READING COLORS YOUR WORLD @ YOUR LIBRARY

LAKEVIEW, OR—Are you ready for Reading to Color Your World while you prevent the summer reading slide at the 2021 Summer Reading Program at the Lake County Libraries? This summer, school age youth will enjoy songs, games, crafts, stories, snacks, and activities to explore the many colors found in the world and in your imagination. Activities include making Kinetic Sand, competing in an inter-branch competition to create the longest Rainbow Chain, and creating Nebula Art. Registration kicks off the program the week of June 21, 2021, and includes a new book for every reader.

At this time, when COVID-19 restrictions have not yet been fully lifted, the library plans to retain some of the features from the 2020 program. In addition to reading calendars and stickers, the ReaderZone app will again be offered to easily track children's and teen's reading. All outside performers and special programs will be virtual, but the library plans to allow families to attend in-person events where the special program will be screened, and activity packets given out. You will also be able to watch virtual programs from home or anywhere you have Internet access.

Where possible, all programs will be held outdoors or divided between indoor and outdoor spaces to increase capacity. There is no need to reserve a seat in advance, but be aware that capacity limits could be in place at the time of the program. Current capacity limits and procedures on masks and physical distancing that apply to the summer reading program each week will be posted on the library website.

All programs begin the week of June 21 and last programs are held the week of August 16th, 2021. For those going into kindergarten through 6th grade, programs will be as follows: at the Main Library on Thursdays at 10 AM or 2 PM; at the Paisley Community Center on Tuesdays at 10 AM; and in Christmas Valley Tuesdays at 2:00 PM (location TBD). For those going into 7th –

12th grades, programs will be as follows: at the Main Library on Wednesdays at 3:30 PM; at the Paisley Community Center on Thursdays at 11:00 AM; in Christmas Valley Tuesdays at 3:30 PM (location TBD).

The Summer Reading Program is supported in part by Oregon's Ready to Read grant through the Oregon State Library. For more information contact David Lev at 541-947-6019, or www.lakecountylibrary.org, or your local library.

The Man Who Inspired Father's Day Was a Single Dad and a Civil War Vet

By: DAVE ROOS

William Jackson Smart was a twice-married, twice-widowed Civil War veteran and father of 14 children, one of whom dedicated her life to the creation of Father's Day in honor of her devoted and selfless dad.

The story goes that William's daughter, Sonora Smart Dodd, was attending one of the first official Mother's Day services in 1909 at her church in Spokane, Washington, when she had an epiphany—if mothers deserved a day in honor of their loving service, why not fathers?

When Sonora was 16, her mother Ellen died, leaving William as a single father to Sonora and her five younger brothers. And by Sonora's account, he performed brilliantly. "I remember everything about him," Sonora said many years later to the Spokane Daily Chronicle. "He was both father and mother to me and my brothers and sisters."

Sonora's mother Ellen, herself a widow, had three children from a previous marriage. On top of that, William had also been married and widowed before he met Sonora's mother. William had five children with his first wife, Elizabeth, who were already grown when William became a widower for the second time.

In 1910, Sonora brought a petition before the Spokane Ministerial Alliance to recognize the fathers like William on June 5, her dad's birthday. The local clergy liked the idea of a special Father's Day service, but couldn't pull something together so quickly, so they settled for June 19, the third Sunday in June.

On that first Father's Day in 1910, church sermons across Spokane were dedicated to dear old dad, red and white roses were passed out in honor of living and deceased fathers, the mayor of Spokane and governor of Washington issued proclamations, and Sonora found her calling. She would spend much of the next 60 years pushing for the official recognition of Father's Day as a national holiday. William Jackson Smart, the original inspiration for Father's Day, was born in Arkansas in 1842 and records show that he enlisted as a Union soldier there in 1863. That was odd, because Arkansas was a Confederate state. Spokane resident, Jerry Numbers, who owned what had been Sonora's home, researched the Smart family history for Spokane's Father's Day Centennial Celebration in 2010. Numbers says that William, in fact, fought for both sides in the Civil War.

