Where did April Fools' Day come from? History behind the holiday's origins

Catherine Messier, USA TODAY NETWORK - New England

With March coming to an end, it is almost time for April Fools' Day.

Celebrated annually on April 1, the holiday is known for its pranks, jokes and laughs, whether shared in real life or over social media. Today, the tradition is celebrated all around the world by people of all different ages, but exactly when and how did the custom start?

Here's a brief history of how April Fools' Day came to be.

When did April Fools' Day start? While it is widely believed that April Fools' Day may have roots back in ancient Rome or Britain, clear references to the April tradition do not appear until the late Middle Ages, according to Stephen Winick of the Library of Congress' American Folklife Center.

The first straightforward reference to April Fools' Day comes from a 1561 Flemish poem by Eduard De Dene, which describes a servant realizing a nobleman sent him on "fool's errands" because it was April 1. This poem tells that April Fools' Day was likely established in the 1500s, but exactly how the holiday started remains unclear.

One popular theory is that the tradition started when France changed their calendar from Julian to Gregorian, thus changing the celebration of a new year from late March to January 1 – a transition that swept the country throughout the 1500s and was officially signed into law by King Charles IX in 1564.

According to legend, those who failed to recognize the change of the new year continued to celebrate in late March and early April, leading others to call them "April fools" and pull pranks. In this theory, early versions of April Fools' pranks included sending foolish gifts and invitations to non-existent parties.

Over the years, the tradition of April Fools' Day has grown into spreading misinformation or pulling harmless pranks on friends, family or colleagues.

The rise of social media and the internet also allows for many viral April Fools' Day pranks, whether from a celebrity, company or news outlet. Viral April Fools' hoaxes from recent years include Dunkin' changing its name to Donuts' and actor Chris Pratt announcing he would voice Mickey Mouse in an upcoming Disney film.

Over the years, countless pranks have fooled the masses, sometimes with hilarious and even controversial results. Here are some of the most famous April Fools' Day hoaxes:

The Swiss Spaghetti Harvest (1957) – The BBC aired a hoax report claiming that Swiss farmers had successfully grown spaghetti trees. Viewers were so convinced that many called in, asking how they could grow their own spaghetti at home.

The Erupting Volcano (1974) – A prankster in Alaska set a fire atop Mount Edgumbe, tricking residents of Sitka into believing the long-dormant volcano was erupting.

The Pi Recalculation Hoax (1988) – A man posted a satirical article claiming that Alabama's state legislature had passed a law redefining pi as exactly 3.0 to align with biblical principles. The state received hundreds of outraged phone calls.

Richard Nixon's "Re-Election" (1992) – National Public Radio's "Talk of the Nation" program announced Richard Nixon, who in 1974 became the only U.S. president to resign from office, was running for president again, claiming, "I never did anything wrong, and I won't do it again." Listeners were horrified—until they realized it was a joke.

The Taco Liberty Bell (1996) – Taco Bell ran full-page newspaper ads declaring it had purchased the Liberty Bell and was renaming it the "Taco Liberty Bell." Angry calls flooded both the company and the National Park Service before the prank was revealed.

The first day of April remains a time for laughter, surprise, and a little bit of good-natured deception — whether it's a simple joke among friends or a corporate prank that goes viral.

So, if you find yourself the target of a prank this year, just remember to take it in stride. After all, it's tradition!

What is a Meteorological Evaluation Tower (MET)?

MET towers collect meteorological and environmental information.

They are equipped with specialized sensors and instruments to measure:

Wind speed

Wind direction

Temperature

Barometric pressure

These measurements help assess the wind resource potential and determine the feasibility of a wind energy project. Some MET towers are also equipped with instruments to measure local bat populations. As the data is collected, it is transmitted through a cellular network.

Alfred (JERRY) Freeman

March 26, 1938 ~ February 27, 2025

Alfred Jerry Freeman of Christmas Valley, died February 27, 2025 at his home surrounded by family at the age of 86.

Jerry and his wife Jolene moved to Christmas Valley 25 years ago, not long after Jerry retired as a backhoe operator for PG&E and others, a profession he held for 43 years. He was known as Backhoe Jerry.

Jerry was not one to sit around and so used his skill as a master backhoe operator to do work for George Schmidt. And then to prevent boredom he also worked for Warkentine Farms, swathing, checking pivots and other tasks as needed.

A long-time member of the "Early Bird (unofficial) Coffee Club" he enjoyed early morning visits with fellow area retirees.

An avid lover of the out of doors, Jerry enjoyed hunting, fishing, occasional target practice and sage rat shooting. He was a farm boy at heart.

Jerry greatly enjoyed exploring the vastness of the high desert on a quad or in the side-by-side and the same held true for the deserts of the southwest on winter sojourns to Arizona.

Jerry is survived by his wife Jolene with whom he shared his life for 64

Years; Son, Jerry Don Freeman of Klamath Falls; Son, Alan Ray Freeman of Salem and his wife Tami; Brothers Cecil (Dean) Freeman and Larry (Dusty) Freeman; In-laws, Carol Hamil and Bill Erwin, and four grandchildren, eight great grandchildren and one great-great grandchild.

A celebration of Jerry's life will take place at 11:00 AM on May 17, 2025 at the Christmas Valley Community Church (87921 Christmas Valley Highway, Christmas Valley, Oregon).

There will be a Pot Luck to follow in the Fellowship Hall. Please contact the church office at 541-567-2757 for additional details.

Jolene has requested that contributions be made to the La Pine Hospice in Jerry's name. She says they were wonderful and enabled Jerry to spend his end of life transition in the home he loved with the people he loved and who loved him.

These bunny cinnamon rolls—made with only a tube of pre-made cinnamon rolls and some candy—are seriously too cute for words. They're the perfect centerpiece for an Easter brunch or delightful for a sweet surprise on a weekend morning. Once they're baked and sufficiently iced, call in the help of tiny hands to decorate the sweet little cinnamon roll bunny creations.

Ingredients for Bunny Cinnamon Rolls

Cinnamon rolls: A package of premade cinnamon rolls (with icing included!) makes these cinnamon roll bunnies incredibly easy to pull off. If you're more of a purist, you can certainly form the bunnies with homemade cinnamon rolls.

Candies: If you're making these bunny cinnamon rolls around Easter time, then you most likely have some pastel candies lying about. Press jelly beans, Robin Eggs or M&M's into the faces to create noses or eyes. Or, use drops of food coloring or decorating gel.

Step 1: Make the bodies
Preheat the oven to 400°F. Pop open the cinnamon roll tube and separate the precut dough into eight rolls. Place four of the rolls on a greased baking sheet.

Step 2: Cut the ears and bow ties
Using a 2-inch biscuit cutter, cut 3/4 inch into each side of each of the remaining rolls. The cuts are for the ears, and the leftover pieces are the bow ties.

Step 3: Attach the pieces
Add the ears and bow ties to the cinnamon roll bunny bodies, pinching to attach. Press the cinnamon rolls slightly to flatten.

Step 4: Bake the cinnamon rolls
Bake the cinnamon rolls until they're golden brown, 8 to 10 minutes.

Step 5: Decorate the bunnies
Open the included container of icing and spread the icing over the bunnies. Feel free to tint a portion of the icing pink with food coloring if desired. Let your creativity shine (and maybe gather the help of some tiny hands!), and decorate each cinnamon roll bunny with candies and gel.
