Lest We Forget

By Deana Landers

For seventeen days and seventeen nights, John McCrae, a soldier in World War I and a surgeon during the second battle of Ypres in Belgium, said that he and his comrades never took their clothes off or boots, except occasionally.

"In all that time while I was awake, gunfire and rifle fire never ceased for sixty seconds, he said. Behind all the noise, all we could see were sights of the dead, the wounded, the maimed, and the terrible anxiety lest the line should give way."

Lieutenant Colonel John McCrae was a soldier, physician, and poet. He was also the son of a military leader who grew up believing in fighting for his country.

His friend, Alexis Helmer, was killed during the battle on May 2. While McCrae was performing the burial service for his friend, he noticed the beautiful red Poppies that quickly grew around the graves of those who died at Ypres.

The seeds had scattered in the wind and sat dormant in the ground, only germinating when the land was disturbed, as it was by the fierce fighting of World War I.

The day after his friend's burial, McCrae composed the poem "In Flanders Fields." He wrote the poem in the voice of the dead soldiers. It speaks of their sacrifice and issues the challenge for the living to press on.

"In Flanders Fields"

by John McCrae, May 1915

*In Flanders Fields, the poppies blow
Between the crosses, row on row,
That mark our place; and in the sky
The larks, still bravely singing, fly
Scarce heard amid the guns below.
We are the Dead. Short days ago
We lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow,
Loved and were loved, and now we lie
In Flanders fields.
Take up our quarrel with the foe:
To you from falling hands, we throw
The torch; be yours to hold it high.
If ye break faith with us who die
We shall not sleep, though poppies grow
In Flanders fields.*

McCrae composed the poem while sitting in the back of an ambulance at an Advanced Dressing Station outside Ypres. This location today is known as the John McCrae Memorial Site.

I have always been amazed at how God uses nature to speak to our hearts.

In 1918, an American professor, Moina Michael, was so touched by McCrae's poem that she wrote a responsive poem to the fallen soldiers of Flanders Field.

She vowed to wear the poppy to remember all soldiers who have given their lives for our freedom. She became known as the Poppy Lady.

In 1971, Memorial Day was declared a national holiday by Congress, though it is still often called Decoration Day.

Other countries began to wear a single Poppy on Memorial Day and later included Veteran's Day to include all living and deceased veterans.

"We Shall Keep the Faith"

by Moina Michael, November 1918

*Oh! you who sleep in Flanders Fields,
Sleep sweet, to rise anew!
We caught the torch you threw.
And holding high, we keep the Faith
With All who died.
We cherish, too, the Poppy red.
That grows on fields where valor led;
It seems to signal to the skies
That blood of heroes never dies,
But lends a luster to the red
Of the flower that blooms above the dead
In Flanders Fields.
And now the Torch and Poppy Red
We wear in honor of our dead.
Fear not that ye have died for naught;
We'll teach the lesson that ye wrought
In Flanders Fields.*

The town of Marion, Virginia, adorns the front of the courthouse and beyond with the name of each fallen soldier on a small, sturdy white cross underneath patriotic American flags each Memorial Day. When you drive or walk by, you will see families with children and grandchildren looking through the flags or kneeling near the cross of a soldier who died in battle.

There are also crosses that read: "All gave some, Some gave all." "Some gave all" is why we celebrate Memorial Day; to honor our men and women who died in battle for our families, our lives, and our country.

It is the time of the year that we invite our children and grandchildren to visit. We want them to understand and remember the men and women who gave their lives for their freedom. And we want them to feel the challenge of pressing on, keeping the faith, and standing up for our freedoms.

To the fallen, we will continue to carry the torch.

When you have a utility easement on your property, the utility company/Water District may have a range of legal rights.

A few restrictions you might face include:

- Utility company/Water District access without your approval.
- Utility company/Water District may restrict your use of the easement when your use can harm underground water mains, valves, water meters, and the like.
- Restrictions on physical alterations: You may want to make an improvement to a certain section of your property. But the utility easement may prevent certain upgrades, such as erecting a fence or a gate.
- Vegetation restrictions: The utility company may require regular access to a particular area and constantly tear up your garden. Additionally, many utility easements limit the planting of major trees in a specified area.

If you're considering purchasing a property with a utility easement, take some time to research the local laws and regulations.

KCC celebrates Apprenticeship Center completion

KLAMATH FALLS — Across two days, Klamath Community College celebrated its latest campus addition with the public at open house events in recognition of the recently completed KCC Apprenticeship Center. A VIP tour for funders and project developers on Friday, May 5 served as a formal grand opening, completing a multi-year effort of fundraising and construction for the structure. The following day, the public was welcomed to tour the facility as part of an open house event.

