30. We'll collect everyone's comments, find the patterns and share them back. This will really tell the deep story about your connection and understanding of the land and environment. If you don't get a mailer, drop into the Lakeview library and pick up both postcards.

A 2nd Landscape Photography Show will be installed in Lakeview business windows early May. We hope to have a community "opening" one Saturday in May, with a date to be decided. Watch for that. It's a chance to gather and talk about the land.

WE INVITE YOU TO JOIN IN AND SHARE YOUR WORDS AND PHOTOGRAPHS!!

Please talk this project - as word-of-mouth will surely encourage folk's participation.

2021 ISSUES IN CHANGES IN THE NLHD's PERSONNEL

Your Board President, Carl Shumway, who has served as Board President since the inception of the District, is retiring. To list the many ways Carl has worked over the years to secure medical and behavioral health services for the communities in north Lake County would be impossible. He has worked tirelessly, navigating the bureaucratic circles in Lake County to pursue entitled services on the north end. He has worked as the maintenance manager for the facility on Bay Road and has always been proactive in seeking new and better ways to improve services and equipment utilized in the Bay Road facility.

Sandie Maerz, who also has served the NLHD since its inception, is retiring her position on the board. Sandie started out as Office Manager, building the administrative infrastructure to help the District tract expenses and income, upgrades in equipment and services, manage communication with residents and business partners and maintain relationships with the private practitioners who provide services in the south wing on Bay Road. Sandie surrendered the Office Manager position, (to me as it turned out), in the spring of 2017 to become a board member and has served the community well with her insight and dedication to improving services to local residents.

For myself, I have thoroughly enjoyed working the District Office Manager's position and partnering with such dedicated and community minded people as those that serve the District and those on the NLHD Board.

Carl, Sandie and I have made the decision to retire our positions with the NLHD board. The three of us, along with the remaining members of the board, are excited at the prospect of new members coming in with fresh ideas and a new prospective on how best to serve the community.

Please welcome Karen Morgan as the new Office Manager. Karen will serve to maintain communications and record keeping with Lake County, the practitioners in the Bay Road facility, the community and NLHD's business partners. The Board President and Board Member positions vacated by Carl and Sandie will be available June 1st, 2021. Please be sure to VOTE IN THE MAY ELECTIONS for your preferred candidate to fill these positions. There are already some candidates who have voiced an interest in holding a position on the board, but any community member invested in playing an active role in continuing to expand medical and behavioral health services is encouraged to contact Karen at 541-576-2165 for information on how to be placed on the May ballot.

I know I speak for Carl and Sandie both when I say it's been a pleasure to serve the communities in north Lake County and we look forward to the bright future sure to evolve.

Exotic Plants

Lignum Vitae / Guaiacum Officinale L.
Caltrop Family : Zygophyllaceae

Early in the 16th century, an explorer in the Caribbean heard about the guaiac, a tree that, according to local inhabitants, contained a drug that could cure most ailments. As it turned out, the tree, known as lignum vitae ("wood of life"), is remarkable on several counts, all having to do with the hardness of the wood and its rich supply of fats and resins.

The wood, the hardest in commercial use, is so loaded with these fats and resins that objects made from it are self-lubricating and nearly impervious to water. Until the advent of high-quality plastics, lignum vitae was the material of choice for such items as pulley heaves, machine bushings, and propeller shafts for steamships. It has also been used to make axles, bowling balls, chisel handles, mallets, and other objects that must absorb great stress.

The acrid-tasting, brownish resin contained in the heartwood has both medicinal and non medicinal applications. One highly dramatic non medicinal use is based on the fact that, combined with an alcohol solution, the resin turns blue when it comes into contact with bloodstains. Hence, it serves police and other investigators in finding bloodstains that might go undetected.

The wood was originally taken to Europe as a much-needed cure for gout and syphilis. The treatment for syphilis achieved great if misplaced acclaim during the 16th century.

It involved giving massive doses of the resin - gotten by boiling the wood - to patients who were wrapped in tight, head-to-toe plasters and confined to very hot rooms for a month. During this time they received little food, but in addition to the resin, they were fed large doses of mercury. Many died from this treatment; few, if any were cured of syphilis.

In recent times, scientists have found that two of the resin's most active ingredients, guaiaretic and guaiaconic acids, are effective anti-inflammatory agents, local stimulants, and laxatives. Because of the anti-inflammatory property, the substances are used in pharmaceutical preparations for sore throats and for inflammatory diseases like rheumatoid arthritis and gout.

The lignum vitae grows on relatively arid land in Northern South America, the West Indies, and the Florida Keys. An evergreen that can reach 30 feet tall, (but seldom grows more than half that), it is recognizable by its furrowed greenish-brown bark. Its leaves are divided into two or three pairs of pale green leaflets 4 to 6 inches long, and its small blue flowers grow in fragrant terminal clusters.