Driving a supply wagon for Confederate troops, William was captured in the Battle of Pea Ridge, a decisive Union victory in Arkansas in 1862. Rather than languish in a prisoner of war camp, he opted to join the northern cause. As indication that William was a "Reb" before he was a "Yank," Sonora was a member of both the United Daughters of the Confederacy and the Daughters of Union Veterans.

When Sonora was born in 1882, William and his second wife Ellen were living on a "coal ranch" in Jenny Lind, Arkansas. Instead of mining for coal, William and the family "farmed" it, collecting chunks of coal from the surface and carting it to town for sale. William and Ellen sold the property in 1887 for $5,000—a handsome sum at the time—and the family traveled by train to a new homestead outside of Spokane. (The farm in Arkansas would turn out to be one of the most productive coal fields in the entire nation.)

It was on the Smart's family farm near Creston, Washington, where William's second wife died and he became a widower again at the age of 56. His youngest son was seven or eight and Sonora, his oldest child still living at home, was 16. In Sonora's memories of this difficult time, she recalls her father as a "great home person," a man who exemplified fatherly love and protection.

That first Father's Day celebration in Spokane might have remained a local tradition if not for the perseverance of Sonora Smart Dodd. Following the 1910 Father's Day observance, William Jennings Bryan, one of the most famous politicians of the time, sent Sonora a congratulatory letter, which sparked a rush of national media attention on Sonora and Spokane.

Sonora won the support of her congressmen, who began to lobby for the creation of a national holiday. In 1916, President Woodrow Wilson celebrated Father's Day in Spokane during a visit to Washington. We don't know if William Jackson Smart was there to shake the president's hand, but it would have been one of his last Father's Days. William died in 1919.

Much more than a Father's Day booster, Sonora Smart Dodd was an accomplished artist, poet, children's book author, funeral home director, and founding member of just about every civic organization in Spokane. But she never let go of her determination to give fathers like hers the recognition they deserved.

It wasn't until 1972, six years before Sonora's death at the age of 96, that President Richard Nixon finally signed a Congressional resolution declaring the third Sunday in June to be Father's Day. Her dad, no doubt, would have been proud.

What is Naturopathy

Naturopathy is the foundation of medicine, particularly in treating chronic illnesses. Naturopathy uses natural elements in treatment, such as diet, fasting, exercise, massage, stress management, sunlight, herbs, and water. All of these are "natural", so to speak. The principle is always to apply natural support and stimulation to the mind and body, with the aim of enhancing self-healing.

These concepts of natural medicine can be found in all cultures of the world from Europe to America to India to China to Japan. They remain the same and always revolve around the use of natural factors. Other frequently used alternative methods, homeopathy for example, are not naturopathy. This is important to scientific discussions. There is some negativity and controversy surrounding naturopathy. A common misunderstanding is that naturopathy may advise patients to avoid conventional treatment. This is not the true purpose. Naturopathy aims to support or compliment conventional medicine its the best of both worlds.

In Germany, this is made clear by regulation, as all naturopathic doctors are MDs and have to have a certified specialization in a field of conventional medicine.

It is possible that the use of naturopathy results in a reduced need for medication. Example: a patient switches to a plant based diet could experience a normalization in blood pressure, resulting in a decreased need for medication which does not put naturopathy at odds with conventional medicine its simply a sign of supported self-healing similarly, an herba-treatment may result in a reduced need for painkillers, which will help a patient avoid potential serious side effects such as renal failure or gastrointestinal bleeding. These are positive consequences of naturopathy medicine and itegrative medicine, and do not mean that they are opposed to each other. It's pure synergy. This is how more and more patients want to be treated.

The biggest challenge will be the increasing life expectancy in the developed world. If we do not succeed ub statubg geaktgt kib-germ our increased lifespan will only result in more years of living with disease. Who wants that?

Natural healing, with its complex biological approach, seems to be the right answer for the increasing number of chronic diseases that are the result of stress, an unhealthy diet, and a sedentary and nature deprived lifestyle. Because nature and humans have lived in close interdependence so many years, explains why natural methods are so powerful in lifestyle-related diseases. Thousands of patients have become cured, or at least much improved, through the use of integrative natural therapies. Up to 80% of chronic diseases can be prevented or treated by naturopathy and life style methods.
