Desert Whispers would like to thank all of our advertisers that have stuck with us while we have been going through the hardship of not being able to get our Xerox printing supplies in a timely manner and now not being able to find a reliable source for our bulk 11x17 paper. We have recently had to order our paper from a different source at nearly three times the cost that we are used to.

Through it all we have NOT raised our rates. We apologize that the printed version of the DW has sometimes lagged, and we are confident that things will get better.

On a very positive note, our online and social media views of the DW have reached record viewing up from 80 - 150 views when I first started with the paper to now 2,800 to 3,500 views. Your ads are being seen!

Thank you for your patience and support!

SEPTEMBER IS NATIONAL CLEAN UP MONTH

National Cleanup Month events are held throughout September and include a focus on events on public lands on the fourth Saturday of the month.

National Clean Up Day is held annually in the United States and globally on the third Saturday of September. In the United States, there are cleanups held in every State and Territory. It promotes country-scale organized and individual cleanup events and volunteering to keep the outdoors clean and prevent plastic from entering the ocean. National Clean Up Day is organized by Clean Trails, a nonprofit organization founded by Bill Willoughby and Steve Jewett.

The inaugural National Clean Up Day was held in 2017 and had more than 225,000 volunteers. The 2018 event had over 1,500,000 volunteers, 14 million pounds of waste collected, and was held in conjunction with the inaugural World Cleanup Day.

The 2019 cleanup received nearly two million volunteers and resulted in the collection of 18 million pounds of waste. The U.S. event is coordinated with World Cleanup Day and saw a combined 20 million volunteers in 170 countries, which is the largest, single day global volunteer event. Beginning in 2018, the U.S. Department of Transportation participated in cleanups on their local and interstate highway systems.

Day and Keep America Beautiful for the inaugural Earth Day Clean Up and had over 500,000 volunteers working to clean up trash and litter nationally. In 2020, the Great Global Clean Up by Earth Day was originally planned to include thousands of large group cleanups but most events were cancelled as a result of the COVID-19 pandemic. Instead, Earth Day and presenting partners World Clean Up Day, National Clean Up Day and Keep America Beautiful organized individual activities like Plogging and the TrashTag Challenge.

In 2020, National Clean Up Day introduced the Tailored Clean Up program for businesses and cities. The program is available to any participating business, educational institution, land manager, government entity or nonprofit. The Tailored Clean Up page may be used for any cleanup activity on any date in the United States, Canada, India or China. The Join a Clean Up, cleanup mapping pages, and reporting pages may be used for any cleanup worldwide on any date. National Clean Up Day pivoted in 2020 due to COVID-19 from large scale cleanups to individual cleanups. They had over 671,000 sign ups by individuals, municipalities, schools, and companies.

Litter in the United States is a major environmental issue and littering is often a criminal offense, punishable with a fine as set out by statutes in many places.

and court prosecutions are used to help curtail littering. All three are part of a "comprehensive response to environmental violators", write Epstein and Hammett, researchers for the United States Department of Justice.

Littering and dumping laws, found in all fifty United States, appear to take precedence over municipal ordinances in controlling violations and act as public safety, not aesthetic measures. Similar from state-to-state, these laws define who violators are, the type or "function" of the person committing the action, and what items must be littered or dumped to constitute an illegal act. Municipal ordinances and state statutes require a "human action" in committing illegal littering or dumping, for one to be "held in violation." Most states require law enforcement officers or designated, authorized individuals, to "... witness the illegal act to write a citation." Together, prosecutions and punitive fines are important in fighting illegal littering and dumping.

A significant portion of litter along roadways in the U.S. is now being attributed to improperly tarped vehicles such as open-bed vehicles as well as trash and recycling collection vehicles that have not been properly secured.

A national survey of United States prosecutors noted the most important factor in prosecuting an offense was the "degree of harm" a violation posed and the "criminal intent" of the offender. America's most prosecuted littering offense involve illegal hazardous waste disposals. Civil and criminal fines are the "most common strategy governments use to control environmental behaviors." Most offenders settle outside of court. For small littering, a monetary penalty and/or a specified number of hours picking up litter or community service is the typical punishment. Going to jail for a littering/dumping conviction is rare.

For example, in California the punishment for first-time littering starts at a minimum $250 fine and eight hours of picking up roadside litter. A defendant's third offense and all subsequent offenses are punished with a maximum penalty of a $3,000 fine and 24 hours of litter clean-up (per offense). Such penalties are often prominently posted on roadside signs.

In Idaho, the Comprehensive Litter Prevention and Abatement Act was signed into law in 2006. Litterers can be fined up to $180 when including a sub charge of US$80 and be ordered to clean a littered area in the community.

In Washington State, the littering of (especially lit) cigarettes can incur a fine of up to $500. During the summer months, drought-like conditions and tinder-dry forests, lit or smoldering debris have started many wildfires. State litter surveys have shown that an average of 352 pounds of litter is picked up for every mile of highway including about 3,000 cigarette butts. In 2002, some 350 car accidents involved litter or road debris.

In the state of Oregon, throwing a lighted cigarette or other tobacco product is a Class B misdemeanor, and is punishable by a fine of up to $2,500 and 5 years in prison. This is in addition to penalties for "placing offensive substances in waters, on highways or other property" which is a Class A misdemeanor and carries with it a maximum fine of $6,250 and 10 years in prison.