Funded through grants and donations, the $11.5 million debt-free facility is the new home of numerous trade skill and apprenticeship programs. Programs already underway include manufacturing-related apprenticeship programs such as welding, carpentry, cement mason, drywall, electrical, interior/exterior specialist, millwright, painter, and plumbing, fire and emergency response, criminal justice and law enforcement, commercial truck driving, and heavy equipment training programs. Additional programs to utilize the facility are also in development, such as the planned 2024 launch of a well drilling specialist program.

The center is expected to serve as a hub of workforce training, a key to regional growth and infrastructure development for the Klamath Basin and beyond as demand continues to grow for skilled labor — particularly in construction.

Friday's formal opening included speeches by multiple key figures in the project's completion, and recognition of many who contributed. A formal group countdown culminated with flying confetti as KCC Board of Education Chair Kenneth DeCrans, Klamath County Commissioner Derrick DeGroot, KCC Foundation Chair Steve Tippin, and Foundation Committee co-chair Jean Pinniger were given the honors to press the button officially opening the structure.

Dr. Roberto Gutierrez, KCC president and one of the longest-tenured higher education administrators in Oregon, emphasized to a crowd on Friday the importance of hands-on learning experiences for both adult apprenticeship and trade skill programs as well as pre-apprenticeship high school programs that have partnered with KCC.

"One of the benefits of longevity with a president is that they can not only set the vision but see the outcome," said Gutierrez. "This has taken many years, but now I get to see the outcome — that is priceless to me. What we are doing here is an indication that common people in this part of Oregon can achieve uncommon and extraordinary results."

Planning for the KCC Apprenticeship Center began nearly seven years ago, with construction for the project completed on budget and on time. It features a variable-use open floor space, dedicated welding and manufacturing labs, modern equipment, ample room for fire trucks and an ambulance, classrooms, a student study area with computer access, instructor office space, and in the training yard — a four-story fire tower. It also houses a pristinely restored antique 1949 fire truck on display at the main entrance.

Current workforce projections indicate that over the next 10 years there will be a need to fill more than 2,400 construction and manufacturing-related positions in the East Cascades region alone. During the same time frame, the number jumps to 21,800 jobs needed across Oregon.

"This community has given well over a million dollars for this project, and all who contributed are a part of this building," said Pinniger. "I believe this building will be one of the keys to Klamath Falls to stabilize and grow our economy.” The Apprenticeship Center marks the first permanent home for many of its trade skill programs, which previously had to share space or operate offsite. Until recently, the KCC welding program was hosted at Oregon Tech’s campus, while much of the firefighter training took place at Klamath County Fire District 1 stations. “It’s great knowing my co-workers will go through these apprenticeship programs and that we are going to have the best quality apprentices in the state,” said DeCrans. “I am happy to see that our programs will finally have a real home.”

Apprenticeship programs typically span four years – a partnership between KCC and regional businesses to train employees working toward state certification in a number of construction and contracting fields. “Building a community is a team sport,” added DeGroot. “The progress we have made (in Klamath County) is astounding, and it takes leadership like what we are seeing at KCC to get that done.” For more information about KCC apprenticeship and trade skill programs visit www.klamathcc.edu

Christmas Valley Park and Recreation District's First Gymkhana/Play Day of the 2023 Season

The first 2023 Gymkhana/Play Day event of the season was held on Saturday, May 13th. The weather was great and there were 30 riders participating. The leadline category had six little riders and the mom's, sister's, and grandma's all got their workout leading their little ones through each of the obstacles in each class.

This year the Rodeo Grounds Committee has added a new class. A flag race. All of the participants and their horses did great!

As always CVPR puts the Play in "Play Day" and if a horse or child needed schooling through one of the classes, allowances were made to school without time or any points towards the five part buckle series.

The next Gymkhana/Play Day is scheduled for June 10th, 2023. Sign ups start at 8:45 and the Opening Ceremonies and Events begin at 10:00 a.m.. Volunteers and spectators are welcome.

This year we would like all spectators to use the North side of the Arena and the participants will use the South side of the arena, as usual, to park their trailers and tend to their horses, etc.

We appreciate our volunteers, our spectators, and our participants immensely! Thank you ALL!

ADRC

Aging and Disability
Resource Connection
of OREGON

NO WRONG DOOR

The first contact to make for information and resources related to aging or living with a disability

What are ADRCs?

ADRCs provide information and services to seniors, people with disabilities, their families and caregivers regardless of income. With a statewide searchable database, consumers are able to access over 6,000 resources: www.ADRCoOregon.org. There is also a statewide toll free number:

1-855-ORE-ADRC (1-855-673-2372).

It is one name, one number, and one website to make it easier for Oregonians to find the information and help they need.

ADRC Core Services:

- Information, referral and awareness
- Options counseling and assistance
- Access to public and privately funded long-term care programs
- Prevention and early intervention

The ADRC for Lake County is the Klamath and Lake Counties Council on Aging.
