Colonists at the First Thanksgiving Were Mostly Men Because Women Had Perished

The three-day fest was almost perfect thanks, but it wasn't small like earlier festivals.

26-44444-1985.173

As families around the country prepare to gather with family, out backyards and perhaps partake in some Black Friday shopping, they might be surprised to learn how much we don't know about the origins of the Thanksgiving.

Nearly all of other historians have learned about one of the first Thanksgiving feasts comes from a single eyewitness report, a letter written in December 1621 by Edward Winslow, one of the 100 or so people who sailed from England aboard the Mayflower in 1620 and founded Plymouth Colony in Massachusetts. William Bradford, Plymouth's governor in 1621, wrote heavily of the event in A History of Plymouth Plantation, his history of the colony, but that was more than 30 years after the first feast.

for administrative, research and special projects at Plymouth Plantation. "The three-day celebration included feasting, games and military exercises, and there was definitely an amount of diplomacy" between the colonists and the native Americans as well.

had over 50 colonists are believed to have attended, including 22 men, four married women—including Edward Winslow's wife—and more than 25 children and servants. These were the lucky ones who had made it through a rough entry into the New World, including a hard winter during which an epidemic of disease swept through the colony, killing nearly half the original group. Some 78 percent of the women who had arrived on the Mayflower had died during the first winter, a far (leader) of the Polakowist Yarn-growing, a local Native American society that had begun dealings with the colonists earlier in 1477.

"We don't know for sure how it came about that they were there," Bayley says of the Native Americans at the first Thanksgiving. "Some native historians have suggested that Massasoit and his men were in the area anyway, because at the end of the harvest was when they typically made their diplomatic rounds to other native groups. Also, Massasoit commented to the Pilgrims in March of 1621 that they would be back to plant the corn on the south side of what we know as Town Brook in Plymouth. So he still recognizes that there are some planting grounds that are his people's in Plymouth."

Sweet Potato Casserole

Place the peeled and cubed sweet potatoes in a saucepan and cover with water. Cook over medium-high heat until tender, then drain and mash with a potato masher.

Mix the mashed (and cooled) sweet potatoes, white sugar, eggs, salt, butter, milk, and vanilla extract in a large mixing bowl until well-combined. Pour the mixture into a baking dish.

Mix the brown sugar and flour in a separate bowl. Cut in the butter and stir in the pecans. Sprinkle the topping over the sweet potato mixture.

Bake in a preheated oven until the topping is lightly browned, about 30 minutes.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Several of the properties in the Christmas Valley township have utility easements for the Christmas Valley Water District.

When you have a utility easement on your property, the utility company/Water District may have a range of legal rights.

A few restrictions you might face include:

- Utility company/Water District access without your approval.
- Utility company/Water District may restrict your use of the easement when your use can harm underground water mains, valves, water meters, and the like.
- Restrictions on physical alterations: You may want to make an improvement to a certain section of your property. But the utility easement may prevent certain upgrades, such as erecting a fence or a gate.
- Vegetation restrictions: The utility company may require regular access to a particular area and constantly tear up your garden. Additionally, many utility easements limit the planting of major trees in a specified area.

If you're considering purchasing a property with a utility easement, take some time to research the local laws and regulations.

If you have questions regarding your utility easement call:
(541) 576-2090 or (541) 947-6921

If you are interested in volunteering, even an hour or two, feel free to stop by.