If everyone around the globe does their part, our planet will continue to thrive for many generations to come.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Several of the properties in the Christmas Valley township have utility easements for the Christmas Valley Water District.

When you have a utility easement on your property, the utility company/Water District may have a range of legal rights.

A few restrictions you might face include:

- Utility company/Water District access without your approval.
- Utility company/Water District may restrict your use of the easement when your use can harm underground water mains, valves, water meters, and the like.
- Restrictions on physical alterations: You may want to make an improvement to a certain section of your property. But the utility easement may prevent certain upgrades, such as erecting a fence or a gate.
- Vegetation restrictions: The utility company may require regular access to a particular area and constantly tear up your garden. Additionally, many utility easements limit the planting of major trees in a specified area.

If you're considering purchasing a property with a utility easement, take some time to research the local laws and regulations.

If you have questions regarding your utility easement call:
(541) 576-2090 or (541) 947-6921

DEQ Air Quality Advisory Extended for parts of Central and Northeast Oregon

Sept. 14, 2022 - Sept. 16, with potential to extend through the weekend or longer.

QUICK FACTS

Location: Baker, Deschutes, northern Klamath, northern Lake, eastern Lane, Union, Wallowa counties.

Smoke source: Cedar Creek and Double Mountain fires.

The Oregon Department of Environmental Quality and Lane Regional Air Protection Agency extended an air quality advisory Wednesday for Baker, Deschutes, northern Klamath, northern Lake, eastern Lane, Union and Wallowa counties due to smoke from the Cedar Creek fire near Oakridge and the Double Mountain fire near Imnaha.

Crook, Grant, Harney, Malheur, Umatilla and Wheeler counties have been removed from the advisory due to improving conditions.

DEQ and LRAPA expect the air quality advisory to last until at least Friday, with potential to extend through the weekend depending on weather and fire activity.

Smoke levels can change rapidly depending on weather. Check current conditions on the Oregon Smoke Information Blog, DEQ's Air Quality Index, or by downloading the free OregonAIR app on your smartphone.

Smoke can irritate the eyes and lungs and worsen some medical conditions. People most at risk include infants and young children, people with heart or lung disease, older adults and pregnant people.

Protect yourself and your family when smoke levels are high:

Stay inside if possible. Keep windows and doors closed. If it's too hot, run air conditioning on recirculate or consider moving to a cooler location.

Avoid strenuous outdoor activity.

Use high-efficiency particulate air (HEPA) filters in indoor ventilation systems or portable air purifiers. Or create your own air purifying filter by following these instructions.

Be aware of smoke in your area and avoid places with the highest levels.

When air quality improves to moderate or healthy (yellow or green on the Air Quality Index), open windows and doors to air out homes and businesses.

If you have a breathing plan for a medical condition, be sure to follow it and keep any needed medications refilled.

Cloth, dust and surgical masks don't protect from the harmful particles in smoke. N95 or P100 respirators approved by NIOSH may offer protection, but they must be properly selected and worn. Select a NIOSH-approved respirator with a N, R or P alongside the number 95, 99 or 100. Learn how to put on and use a respirator. Respirators won't work for children as they don't come in children's sizes. People with heart or lung conditions should consult their health care provider before wearing a respirator.

Additional resources: Find a cleaner air space in your area: Visit 211.org and search for "Wildfire Related Clean Air Shelters." Or call 211 any time or day

Quality Care Close to Home

Lake County Public Health is happy to announce that we have hired a new nurse for our Christmas Valley office. She is scheduled to start in January 2023.

In the interim, we will be visiting Christmas Valley once a month; monthly visits are starting September 29th. We encourage the public to call 541-947-6045 to make appointments for WIC and OHP and in advance to schedule any special needs they might have, as our staff needs to prepare for that.

Thank you for your continued patience and we apologize for any hardship this has caused.

Please call now to schedule for October and November services.

Autumn is coming
With gentle breezes
And howling winds

Autumn is coming
To change the colors
To red, brown, and gold

Upon the forest floor
Will lie the leaves of all the trees

When Autumn is here

When the days cool
And the nights grow
long
With a bright silver
moon in the sky

When the sleepiness sets in
We will sleep until Winter breaks

Autumn is coming

An obvious success in caterpillar pupating to mature Monarch butterfly !!! I checked the chrysalis (cocoon) yesterday late afternoon. It was still in solid green stage. IF the pupae 'dies' within the chrysalis, the chrysalis turns 'black', with the dead pupae within the chrysalis. On other hand, the last few hours of transformation to adult butterfly, the chrysalis turns transparent (clear) and the maturing butterfly's dark veins show thru as 'black'. Mary checked it this morning (~10 am).

The chrysalis was 'black-ish', so assumed the pupae was dead. Obviously NOT!! Within the chrysalis, the maturing butterfly's dark veins were showing thru the clear chrysalis. At some point thereafter, the mature Monarch obviously exited the chrysalis and left a empty, clear chrysalis shell!! Just before dark a few minutes ago, Mary caught quick glimpse of a golden-orange butterfly in close vicinity of the garden.
